OPEN DRIVE TO CHANGE DEBATE RULE IN SENATE

Long's Filibuster Hit by Robinson.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—A proposal by Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas to put an end to free debate in the senate as a result of Huey Long's filibuster Monday night today brought protests from both parties. Predictions were made that it would have the same fate as a similar proposal made by Vice President Charles G. Dawes upon his inauguration in 1925.

Continuing to place full responsibility upon Long for wrecking the New Deal's social security program for the next four months, Robinson said the Louisiana dictator had "disgusted the senate and country." Meanwhile President Roosevelt repeated opinions expressed by his congressional leaders that grants in aid to states for old age pensions, aid to the blind, aid to dependent and crippled children, maternal and child welfare services, etc., could not be made until the next session of congress because of the killing of the 103 million dollar third deficiency bill.

Hope to Defiate Huey.

There were strong indications that the administration leaders were indulging in a good deal of political window dressing for the purpose of aiding Senator Robinson's 1936 campaign and deflating whatever efforts Long might make against the campaign of President Roosevelt. Observers pointed out that only 76 million dollars was carried in the deficiency bill for the social security activities for the 1936 fiscal year, which would mean about 25 millions necessary before the meeting of the next session Jan. 3.

It is recalled also that the administration has about 1½ billion in unexpended balances aside from the 4 billion dollar works fund and the resources of the RFC, and that last winter, when the senate held up the works relief bill, Harry L. Hopkins managed somehow to scare up 150 millions a month for relief allocations.

Senator Robinson, who left on an automobile trip, did not explain the nature of the proposed change in the rules, but said it would be designed to put an end to the "one-man filibuster."

"The filibuster," he said, "has disgusted the senate and country. Suffering and great inconvenience will result. There will be presented at the beginning of the next session an amendment to the rules designed to forestall another such."

Southerners Cry Objections.

Objections were raised immediately by southern senators in Robinson's own party, who recalled that their filibuster alone prevented the passage at the session just ended of the Wagner-Costigan anti-lynching bill. Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], who warned Long during his talk Monday night that it might result in "the end of free speech in the senate," nevertheless hedged when confronted with Robinson's statement today.

Senator Black, who participated in the anti-lynching bill filibuster, declared:

"Heretofore I have always favored full freedom of debate in the senate. It may be that Senator Robinson will propose an amendment to the rules that would take care of a specific situation without endangering that freedom. But I would have to see his proposal before I would indorse it."

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] objected vigorously to the Robinson proposal, pointing out that the filibuster by Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] against the "flood control" pork measure last Friday night saved the taxpayers half a billion dollars.

Will Fight Cloture Rule.

Senator Borah declared:

"I have been here twenty-eight years and have never taken part in a filibuster. I do not speak therefore as one with a guilty conscience. I am unalterably opposed to cloture. It is like Thomas Jefferson said about a free press: 'A free press has its evils, but a controled press is infinitely worse. Free debate has its evils, but controled debate is intolerable.'

"Controled debate in both houses would simply be a national disaster. Free debate has killed many a bad piece of legislation and saved millions of dollars to the taxpayers. Where

Mystery Surrounds the Discovery.

A body identified by federal agents as that of John Hamilton, criminal associate of John Dillinger and the last of the notorious Dillinger gang, was found late yesterday in a shallow grave on the edge of a gravel pit near the town of Oswego in Kendall county, six miles south of Aurora.

Buried for more than a year—probably by Dillinger himself—the body was unearthed by agents of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, who acted on information the source of which they did not disclose. Hamilton's grave was a bare two feet under ground, about 150 feet from Illinois highway 25, a mile north of Oswego.

Bullet Wound Key to Slaying.

There were three fragments of a bullet in the body. The shot apparently had penetrated the small of the back near the spine and cracked into three parts. In the caliber of the bullet, which came from a .306 repeating rifle, the investigators hoped to find the key to the mystery of where Hamilton received the fatal wound and from whom.

Evidences of lye were found on the hands and face and a tin lid that might have come from a can of lye was discovered with the body. It was the belief of agents that the persons who buried Hamilton sought with the lye to destroy the body. It was clothed in a dark blue suit. Shoes were on the feet and a gray felt hat was still jammed on the skull.

The right hand of the man was missing and apparently had been burned off in the effort to conceal identity. One of Hamilton's distinguishing marks was a missing index finger of the right hand. However, the clothing and a bullet wound in the neck corroborated the belief that the buried man actually was Dillinger's aid.

Horseshoe Lying on Body.

Lying on the body when it was unearthed was a horseshoe, indicating that those who dug the grave wished to give the departed comrade the assistance, in his postmundane wanderings, of a luck talisman.

Mystery surrounded the circumstances of the discovery. The first announcement that the body had been found came from J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation in Washington. It was two hours before the authorities of Oswego and Kendall county were notified.

Later it was learned from farmers in the neighborhood that men were observed working in the vicinity of the grave as long ago as last Sunday and the agents who found the body admitted that they had been digging at various points in the area for two days.

Taken into Oswego, where an inquest will be convened today, the body was placed in the J. B. Thorsen undertaking establishment. Dr. F. M. Groner, coroner of Kendall county, and agents headed by their Chicago chief, Daniel Ladd, made an examination which resulted in discovery of the bullet fragments.

Grass Gives Agents Clew.

The grave was on land owned by Mrs. Augusta Shoger. Several months ago scores of men were working within fifteen feet of it, enlarging an underpass of the Fox river branch of the Burlington railroad. The grass and weeds above the grave apparently gave agents their clew. The growth was much shorter there than in the adjacent area.

Announcement of the finding of Hamilton's body concludes the bloody history of the Dillinger gang and—providing the identification is authentic—sets at rest conflicting reports as to whether Hamilton was dead or alive. Rumors of his death have predominated and months ago the federal men searched through quarries in Wisconsin, north of Galena, Ill., on information that Hamilton's body was buried there. Another story was that his body had been secreted in a limekiln.

Three Theories on Death.

There have been three theories as to where Hamilton met his death.

One of these favors the contention that he was fatally wounded on Jan. 16, 1934, when Dillinger and other members of the mob held up

THE RISING TIDE

(Picture on Back Page.)

The east tower of the Sky Ride, the last imposing landmark of A Century of Progress Exposition, will topple to earth at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager of the Exposition, announced yesterday that the Barker-Goldman-Lubin company, wrecking contractors, had completed arrangements to down the 728 foot steel giant, whose twin was dynamited on June 8.

Basing their estimate on the number of persons on hand at the early morning hour when the first tower was wrecked, officials expect a crowd of 100,000 to view tomorrow's spectacle.

To still any apprehensions of property owners in the vicinity of the fair property, Maj. Lohr said that the crash of the east tower will not break windows, as did the destruction of the west tower. The dynamite broke the windows, but no explosion will attend tomorrow's fall.

Will Burn Away Supports.

Thermite, a mixture of aluminum and iron oxide, will burn away ten foot sections of the north legs of the east tower and it will fall to the north, in the direction of the Adler planetarium.

The west tower was dropped by a combination of cable pull and dynamite. Its rear cables were cut and the tremendous pull from the east, coupled with force of the dynamite, sent it to the earth.

All buildings on Northerly Island to the north of the east tower have been cleared away.

Brick retorts ten feet high have been constructed about the base of the tower's north legs. These will be filled with 750 pounds of thermite. The chemical looks much like flashlight powder.

Ignited by Electricity.

When all is ready electric current will ignite the thermite. In thirty seconds it will attain a heat of 5,000 degrees, destroying the base of the steel legs. This, for a period of seconds, will leave the tower standing alone on its south legs. Then the 1,500 ton giant will topple and crash upon the island.

Maj. Lohr emphasized that extraordinary precautions will be taken to keep the public outside the fair property during the crash.

The wrecking company and officials of the Chicago park district will make certain that no persons are on the island, and thus in danger of losing their lives, before the tower is wrecked. This was emphasized by Maj. Lohr. If persons elude the police and are caught, the wrecking will be held up until they are taken off the island.

500 Police to Be on Hand.

Traffic officials from all city transit companies and representatives of the Chicago park district, the city police department, and A Century of Progress met late yesterday in the office of Otto K. Jelinek, traffic engineer for the park district, to outline plans for handling the huge crowd they expect to witness the event. Five hundred police from the city, the parks, and the former World's Fair police force will be on hand. Coast guardsmen will patrol the shore line of Northerly Island to keep private boats at a safe distance, according to Jelinek.

The tower and a portion of the Travel and Transport building are about the only remains of the great exposition visible from outside the grounds. The Barker-Goldman-Lubin company must complete the wrecking by Sept. 30.

MUSSOLINI PUTS ETHIOPIAN CASE BEFORE WORLD

Claims He Has Right to Colonize Africa.

War Preparations

PARIS.—French cabinet authorizes Premier Laval to oppose any action by the league of nations to use economic force against Italy as a means of stopping an Italo-Ethiopian war. It instructs Laval to pursue a policy at the league meeting on Sept. 4 designed to keep for France the friendship of both Italy and Britain. Page 2.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Italy placed its case against Ethiopia before the world tonight with a warning to England that sanctions (economic penalties) mean "gravest complications," but an assurance that British imperial rights are not menaced by Italy's Ethiopian program.

After an extraordinary meeting near the mimic battlefields of Bolzano Premier Mussolini's cabinet proclaimed that Italy would set forth the Ethiopian problem "in all its crude reality" before the Sept. 4 session of the league of nations council and defend its policy "to the very last."

The cabinet—in which Mussolini holds eight posts, a majority—issued fundamental economic decrees to finance a prospective war with Ethiopia.

War Measures Listed.

These provisions include: Forcible conversion of foreign credit held by Italians into Italian government bonds; limitation of dividends of companies to 6 per cent; a 10 per cent tax upon dividends, and a transformation of all automobiles and trucks into charcoal gas burning vehicles so as to save gasoline.

The cabinet presented the world with the following main points:

1. Italy will go to the league with documentation to prove Ethiopia is "retrograde and slave holding."

2. "Italy intends to defend her interests of life up to the very last."

3. "Great Britain has nothing to fear from Italy's policy toward Ethiopia."

4. "The Fascist government thinks the colonial question should not reflect upon the European situation unless some one wants to run that risk."

5. Sanctions may lead to "the most serious complications," but the Fascist government has already taken the necessary measures to face them.

TEXT OF COMMUNIQUE

The text of the communique issued by the Italian cabinet, after listing the ministers present at the session, follows:

"The council of ministers then heard a report made by the head of the government on the international situation. He communicated that Italy will be present at the meeting of the league of nations council fixed for Sept. 4.

"She will be present in order to set forth the Ethiopian problem in all its crude reality so that not only the council but the world can finally realize it exactly.

"Italy will present above all a declaration which fixes her position in regard to the Ethiopian problem.

Plans History of Relations.

"A more extensive memorandum will follow which will be a political and diplomatic history of the 50 years' relationship between Italy and Ethiopia, and likewise between Italy and bordering European powers.

"It will be clear that from the treaty of Uccialli [in 1889] there were always recognized to Italy rights of colonial priority in Ethiopia.

"This memorandum will be accompanied by small but most recent and well chosen literature by English, German and French writers, depicting Ethiopia as she is in her

ORDERS 500 YEAR CANDLE TO MARK DIVA'S RECOVERY

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A white haired 75 year old artist, who has manufactured some of the finest scented candles in the world, disclosed tonight he has received an order for a giant candle, to burn 500 years, as a symbol of gratitude to the saints for bringing Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, operatic soprano, safely through a recent throat operation in Chicago.

The artist, Antonio Ajello, also said he has received an order for another huge candle from "a Miss—an unmarried woman"—to be erected in memory of the late Russ Columbo, dance orchestra leader, that would burn for 1,000 years.

Ajello said he received the orders from two Beverly Hills, Cal., women within two hours of each other, but he declined to reveal their identity.

He expressed belief he would not be able to fill either of the orders because of demands for Christmas and Easter candles from his foreign customers.

2½ Million in Insurance Paid to Mrs. Rogers

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Edward McCullough, local attorney who said he represented Lloyd's, London insurance brokers, announced today he had delivered a check for 2½ million dollars to Mrs. Will Rogers, representing a special insurance policy on the life of the late comedian.

The policy was reported to have carried the high premium of 4 per cent, or $100,000 annually, and was said to have been issued eight years ago.

Previous estimates of the estate of Rogers, killed with Wiley Post in an Alaskan air crash, had ranged around 2½ millions without counting the Lloyd's policy.

Hitherto friends of the actor said his policy with Lloyd's was for $250,000.

Leaves All to Wife.

The last will and testament of the actor was filed for probate here this afternoon. It leaves everything to his wife, Mrs. Betty Blake Rogers. It was dated Aug. 3.

The value of his holdings was stated as "more than $10,000."

The will, superseding other testaments, was made out by the cowboy-philosopher just two days before he flew to Seattle to join Wiley Post on the Alaska flight which ended in their deaths.

In the opening paragraph of the will, Rogers specifically mentioned his children, Will Rogers Jr., Mary Rogers, and James Rogers.

Exclusive of insurance and real estate, possessions of the actor included money, travelers' checks, household furnishings, automobiles, personal effects, tractors, horses, and ranch equipment.

Children Share Next.

The will, which was typewritten, said in part:

"I, Will Rogers, devise and bequeath all of my property, both community and otherwise, unto my said wife, Betty Rogers. In the event she shall not survive me I give, devise, and bequeath all my estate to said children, share and share alike, provided that if any of said children shall predecease me I give, devise, and bequeath my estate to the remaining children, share and share alike."

Executors were named as Oscar Lawler, O. N. Beasley, and James K. Blake, with Mrs. Rogers as devisee. The petition for probate was filed in the names of these four.

HE'S FINED FOR BEING INNOCENT —OF GARMENTS!

Robert Lloyd, 43 years old, rather vaguely described as a Chicagoan, strolled past the summer home of Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana at Dunes state park on Tuesday. His gait was leisurely and his mien was placid. Still there was one thing remarkable about Mr. Lloyd at the time; he was entirely bereft of garments.

Mrs. McNutt called the Indiana state police, who hurried to the scene and seized Mr. Lloyd. Hastily clad in a pair of old trousers, he was hurried to Valparaiso. Yesterday he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Kenneth J. Wolfe. In the courtroom there was conversation as follows:

Q.—You a nudist? A.—Not by choice.

Q.—How's that? A.—Well, I went swimming and somebody stole all my clothes.

Justice of the Peace Wolfe considered.

"Guess it will cost you $17.75," he said.

The state police hadn't put any funds in the pockets of the trousers and Lloyd went to jail until the money to pay could be sent to him.

FATHER AGAIN ASKS PARDON FOR WINNIE R. JUDD

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The Rev. H. J. McKinnell, former minister of Darlington, Ind., made another attempt today to get a pardon for his daughter, Winnie Ruth Judd.

Mrs. Judd was convicted of slaying Miss Agnes Anne Leroy and was sentenced to hang. A jury, however, adjudged her insane and she now is an inmate of the asylum.

The crime for which Mrs. Judd was convicted was discovered in Los Angeles when detectives opened baggage containing the bodies of Miss Leroy and Miss Hedvig Samuelson.

Senator William H. King Breaks Ankle in Fall

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] fell tonight at his home and suffered a broken bone in his right ankle, which physicians said would keep him confined for three weeks. King was working on the steps at his home when he turned his ankle and fell. The senator expressed confidence he would be able to sail to the Philippines with the congressional delegation to be led by Vice President Garner.

The storm spread over a wide area on the main island, from Hiroshimai to Tokio. The rains inundated 14,000 houses at Osaka and 9,900 at Kobe.

"Italy intends to defend her thesis, her needs, her necessities of security and her interests of life up to the very last and every member of the cabinet assumes his responsibilities in the face of tomorrow's eventualities.

"After having depicted the attitude of some British currents of opinion, the head of the government declared that Great Britain has nothing to fear from the Italian policy toward Ethiopia.

"Italy's policy does not menace either directly or indirectly England's imperial interests, wherefore the malicious alarm excited in some circles is simply absurd.

"Italy has a question to settle with Ethiopia; she does not have and does not wish to have questions with Great Britain, with whom during the world war, later at Locarno and recently at Stresa, there was effected collaboration of undoubted importance for European stability.

"The Fascist government thinks her colonial question should not have reactions on the European situation unless one wishes to run the danger of letting loose a new world war in order to prevent a great power like Italy from bringing order to a vast country where the most atrocious slavery and the most primitive conditions of existence reign.

"As to the problem of sanctions which the league might be asked to approve, the cabinet declares to the Italian people and other peoples that to speak of sanctions means to take a place on an inclined plane from which to shoot off into the gravest complications.

Argues Against Sanctions.

"The Fascist government believes, nevertheless, that it will find in the league council a group of responsible and wise men ready to repulse every hateful dangerous proposal of sanctions against a nation such as Italy, men capable also of remembering that in previous much more serious cases the league of nations did not vote, and even less could have applied, sanctions of whatever nature.

"In any event, the Fascist government fulfills its precise duty by making known to the Italian people that the problem of sanctions has been examined by the highest military authorities of the régime under all aspects and that as regards eventual sanctions of a bellic nature, decisions and measures necessary to enface them have been taken already some time ago.

"In view of possible future eventualities and in order to guarantee our economic resistance, problems of what is required for the necessities of national life have been examined.

Claims Good Crops.

"Food requirements are published by crops of the present agricultural year, which are particularly abundant for wheat and rice.

"In regard to requirements of an industrial nature, the cabinet decided consumption of a civil nature must give way to that required by the military exigencies of the present and future.

"On the basis of these necessities the minister of finance proposed that the cabinet approve the following provisions:

"First—Obligatory overturning of foreign credits and obligatory conversion of foreign securities and Italian securities issued abroad into nine year 5 per cent treasury bonds.

Provision for Confiscation.

"A law approved establishes that the overturning of credits and securities must be made through the National Institute of Foreign Exchange.

"Credits will be given up in exchange for payment in lira cash at the rate of exchange on the date of publication of this decree.

"Foreign securities will be computed on the basis of quotations of the same date.

"For Italian securities issued abroad, the quotation of Dec. 8, 1934, has been deemed equitable in order to eliminate the loss which bearers otherwise would suffer from the notable drop in quotations which followed.

"Securities will be exchanged for treasury 5 per cent nine year bonds whose issue is hereby authorized up to the amount of securities overturned.

"Second—Temporary limitation of dividends of commercial corporations and companies. This provision is taken in consideration of the economic development of commercial and industrial activities as a result of the exceptional present situation and toward the end of reinforcing the condition of corporations and commercial organizations.

"It establishes that for three years every company of industrial or commercial scope cannot distribute a dividend of over 6 per cent. Where, however, in the last three years dividends of over 6 per cent were distributed, it is possible to pay a dividend equal to the average of three years.

"Third—A tax on dividends and interest. This decree institutes a 10 per cent tax on dividends and interest.

"Fourth—Use of substitute fuels. The cabinet approved a decree establishing that all automobiles used in public transport of passengers must be furnished with motors burning charcoal gas or other gasoline substitutes."

Newest Italian Encyclopedia Sheds Light on Ethiopian Row

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The first completed volumes of the new Encyclopedia Italiano which have recently been received in American libraries contain a 50 page article on Ethiopia that is receiving the scrutiny of those who are anxious to know the Italian attitude toward that "last free corner of Africa." As the encyclopedia, a work of scholars replete with fine maps and art, contains an article by Mussolini himself on the Fascist state, it would appear to have official sanction.

While the Ethiopian article appears to be confined to factual and historical data, the accompanying maps may have a significance in view of the present efforts in the chancelleries of Europe to avert an Italian-Ethiopian war.

Boundary Lines Missing.

These maps show no boundaries between the Italian colony of Eritrea and Ethiopia. There are two maps with boundary lines strangely missing, although the text of the article on Eritrea asserts that its boundary line lies sixty kilometers from the sea. As the encyclopedia has been under preparation for several years it would indicate that in the Italian mind there is as yet no boundary inland from its colony on the Red sea, but that it is something for war or a new treaty to decide.

Prof. Melville J. Herskovits of the department of anthropology of Northwestern university and Prof. Alpheus Smith of the English department are to lecture on the peoples and history of Ethiopia on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand program over W-G-N next Sunday morning. Prof. Herskovits is an Africanist, although his researches have been devoted to the west coast. Prof. Smith has made a study of the history of the country.

History of Country Traced.

The history of Ethiopia extends back 5,000 years. It is related in Herodotus that the Persians were defeated in an invasion there. They expelled the Turks in the early part of the 16th century. The Phoenicians, the Portuguese, the Jesuits in the 17th century, the Arabians and Egyptians, all have played a part in the contact with these warriors and isolationists.

Its religious history is particularly interesting. It is founded in Judaism and the sacred books of its priests tell of a visit of Sheba, its queen, to the court of Solomon. The result of this visit was a son, Menelik I., from whom the present rulers take their descent.

It is further told in tradition that Menelik visited his father, King Solomon, and that Solomon gave him a replica of the ark of the covenant. Not satisfied with a replica, it is said that Menelik substituted the replica for the original, took it back to Abyssinia, where it is now guarded in an underground chamber in a temple of the sacred city of Axum.

Religion Is a Mixture.

The Abyssinians, or Ethiopians, as they are now known, became an "island of Christianity" standing against Islam and paganism. Their Christianity is of the early sect, a mixture of paganism and the earliest traditions of the church.

It is said that St. Matthew visited there in 30 A. D. Another story, related by Father Francis Alverez in the 16th century, is that an Axum eunuch was baptised by St. Philip in Jerusalem in 35 A. D. and carried the new religion back to his native land. Today it is said that one-third of the land belongs to the church and that there are a million priests.

Children of Slaves Now Free.

Slavery has existed in Ethiopia for thousands of years, but the policy of the present emperor is to let it die out in the present generation. No barter in slaves is now permitted and the children of slaves are free.

England's interest in the present situation is protection of cotton lands in the Sudan and Egypt, watered by the Nile. The headquarters of the Blue Nile lie in upper Ethiopia at Lake Tana, altitude 5,265 feet. In 1902 Great Britain made a treaty with Menelik II. in which it was agreed that there would be no construction on the Blue Nile or in the lake which would hinder the flow of water toward the Nile, "without the agreement of his Brittanic majesty and the Sudan."

4 SCANDINAVIAN NATIONS UNITE IN PLEA FOR PEACE

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The foreign ministers of four Scandinavian countries broadcast a simultaneous appeal for peace tonight in the capitals of Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Finland. They took the step after a seven hour meeting in which they inaugurated a conference designed to map out a "united Nordic front" at the league of nations council meeting on the Ethiopian crisis on Sept. 4.

Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht of Norway declared in the appeal:

"Though our moral influences probably are small in the present situation, Scandinavia should be heard because we do not have egotistic interests.

"It is most regrettable that some lands are deprived of public opinion because censorship has obliterated freedom of the press and of speech. Yet many people in these lands strongly want peace between theirs and other lands.

"We agree that a new war means the ruin of European civilization and, therefore, though we are weak, we raise our voice for peace and justice."

The other foreign ministers issued similar and supporting statements.

FRANCE TO FIGHT USE OF FORCE AGAINST ITALY

Cabinet Acts to Retain Mussolini's Friendship.

PARIS, Aug. 28.— (AP) —Premier Pierre Laval's design for removing the war clouds from Europe by giving a new name to the Italo-Ethiopian situation other than "war" won him today the French cabinet's authority to proceed freely at the league of nations' meeting at Geneva on Sept. 4.

Hhe obtained approval to place France's safety above the possibility of an Ethiopian war.

The cabinet heard him for four hours. Then it voted him a "free hand," told him he could go as far as to oppose any suggestion of sanctions or threats of force and made one request—that he try to save for France the friendship of both Italy and Great Britain.

Plan "Lesser of Several Evils."

It was the longest cabinet session in years. Laval, who had tried to compose British and Italian differences of viewpoint in the unsuccessful tripartite conversations, and since then, had continued his efforts to avoid the danger of war by talking to the Italian and British ambassadors to France, explained his efforts and offered his plan as "one of the least of several evils."

He was pessimistic, an informant said, about the chance of effecting a peaceful settlement of the East African situation, but was confident the spread of war to Europe, if war comes, can be prevented.

Prompted by "German Menace."

Officials explained, after the cabinet meeting, that the "German menace" is spurring the premier to utmost efforts to maintain the three-power front, in which France, Britain, and Italy have been allied. He seeks also, they said, to save the prestige of the league of nations.

These officials explained that France must subordinate her sympathy for Ethiopia's plight to her concern for endangered Europe, and that a breakdown of the Stresa, or three power, front would be a disaster to avert which many sacrifices are justified.

Order Army Council to London.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Senior members of the British army council have been ordered by the war office to remain in the vicinity of London, a military source said tonight. Foreign military quarters considered it a precautionary move. No official statement was issued.

At the same time the British Independent Socialist party called upon organized labor to exert every effort to thwart Mussolini's African program. There was a possibility labor organizations throughout Europe would act through general strikes and boycotts to combat Italy in the event of war.

When the league council meets next week, it was learned from informed quarters, Britain formally will renew an Anglo-French offer to give Italy wide economic and partial administrative control of Ethiopia.

If Mussolini again rejects the offer, which was first made during the tri-power conversations in Paris, many circles expect the British government then will try to line up league members for action under the covenant.

Beginning its preliminary work in this matter, the government has started sounding other nations and there was a procession of diplomatic representatives at the foreign office all day, including the ambassadors and ministers from France, Belgium, Spain, Holland, and Latvia.

See Way to Blame Ethiopia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Premier Mussolini's recent pronouncements that he does not mean to make war on Ethiopia but only to conduct "police operations" attracted attention here today. It is hoped this scheme may point a way out for the powers to preserve the league and even to place the onus of war on Ethiopia should it resist "legitimate frontier police work" by the Italians to protect their boundaries and nationals.

This, of course, is a cynical view, but in the view of public opinion, both British and French, anything would be better than war. Hope is also founded on the announcement of the Italians that they will lay before the league a long and thoroughly documented statement of their case against Ethiopia as a treaty breaker and disturber of the peace.

British Strengthen Garrisons.

If this is strong enough it may also provide a way out, and if Premier Mussolini is handled gently it is thought he may accept large concessions from Ethiopia in payment for her alleged misdeeds and stop short of war.

Meantime, Great Britain is going on steadily reinforcing her garrisons in Egypt, the Sudan, and the eastern Mediterranean.

It was learned today that it has been decided to send drafts to Egypt within the next ten days to bring the forces there up to strength. This means that each battalion will be brought up to 1,020 from a skeleton strength of 850. Two squadrons of the latest type of flying boat—the Singapore—are being sent via Portugal, Spain, the Balearic Islands, and the Nile to Khartum, the Sudan.

The present strength of purely British troops in Egypt is 8,700. The Egyptian army, trained and officered by Britons, is 18,000, and the Egyptian gendarmerie, also British trained, is 12,000, making nearly 30,000 troops in Egypt under British control.

In the Sudan there are three battalions of British infantry and about 4,000 native troops and camel corps. There is also an air force of about 110 bombers, fighters, and troop carriers in Egypt, the Sudan, Aden, and other nearby points. Labor battalions in Egypt and the Sudan are about 40,000 men. Thus, nearly 100,000 men are under British control along the Nile river.

Permission has been received from the Ethiopian government for British flying boats to make a survey of Lake Tsana, the source of the Nile in Ethiopia, which the British intend to keep for themselves.

NEUTRALITY ACT ASSURED O. K. OF ROOSEVELT

Bill Wholly Satisfactory, House Group Told.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt said today he expects to sign within the next 24 hours the neutrality resolution passed by congress, to keep America out of threatened war across the Atlantic.

The President denied, with some asperity, that he would sign the measure with reluctance, as had been reported. He pronounced it entirely satisfactory, except with regard to the matter of loans to belligerents, which are not prohibited by the bill.

The provision of the bill laying an embargo until March 1, next, on the export of arms, ammunition, and instruments of war, to all the belligerents in any war, meets the existing situation, as the President put it, and before the situation changes congress will be in session again and can deal with any new conditions that develop.

Curbs War Loans.

As to war loans the European powers will be unable to obtain credit in the United States, unless they pay their arrears on war debts owed to this country. The Johnson act forbids loans to America's debtors who are in arrears.

The President's reference to the existing situation was somewhat cryptic, but he was disinclined to go into details. The existing situation, of course, is that Italy and Ethiopia are on the verge of war and that if war eventuates the export of American munitions to both countries will be embargoed. But inasmuch as Ethiopia lacks the means to buy much in America, the embargo would hit Italy chiefly.

The only change in the situation which would make the mandatory embargo unsatisfactory from the President's point of view would be an extension of the war to include Great Britain, France, and perhaps other countries. Then they would be unable to buy American munitions.

Fought Mandatory Embargo.

Mr. Roosevelt fought the mandatory embargo before the bill passed but was defeated and compelled to accept the compromise of a mandatory embargo limited to six months. He wanted full discretionary authority to lay an embargo against any belligerent while exempting others. Secretary of State Hull explained that such power could be used to influence the preservation of peace, presumably by coöperation with the economic sanctions to an "aggressor."

There has leaked out an account of a collision between the President and a delegation of congressmen last week, in which Mr. Roosevelt did a lot of angry desk thumping against the mandatory embargo.

The grounds chiefly advanced by Mr. Roosevelt for his emphatic opposition, members of the delegation agreed, were that such a policy would encroach upon the constitutional powers of the President to handle foreign affairs.

Defends Own Powers.

In pointed words, Mr. Roosevelt told his callers that it was not for personal reasons that he resented the legislative attempt to stay his hand in foreign dealings, but for the reason that he had a duty to defend the prerogatives of his office and transmit them unimpaired to his successors.

In the group which called on the President were Representatives Fred J. Sisson of New York, Louis Ludlow of Indiana, Frank L. Kloeb of Ohio, Fred Biermann of Iowa, Maury Maverick of Texas, and Herman T. Kopplemann of Connecticut, Democrats; Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire and Theodore Christianson of Minnesota, Republicans, and Harry Sauthoff, Progressive, of Wisconsin.

First to challenge his view that the mandatory legislation, embargoeing all arms trade with belligerents, encroached on the constitutional powers of the executive to handle foreign affairs, was a member of his own party, Mr. Maverick.

Terms Powers Too Great.

As reconstructed by several of those present, Mr. Maverick is reported to have responded:

"Mr. President, while I have, needless to say, the greatest respect for your office and for you personally, I, nevertheless, feel very keenly that the permissive powers you desire are too great to be put in the hands of any one man."

There is disagreement as to the exact wording of Mr. Roosevelt's response, but agreement that he did not recede from his ground and said, in effect, that he wanted these powers to deal with situations as they arose in emergencies; to which Mr. Maverick is reported to have replied bluntly that, if he understood the temper of congress, the President would have to go without those powers.

"As a Democrat in the house majority, I have gone a long way with you, Mr. President," Maverick is reported to have continued. "I have gone over some pretty rocky roads with you, but I am not going up this road with you. And if I understand the sentiment of congress, not many others are going up that road with you."

Sisson Takes Stand.

Mr. Sisson is reported to have taken up the thread. He emphasized the danger of putting into the hands of one man what amounted to the power to put the whole nation into war. Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have readily agreed that under the powers inherent in the office it would be possible to involve the nation in war in ten days. He made it plain at once that he was determined to avoid involvment.

DEATH PUZZLES CORONER'S JURY.

A coroner's jury was unable yesterday to determine the cause of the death of Burt Barnes, 65 years old, 1252 Madison street, a guitar player, found unconscious Saturday from a skull fracture in front of 1225 Harrison street. He died the next day in the County hospital.

Chicago-Born British Stage Star Returning to America

To Appear in Play

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Dorothy Hyson, Chicago born star of the British stage for the last several seasons, is on the way to America to realize a childhood ambition to appear in a New York play and possibly make an American movie.

The slim 19 year old daughter of Dorothy Dickson, also a stage star here, has never been back to her native land since she was five years old.

MARCONI TO JOIN COLORS IN WAR WITH ETHIOPIA

GENOA, Italy, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Marquis Guglielmo Marconi, distinguished inventor, quietly announced today his intention of joining the colors in Italy's prospective war with Ethiopia.

Marconi arrived here from Rome, where he is supposed to be conducting experiments with micro waves seeking to perfect a way to cut off the ignition system of airplanes in flight.

The inventor is a naval captain by right of previous service, but well informed circles thought he would be given command of the communication of the land armies which Il Duce has sent to East Africa.

18 ALUMNI OF TWO ILLINOIS SCHOOLS LIVE IN ETHIOPIA

Eighteen students and alumni of the Moody Bible institute and of Wheaton college are among Americans now in Ethiopia, records of the two institutions revealed in a survey yesterday.

Records of the Moody institute showed that the following are at Addis Ababa: Dora Arvenson, Wanke, Minn.; Mildred Kiemele, Niagara Falls, Ont.; James O. A. Luckman, Stamford, Conn.; Leona MacGregor, Little Current, Ont.; Mrs. Maoel Ellis Street, Newark, O., and Mrs. Winifred Thompson Hockman, Wheaton.

In Soddu Walamo province are Selma Bergsten, Elk River, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lewis, Fairmont, Ill. The Ethiopian address of Mrs. Agnes Willoughby Bancroft, Baxter, Tenn., is unknown.

Italian Twins, 13, Enlist for Ethiopian War Service

ROME, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Antonio and Vincenzo Lagrua, 13 year old twins, it was learned tonight, have received permission from Premier Mussolini to go to East Africa as drummer boys. They are the youngest recruits thus far accepted.

ETHIOPIA'S PERIL BINDS MOSLEMS AND CHRISTIANS

Two Sects Unite for Joint Intercessory Services.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Fear of war, apparently wiping out the cleavage formerly existing between Ethiopian Christians and Mohammedans, banded them together today in joint intercessory services, an unprecedented event.

Moslem imams [priests], in their Friday prayer services in the mosques, will urge Mohammedans to unite with Christians "in this time of national peril."

The recent appointment of Belata Ayelle Gabre to the consulate at Yemen is another indication of the closer relations between the two sects. Several Moslem missions are arriving from Yemen bearing messages of sympathy and support for the emperor.

Egyptians Ready to Help Selassie.

The Ethiopian minister at Cairo informed Emperor Haile Selassie today that 5,000 Egyptians, Moslems, as well as Copts, are ready to form a foreign legion to fight against Italy.

Ethiopian consulates, both at Cairo and Port Said, the emperor was told, are being besieged by crowds of applicants for enlistment.

The Ethiopian government is not accepting their offers at present and will await results of the league of nations council meeting at Geneva Sept. 4 before acting.

Former Emperor Lij Yasu, who has been living in Garamoulta, 100 miles from Harrar, a report indicated, has offered to fight against Italy provided Haile Selassie will furnish him an army of 10,000 to 15,000 troops. Selassie, the reports added, declined the offer because of lack of confidence.

Yasu, an advised informant said, is living in complete comfort in a palace especially built for him by the emperor. His wife and child are with him and he is a prisoner only to the extent that he is not allowed outside the palace compound.

The emperor ordered a drill with gas masks today to convince superstitious natives that protective devices are not the faces of devils.

Masks Terrify Natives.

The mask rehersal was decided upon after an American correspondent, trying out a gas mask in a hotel corridor, met a half dozen Ethiopians, who fled shrieking in terror.

Haile Selassie is reported to be taking precautions to protect the imperial family against air raids by building steel and concrete shelters beneath the palace.

The government also has ordered large stocks of gasoline and kerosene stored near a railroad station removed to underground tanks seven miles from town.

ITALY URGED LEAGUE TO ADMIT ETHIOPIA IN 1923; PRAISED KING

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 28.—Reports that Premier Mussolini plans to present a big dossier to the league of nations with a view to asking Ethiopia's expulsion from the league because of slavery and backwardness is arousing special interest in league circles. Tributes which Mussolini's delegate paid to Ethiopia when she was admitted to the league are recalled.

The official minutes of the main debate on Sept. 20, 1923, over the Ethiopian entrance show he answered these same charges, then brought mildly by Great Britain and several neutrals, as follows:

"Count Bonin Longare [Italy] considered Ethiopia's request constituted a tribute to the league. One must pay tribute to the good will of the princes who have occupied the Abyssianian throne for years, particularly Ras Tafari, present heir to the throne [now emperor], a prince of broad views who is open to modern ideas and in whose praise one can mention the decree of November, 1918, reinforcing all previous edicts punishing slave trafic severely.

"As regards the conditions of slaves the gradual humanizing of their habits of life had brought about improvement in their position so it was more appropriate to speak of serfs than slaves."

POPE PIUS PLEADS AGAINST AFRICAN WAR BY ITALIANS

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Pope Pius made a strong appeal against recourse to war as a means of solving the Italo-Ethiopian dispute in an address yesterday, the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, disclosed tonight. The pontiff spoke to delegates to the International Congress of Catholic Nurses at Castel Gondolfo, his summer residence.

The official text of the pontiff's address, as published in the Osservatore Romano, contained this excerpt:

"War which is only one of conquest would evidently be an unjust war. This is something which exceeds imagination; it is something indescribably sad and horrible. If need of expansion does exist, if there exists also a necessity for assuring the defense of frontiers, we can only hope all these difficulties may be resolved by some other means than that of war."

GERMANY ORDERS DRASTIC CUTS IN PRICES OF FOOD

Nazis Act to Stem Rising Tide of Discontent.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Walter Darre, minister of food and agriculture, today decreed that prices of meat, potatoes, and other staples must come down and that a maximum price must be fixed for vegetable cooking oil. Butchers were ordered to restore the prices of the cheaper cuts of beef and pork to the level of March 31 last, while leaving the charges for prime cuts untouched.

"The prime cuts of meat are not consumed by the broad masses of the people," Darre said.

Orders Maximum Price.

Darre, who is the Nazi commissioner for price control, made no reference to the price of mutton, of which there is a shortage and which is expensive. Local authorities were authorized, "if necessary," to enforce measures to reduce the price of veal.

The national department controling oils and fat was instructed by Darre to fix a maximum price for vegetable cooking oil by Sept. 1. Since butter and margarine already are controled, all the principal fats will then have fixed prices.

Darre ordered that the price of potatoes on Sept. 1 must be lower than a year ago. The reduction in the price of potatoes will range up to 20 cents per hundredweight, according to quality. The price control department also fixed maximum retail prices for potatoes and decreed that consumers must secure the sole benefit from all reductions.

Cheese Price Reduced.

Prices of German brands of "Swiss cheese" also were ordered reduced for the benefit of consumers.

The minister's action followed reports of growing discontent among the public because of the increased cost of living. Provincial governors and "labor trustees" told Darre something must be done quickly to procure cheaper food for workers. Waving aside official reports, the governors and trustees quoted the actual prices prevailing in their areas.

Jews are warned away from Chemnitz in a notice issued by the mayor and police president today. Jews were told they will receive neither public nor other support. At best they will be placed in night shelters and the next day will be compelled to leave the city. Chemnitz instituted a black list for officials who purchase from Jews or have Jewish friends.

Officials in Frankenberg, Saxony, were warned that they will lose their jobs if they have dealings with Jews. No contracts or support will be given other citizens guilty of this "offense."

Open Anti-Catholic Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 28.—A five day campaign against what the Nazis call "political Catholicism" got under way in Munich today. Nazi spokesmen will address crowds in thirty public assemblies nightly. Mayor Karl Fiedler of Munich will speak at three massmeetings.

Roman Catholics, unable to voice protests for fear of retaliation by the G. S. P. [secret police], are demonstrating their allegiance to the church by extraordinary attendance at services. Churches are overcrowded.

Ripe Egg Hurlers Have Fun with Evanston Motorists

Evanston police squads were busy last night seeking two men in a small automobile who rode through the city bombarding other motorists with ripe eggs. The victims apparently were picked at random and the police assumed that the egg hurlers were animated by the spirit of fun and too much alcohol.

The brakeman and conductor of the Columbine, North Western railroad passenger train, last night were credited with the rescue of five Sterling, Ill., youths who were thrown into Rock river near Sterling on Tuesday when their sailboat overturned.

The brakeman, L. L. Short, 46 years old, 1505 East 67th place, was in the baggage car as the train sped eastward toward Chicago. He saw the sailboat capsize and rushed back to tell the conductor, Elmer Jackson, 59 years old, 263 North York street, Elmhurst. The two wrote a note telling of the accident and three miles farther on, at Nelson, they tossed it from the train, waving to John Babin, towerman at Nelson.

Babin read the note and quickly telephoned the railroad office in Chicago, 108 miles away. Railroad officials notified the Sterling fire and police departments and boats were sent to the scene to bring the youths ashore. Those rescued are Paul Sharp, Junior Kocke, William Heaton, Joseph Heaton, and Joseph Kannally.

Hungarian Nazis Attack Jewish Movie; Cause Panic

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Anti-Jewish demonstrations entered the stench bomb stage today in a motion picture house. During the showing of a Palestine film, in which the actors speak Hebrew, members of the Arrow Cross organization—Hungarian Nazis—threw stench bombs into the audience and caused a panic. Police cleared the house and arrested one person.

Maj. Emil Fey's Auto Crash Injuries Reported Serious

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Information at the Vienna General hospital today was that the injuries suffered in an automobile accident last night by Maj. Emil Fey, minister of the interior, may turn out more serious than had been anticipated. Fey suffered a brain concussion and a broken nose.

U. S. Refuses to Admit Refugees from Europe

GENEVA, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The United States informed the league of nations today that it was unable to absorb any refugees because of immigration restrictions. This statement was in reply to a circular appeal to the nations to receive an estimated 1,500,000 refugees from Germany and other countries.

AUSTRIAN LEADER GOES ON TRIAL AS DOLLFUSS KILLER

Ex-Police Chief Denies He Knew of Nazi Plot.

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Otto Steinhaeusl, former Vienna police chief, went before a court martial today on a charge of high treason.

The noted detective countered with a plea of "not guilty" despite the web of circumstantial evidence which linked him to the Nazi putsch that led to the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss a year ago.

Dollfuss, bitter foe of the Nazi party, was shot to death when Austrian Nazis revolted and seized the chancellery. After a day of disorder Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg succeeded to the chancellorship. Steinhaeusl has been in prison since the day after Dollfuss' death.

Denies He Knew of Plot.

"I knew nothing about the putsch's plans," he told the court. "I did not place myself at the disposal of the putschists—had nothing whatsoever to do with it."

The former police head said he was unable to explain why the putschists used his name unless it was because he had recently distinguished himself clearing up various outstanding crimes.

Rumors attributed to Nazi propaganda several months ago said fear that Steinhaeusl would tell "all he knew" would prevent the court martial. The gloomy gray District Court building, where the court martial is being held, was heavily guarded.

Trial Censored in Austria.

Each of the recipients of the 250 cards of admission—including foreign press representatives and members of the Austrian government—was carefully searched for arms before he could enter the courtroom.

Austrian newspapers were not permitted to send reporters to the trial. In the interests of uniform news treatment of the incident they were told to use the official news agency version of the testimony.

Miss Arline Causey, 18 years old, 1317 Shaughnessy street, yesterday was chosen "Miss Montrose-Wilson Beach" in a contest sponsored by civic and business groups in connection with the celebration of the Chicago park district's three day water carnival at the Montrose beach. Eileen Mustin, 846 Montrose avenue, was second, and Maryon Nordhaus, 441 Iowa street, was third. In a sand modeling contest two sisters, Marie and Helen Daniels, 3507 Rita avenue, were first. The celebration closed yesterday with a picnic.

ZIONIST CONGRESS GOES INTO MOURNING FOR GERMAN JEWS

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Black flags flew at half-stat today on buildings housing the nineteenth world Zionist congress, a symbol of Jewry's protest against Nazi "persecution" of their race. At noon the congress suspended its activities for the remainder of the day in accordance with a resolution adopted last night.

The Palcor News agency said it learned that Dr. Chaim Weizmann, outstanding world Jewish leader, has declined to serve again as president of the world Zionist organization, a post he held since 1931.

He agreed to enter the next world Zionist executive in a subordinate capacity, being willing to serve under Dr. Nahum Sokolow, Hebrew author, now president of the Zionist organization.

AVIATION OFFICER BEHEADED AS SPY BY NAZI AXMAN

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The silk hatted executioner of Pletzensee prison swung his ax for the third time this week when at dawn today he beheaded Lieut. Mueller-Heinecke of the aviation corps, convicted as a spy.

The same headsman yesterday executed Frau Charlotte Jeunemann, convicted of starving her three infant children, and Willy Gehrke, robber and killer.

Court Quashes Indictment in State Gasoline Tax Case

An indictment charging James Donlevy, treasurer of the Commercial Oil company, 4600 Ferdinand street, with embezzlement for alleged failure to pay the state $3,513 due it from the company for gasoline taxes, was quashed yesterday in Springfield by Circuit Judge L. E. Stone. The court held the indictment, returned by the Sangamon county grand jury in February, was improperly drawn and did not show that Donlevy was the individual responsible for payment of taxes to the state by the company.

GIRL'S HEROISM PRAISED BY JURY IN LAKE TRAGEDY

Death of Two After Party Called Accident.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the drownings in Lake Michigan earlier in the day of Mrs. Bertha McCowall, 24 years old, and James McMillen, 35 years old. The two lost their lives during a swimming party that climaxed a night of drinking and almost caused the deaths of two other persons who plunged into the water in attempt to rescue their companions.

The coroner's jury, after returning its verdict, praised Miss Sally Simon, 23 years old, common law wife of McMillen, for her heroism in rescuing a fourth member of the party, Glen Hill 43 years old, of 4729 North Washtenaw avenue. The two who lost their lives and Miss Simon lived in a rooming house at 15 West Huron street.

Victim and Husband Estranged.

Hill, a chauffeur, is married and lives with his wife and family. McMillen was estranged from his wife, 15 years his senior, and he and Miss Simon lived together as "Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright." Mrs. McCowall, a waitress, and Hill's companion, was estranged from her husband who lives with their two year old daughter in Georgia.

"Mac [McMillen] and I went together for three or four months," Miss Simon testified at the inquest. "Then he asked me to move in and stay with him. We lived very happily except that his wife [Mrs. Mamie McMillen, 2415 West Madison street] bothered us and caused him to lose his job. That's why we took a new name."

From the stories of Miss Simon and Hill at the inquest the coroner's jury learned that the four started out early yesterday for a round of taverns.

Story of Drownings.

At about 4 a. m. they drove on the outer drive, where they parked. Mrs. McCowall suddenly dared McMillen to go in swimming.

Slipping out of her dress, shoes, and stockings, Mrs. McCowall jumped from the breakwater into the water. Before McMillen had undressed, she was calling for help. Hill and McMillen dove into the water and when it became apparent that all three might drown, Miss Simon followed. She saw her sweetheart's body drift out into deep water. She seized Mrs. McCowall, but lost her hold and finally helped Hill drag himself to safety.

PARALYSIS MAY DELAY OPENING OF N. Y. SCHOOLS

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Superintendent of Schools Harold G. Campbell today announced he has written to Health Commissioner John L. Rice asking whether the current outbreak of infantile paralysis is prevalent enough to make advisable postponing the opening of city schools, scheduled for Sept. 9.

At the health department Acting Commissioner Dr. William Best asserted no decision would be reached until after Labor day.

In the meantime, Dr. Charles F. Bolduan, director of public health education, announced that 63 new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in the city for yesterday. These bring the year's total to 1,007, with 42 deaths.

Relief Client Gets Jail Term

Charge Big Income

Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court yesterday ordered Wasyl Korpan, 49 years old, owner of a three story building at 7214 Greenwood avenue, to serve four months in the bridewell and pay a fine of $200 for obtaining from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission under false pretenses, while he allegedly had an income of $300 a month from a grocery.

"This is one of the worst cases that has come under by observation," Judge Borrelli said in imposing sentence at the conclusion of a four hour hearing.

Theodore Dell, 7130 Dobson avenue, manager of the grocery, which is in Korpan's building, testified he was unaware Korpan was on relief until last spring when Korpan cashed a relief check in his own store. Dell said Korpan told him not to tell any one that he [Korpan] owned the store. Dell asserted that Korpan tricked him into signing the lease so inquisitive persons would be misled. Korpan asserted that he would appeal the case.

REPORT 5 NAMED BY GRAND JURORS AS CLUB SLAYERS

Five men who are alleged to have killed William Barry, 69 years old, a watchman, during a holdup on Aug. 23 at the Hickory Hills Golf club, 95th street and 87th avenue, Palos township, were reported named by the grand jury yesterday in true bills charging murder and burglary. Barry was beaten to death, an autopsy showing twenty-two skull fractures.

Those reported named in the true bills are Edward Ryder, alias Walter O'Donnell, 24 years old, 7306 South Morgan street; John Whelan, 25, of 8005 Calumet avenue; John Slattery, 23, of 8142 West 52d street; James Igoe, 24, and Jerry Scanlon, 25. Igoe and Ryder are said to have been named as the actual slayers. County highway police captured Ryder, Whelan, and Slattery shortly after the holdup, but the other two still are at large.

Assistant State's Attorneys Emmett Moynihan and John Phillips said that Ryder and Whelan have confessed but that they refused to testify before the grand jury. The prosecutors said they would seek an early trial and demand the death sentence. Whelan, they believe, was the instigator of the robbery. He held a junior membership in the golf club.

WANTS TO OUST MATE; MURDER TALES SCARE HER

It's a bit disconcerting, after you've sued for a divorce, to have the husband sit around and read aloud the harrowing details of torso murders, hinting that you're lucky to be in good health, Mrs. Estelle Wurster, 28 years old, told Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday in a vain attempt to get an injunction barring her husband from the bungalow in which both live at 3836 South Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn. The husband is George Wurster, 49 years old, a printer.

MRS. ESTELLE WURSTER.

Judge La Buy denied the injunction after he learned that Mrs. Wurster rode to court with her husband and that they eat their meals together. The judge told Mrs. Wurster the injunction plea would be reconsidered when her divorce case comes up on Sept. 23.

Mrs. Wurster testified that ever since she filed the divorce suit on Nov. 29, 1934, she has locked herself in her bedroom each night, only to be forced to listen to her husband while he reads murder stories that frighten her. Wurster promised not to molest her pending a settlement. Attorney John J. Linder represented Mrs. Wurster.

EDWIN D. KRENN THREATENED IN EXTORTION PLOT

Agents of the department of justice are seeking extortionists who wrote two letters demanding $35,000 from Edwin D. Krenn, Swiss architect who was at one time the partner of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick in gigantic real estate operations.

Krenn, who resides in the Drake hotel, said last night that the second letter was received about two weeks ago and the first some time before that.

"There were no definite threats in the notes," he continued. "The writer simply demanded the money, explaining that he needed it badly, and hinted that something unpleasant would happen to me if the demand was not met.

Phone Messages Follow Notes.

"Later there were two telephone messages to me. The caller, speaking in a husky voice, insisted that I get busy and make a payment at once. Although I did not take the matter seriously, I thought it best to notify the government men. The investigation now is in competent hands. I am glad that I am an American citizen and I feel perfectly safe."

According to Krenn, the missives were crudely printed and ill spelled.

The federal agents in charge of the case declined to talk about it. However, it was learned that on two occasions they had endeavored to make contacts with the extortionists, but failed to get close to them.

Agents See Deeper Motive.

Krenn felt that the demands were made by a crank, but it is understood the federal men are not so sure this is the correct explanation.

Under the will of Mrs. McCormick, Krenn was made heir to five-twelfths of her estate. For several years he was engaged in an effort to share in a trust fund that Mrs. McCormick created and which holds all the actual assets left by the one time "richest woman in the world." Thus far the courts have rebuffed his claims.

Girl Found Unconscious of Poison; Blames Love Affair

Miss Mary Harden, 23 years old, was found unconscious last night in the basement of an apartment hotel at 3000 Sheridan road. Beside her was a note stating that she had swallowed poison and indicating that she was despondent over a love affair. She was taken to the county hospital, where it was said her condition was critical. Miss Harden is a maid employed in the home of Lionel Thorsness, a resident of the hotel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 29 [Thursday].—A petition for divorce, citing an unnamed woman, has been served on Viscount Lymington, 38 year old heir of the earl of Portsmouth, on behalf of Lady Lymington, according to the Daily Express. Viscountess Lymington was formerly Miss Mary Lawrence Post, daughter of Waldron Kintzing Post of Bayport, N. Y. The couple were married in 1920 and have two children, a girl of 10 and a boy

EVANSTON YOUTH KILLED AS AUTO GOES INTO DITCH

Edward Kurczadyna, 18 years old, 1008 Dewey avenue, Evanston, was fatally injured early today when an automobile he was driving ran into a ditch beside Church street, west of Harms road in Morton Grove. He died in Evanston hospital. Several companions of the youth, riding in the car, suffered only slight injuries.

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday ordered Police Lieutenant Leo Carr of the Grand Crossing station to appear in his court today to explain why George Rauch, 25 years old, 7323 Maryland avenue, is at liberty on his personal recognizance on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Rauch, who is the son of the Rev. C. M. Rauch, pastor of the Brookline Presbyterian church, 7300 Maryland avenue, was arrested on June 25 on a warant issued by Municipal Judge John J. Lupe. Judge Lupe specified that a $400 real estate or $50 cash bond be posted by the defendant.

The warant for Rauch was issued in behalf of Daniel D. Cooper, 7130 Cyril avenue, who charged that Rauch fled after his automobile struck the rear of Cooper's car recently when it was standing in front of 744 East 80th street, injuring three persons.

Kurczadyna's death increased the Cook county trafic toll for the year to 604. Up to 4 p. m. 476 persons had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits this year, and 10,854 had been injured.

Oak Park Police Start Radio; No Interference

Oak Park's police department put its new radio station in operation yesterday. From midnight to midnight a total of 76 calls was broadcast to squad cars. The station uses the same channel, 1,712 kilocycles, as the Chicago police. Fears had been expressed that the suburb's broadcasting would interfere with that of Chicago, but no difficulty from this source was reported by the Chicago squads during the day.

JOHN HAMILTON, DILLINGER ALLY, IS FOUND SLAIN

U. S. Agents Dig Up Body Near Oswego.

the First National bank of East Chicago, killing a policeman in a gun battle and escaping with $20,376. Policemen opened fire on the fast shooting gangsters as they emerged from the bank and it was observed that Hamilton staggered. His blood-stained pistol was found in the gutter.

Another theory is that the mortal wounding or death of Hamilton occurred on April 23, 1934, when Dillinger and others of the gang shot their way through a squad of federal agents who surrounded the Little Bohemia lodge near Mercer, Wis. Federal Agent W. Carter Baum was slain as the Dillingerites fled, and a CCC worker also was killed in the gun battle.

Leaving the Little Bohemia region, the gang fled toward St. Paul, their former rendezvous. Sherif Joseph Heinen of Dakota county, Minn., then a deputy, was stationed near the Hastings, Minn., spiral bridge with two other men. They pursued a Ford coupe which bore license numbers corresponding to those of the Dillinger gang's escape car and fired upon it during a running chase for about ten miles, their fire being returned. The theory has been advanced that Hamilton may have been fatally wounded in this encounter if he previously had escaped with his life.

No clear evidence of Hamilton's having been seen since the East Chicago robbery exists, Agent E. J. Conley admitted in Oswego last night. He declined to say where the agents believed Hamilton received his fatal wounds.

Notorious as Desperado.

Hamilton was reputed to be, next to his chief, the most dangerous of Dillinger's associates. He was born in Canada and would have been 36 years old, had he lived. He worked at the prosaic trade of carpentering until he was 28 years old and the first known criminal offense charged against him was the transportation of liquor, for which he was arrested in Detroit in 1926. Records do not show the disposition of that charge.

In 1927 Hamilton was committed to the Indiana penitentiary to serve 25 years for the armed robbery of a gasoline filling station in St. Joseph county. He was assigned to work in the carpentry shop.

There he met Dillinger, who was serving a six to ten year sentence for robbing a grocer. Other inmates were Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, later members of the gang, both now dead, and Russell Clark, who also was destined to be a member of the gang and is now serving a life sentence in Ohio for the murder of Sherif Jess Sarber of Lima, killed when three men—Hamilton is believed to have been one of them—freed Dillinger from the Lima jail.

Crime Pals Pay in Kind.

Dillinger previously had been paroled from the Michigan City prison and was accredited with having engineered the escape of 10 of his pals while himself a prisoner in Ohio.

Dillinger was released from Michigan City early in 1933. True to a promise he made, he saw to it that weapons were smuggled to the others and on Sept. 26, 1933, Hamilton, Pierpont, Makley, and seven others escaped. The escaped prisoners then learned that Dillinger had been arrested in Lima the day before as a bank robbery suspect.

With Hamilton believed to have been the leader, three men then went to Lima, killed Sherif Sarber in a raid on the jail, and liberated Dillinger. Returning to Chicago, the reunited gang began its career of robbery and murder in earnest.

Believe He Escaped in Tucson.

On Dec. 14, 1933, Sergt. William T. Shanley and a squad of Chicago police were watching an automobile in a repair shop at 5320 Broadway. Unaware of Hamilton's identity, Shanley, who was alone inside the garage, questioned him when he came to claim the car. Hamilton whipped out a pistol and killed the policeman. After his capture in Tucson, Ariz., on Jan. 25, 1934, Dillinger declared that he had transported Hamilton out of Chicago after that murder.

One rumor last night was that Hamilton was in Tucson and escaped capture when Dillinger and others of the gang were seized by police. Brought back to Indiana, Dillinger staged his famous "wooden gun" break from the Crown Point jail on March 3, 1934, and was afterward rejoined by Hamilton, according to this version.

NEW MEMBERS OF N. U. FACULTY ARE ANNOUNCED

Northwestern university yesterday announced appointment of new faculty members, effective at the opening of the fall term, Sept. 16.

Dr. Edwin Bray Place, formerly of the University of Colorado, becomes chairman of the department of Romance languages, and Prof. Walter Wheeler Cook, formerly of Columbia, Yale, and Johns Hopkins, becomes professor of law to fill the vacancy created by the death of Prof. Andrew A. Bruce.

Dr. Franklin D. Scott of Harvard and Dr. Tracy Strevey, chairman of the University of Wisconsin's extension at Milwaukee, are named assistant professors in the history department.

Dr. F. C. Rosecrance, formerly life advisement director of the Milwaukee public schools, becomes an associate professor in the school of education, and Harold C. Coffman of the Teachers college of Columbia university will be a visiting professor.

Included in the appointments was Prof. Max T. Krone, director of the conservatory of music at Butler university, who comes to the Northwestern music school as director of the A Cappella choir.

SHE CAN'T FIRE HIM NOW, SO SHE SEEKS DIVORCE

As a farm hand William Kreblien of Neenah, Wis., was worthy of his hire, but as a husband he left something to be desired, Mrs. Esther Hanson Kreblien charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in Superior court. Mrs. Kreblien, who was described by her attorney, Harry X. Cole, as a shorthand teacher at Wendell Phillips High school, asked for alimony.

The bill charges cruelty, alleging that Kreblien struck his wife on Feb. 15, 1935, and broke one of her ribs on March 11, when they separated. Mrs. Kroblien, who is 37 years old, lives at 225 South Winchester avenue. Kreblien is 37 years old.

According to Attorney Cole, Mrs. Kreblien purchased a farm at Winneconna, Wis., and hired Kreblien to work it in August of last year. He excelled at farm work for a few months while courting his employer, the attorney said, but immediately after their marriage on Oct. 18, 1934, forced her to do the farm chores.

HAMILTON, DEAD, GIVES OSWEGO 'BIGGEST THRILL'

High excitement prevailed yesterday in the village of Oswego, 40 miles southwest of Chicago, as the news spread rapidly among the 950 inhabitants that the body of John Hamilton, the slain John Dillinger's long sought gang lieutenant had been dug up by federal agents in a gravel pit a short distance from the village limits.

Seldom had the town, on the east bank of the meandering Fox river, found the easy tempo of its daily existence so disturbed, the town the source of such headline news.

"They found John Hamilton's body northeast of town!" Quickly spread the word from the single village peace officer and the only undertaker, to the few stores and modest, well kept homes.

Oswego is one of the older Illinois settlements. One of its show places is a century old stone inn.

HAMILTON DEATH WRITES FINIS TO DILLINGER GANG

Each Dies with 'Boots On'; One in the Chair.

The Dillinger gang is dead. All of the principal members of the gang—bank bandits and murderers who robbed at the will of their leader, John Dillinger, and killed of their own volition when they were in tough spots—have been exterminated. Each died with his boots on, one in the electric chair and the others in gun battles with federal agents or police.

The remaining surviving members of the notorious band of gunmen—criminals who figured in lesser crimes and prison breaks—are serving time behind prison walls, and only a single one-time associate of the gang now is at large.

JOSEPH JENKINS, one of ten convicts liberated from Indiana state prison through help of Dillinger in September, 1933, slain in gun battle with posse near Beanblossom, Ind., Sept. 30, 1933.

EUGENE GREEN, Dillinger's companion in a St. Paul hideout to which the gang leader fled after his escape, March 3, 1934, from the Crown Point jail, died April 1, 1934, from wounds received in a battle with federal agents who were seeking Dillinger.

HERBERT YOUNGBLOOD, colored prisoner who escaped from Crown Point with Dillinger, killed by police at Port Huron, Mich., April 20, 1934.

TOMMY CARROLL, recruited by Dillinger after his Crown Point escape, killed by police June 7, 1934, when he resisted arrest at Waterloo, Ia.

JOHN DILLINGER, leader of the gang, killed July 22, 1934, by federal men as he emerged from the Biograph theater, 2433 Lincoln avenue.

GEORGE [BABY FACE] NELSON, who succeeded Dillinger as Public Enemy No. 1 following his chief's death, found dead Nov. 28, 1934, in Niles Center from the bullet wounds in gun battle with Federal Agents Samuel P. Cowley and Herman E. Hollis, whom he had slain the preceding day at outskirts of Barrington.

JOHN HAMILTON, Dillinger's closest confederate, found yesterday in shallow grave near Oswego, Ill., where Dillinger probably buried him.

Among the minor members and one time associates of the Dillinger gang in prison are:

Russell Clark, serving life sentence in Ohio penitentiary for slaying of Sherif Sarber; James Clark, Edward Shouse, Joseph Burns, and Walter Dietrich, members of band liberated from Michigan City prison through Dillinger's aid, recaptured and returned to serve out sentences; Harry Copeland, participant in jail delivery of Dillinger at Lima, convicted of bank robbery in Indiana, turned over by Ohio authorities, imprisoned in Michigan City.

Arrest Youth Distributing Bills for Ethiopian Parade

James Weiss, 21 years old, 1232 South Springfield avenue, was arrested yesterday as he was distributing handbills in front of the Italian consulate at 201 North Wells street urging participation in a "Hands Off Ethiopia" parade on the south side Saturday afternoon. Police have denied permission for the parade.

GANGSTER SLAIN IN EAST WANTED ON CHARGES HERE

Immigration Inspector Fred Schlotfeldt disclosed yesterday that Vincenzo Troia, one of three men slain in Newark, N. J., last Thursday in a gang raid on an alleged lottery headquarters, was being sought by Chicago immigration authorities at the time of his death. It was suspected he was smuggled into this country from Italy, Schlotfeldt said.

Troia, a former Rockford, Ill., gangster, was indicted here a year ago by the federal grand jury on a charge of illicit manufacture of alcohol. He never was tried on the indictment, however, apparently having left this part of the country and moved to Newark. The immigration case recently was transferred to the Newark office of the immigration department.

Troia and one of the other men killed in the Newark shooting Frank Longo, were questioned about the attempted kidnaping of Milton G. Newman, wealthy banker and president of the park board of Peoria, in September, 1933. Both were released.

AWAITS EVENTS BEFORE REPLY TO RUSSIAN LETTER

Reds' Disclaimer Surprise to Roosevelt Regime.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Immediate action is not contemplated by the state department in the dispute with soviet Russia over interference with the internal affairs of this country. That was announced today after President Roosevelt conferred with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Assistant Secretary R. Walton Moore.

There were indications that the state department was stunned by the flat rejection by the soviet union of this country's protest against "flagrant violations" of the noninterference pledge. Although it still was maintained in responsible quarters that no actual severance in diplomatic relations is contemplated, the administration apparently did not know what course it should pursue.

Will Await Later Date.

"We're not in any great hurry to take action," Mr. Moore stated upon leaving the White House. "There won't be anything today."

At the state department it was indicated that a statement might be forthcoming tomorrow or the next day, but this did not necessarily mean immediate action. President Roosevelt declined to comment on the situation at his press conference, saying he planned to discuss the matter with Secretary Hull later in the day, and at the state department officials were equally reticent. The reply of the soviet government, denying "obligations of any kind with regard to the communist internationale" and bluntly declining to accept the sharply worded protest of Ambassador William C. Bullitt, was under "profound study," one official said.

The withdrawal of Ambassador Bullitt and leaving a greatly reduced embassy at Moscow in the hands of a chargé d'affaires was regarded as the more likely alternative to a direct break in diplomatic relations. There were indications, however, that a second protest, even more pointed than Ambassador Bullit's note delivered last Sunday, would precede any other action.

Calls U. S. Note Unsupported.

The reply of Vice Commissar Krestinski, temporarily in charge of soviet foreign affairs, who said, "I cannot accept your protest and am obliged to decline it," was as unexpected by the Roosevelt administration as it was unsatisfactory. The Russian reply stated that the American note contained "no facts of any kind" to support its charges, and this, it was believed, would project a more emphatic protest, for the United States is on record as warning of "serious consequences."

The soviet government takes the position that it is not responsible for the activities of the comintern [communist international], at whose congress in Moscow American communists advocated organized violence to overthrow the government of the United States.

The American government, however, contends that the Russian government is responsible, because of its pledge not to permit any organization on its territory which has as its purpose interference with the internal affairs of America.

There are a number of precedents for the recall of an ambassador without withdrawing recognition, which course was followed by France in 1927 because of communist activities in that country. During the trouble with Mexico prior to the world war this country recalled Ambassador Fletcher from Mexico City, but did not sever diplomatic relations.

Staf Already Reduced.

The embassy staf in Moscow already has been reduced, although state department officials deny that such action was taken in connection with the present strained relations. John C. Wiley, counselor of the embassy, has been transferred to Antwerp; Charles E. Bohlem, third secretary, has been recalled to Washington. Should the state department withdraw Ambassador Bullitt, Harold Shant, ranking second secretary, would become chargé d'affaires. There is no first secretary.

Aimee McPherson Plans to Tell President of Reds

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, said here today she would present a report to President Roosevelt on communistic activities in Chicago, New York, and Los Angeles as disclosed by her Four Square Gospel church workers in those cities. She is here attending the annual convention of the greater eastern district of her church.

Easter Lily Blooms in August

Rare Occurrence

SOCIALISTS PLAN TO DEFY TROOPS AT TERRE HAUTE

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 28.—[Special.] — Norman Thomas, national leader of the Socialist party, and Powers Hapgood, Socialist nominee for governor of Indiana in 1932, plan to attempt a massmeeting here in the next few days. It will be in defiance of the ban by the Indiana National Guard, which technically continues martial law here.

Hapgood was held in county jail here for two days earlier this week, and then released. He had come here allegedly to circulate a petition asking Gov. Paul V. McNutt to end military rule and restore civil rights and due processes of law. Thomas and Hapgood intend to repeat the effort.

At Indianapolis today Gov. McNutt refused to discuss Thomas' intended visit. He declined to discuss why martial law is being continued.

There has been practically no disorder since the strike. The third arbitrator sent here by Secretary of Labor Francis Perkins has left in defeat.

EXECUTOR SUES GEORGE HALAS ON THREE NOTES

The Lawndale National bank, as executor of the estate of Louis B. Cowen, yesterday filed a suit in Circuit court requesting that George S. Halas, president of the Chicago Bears football team; L. W. Walquist and H. R. Kraft be required to disclose their assets and those of the real estate firm of Halas & Kraft.

The bank is seeking to collect three confession notes, for a total of $149,466, signed by the defendants in favor of Cowen. The latter, who was publisher of the Cicero Tribune, was shot and killed in 1933.

A request was made that the defendants be enjoined from disposing of their assets and that a receiver be appointed by the court to carry out its orders.

WILLIAM GREEN'S HOME CITY FACES GENERAL STRIKE

Coshocton, O., Aug. 28.—(AP)—A threat of a city-wide strike, affecting approximately 622 workers, tonight hung over Coshocton, home town of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Robert McCormick, federation organizer, telegraphed Green to send representatives to Coshocton at once. He said a city-wide strike would be called within 48 hours and declared the time was ripe to organize the entire city.

The city now is experiencing the first strike in its history, involving 122 employés of the Novelty Advertising company. The strike has been in progress almost a week.

Attempts to prevent the strike from becoming city-wide will be in the hands of Robert Mythen, a labor department conciliator, due from Washington.

Deputy, Aged 100, to Rule Aurora Old Settlers' Picnic

A special deputy sherif will "preserve order" at Aurora's old settlers' picnic today. He is Bert Wilder of Aurora, who celebrated his 100th birthday July 26. Sherif Albert Kampmeyer of Kane county yesterday swore him in as a deputy. Wilder said he would give a good account of himself in his new office despite the fact it was the only "political" job he ever had held. Still vigorous, he walked a mile and a half a week ago to invite Mayor C. M. Bjorseth of Aurora to attend the picnic.

REVEALS SOVIET OFFICIAL LINK TO RED PROPAGANDA

Dr. Haensel Tells of Drive Fostered in Moscow.

How communist activities are carried on in this country and how the Soviet government helps and fosters the Third Communist International, the political organization which carries on the work, was explained yesterday by Dr. Paul Haensel, professor of economics at Northwestern university for the last five years and former teacher at the University of Moscow for 25 years. Dr. Haensel left Russia in 1928 and now seeks American citizenship.

"A rupture of diplomatic relations would not help much at the present time and probably would encourage communist agressiveness," Dr. Haensel said in reference to the recent protest of the American government and the reply by the Soviet government.

"Only enlightened public opinion and united efforts of all classes in America against international communist intereference in internal affairs of the United States may be an effective weapon," he continued.

Suggests Other Reprisals.

"Refusal to grant special privileges in tarif matters, credit, etc., to the Soviet government would have a much greater effect on curbing the communist international activities than a rupture of diplomatic relations."

From the vantage point of his long residence in Russia Dr. Haensel gave a picture of the operations of the Third International, which was founded by Lenin in 1919 and which seeks the establishment of a communist dictatorship all over the world.

"With reference to the usual denial of the Soviet government of being connected with the Third International," he said, "it should be noted that the Soviet government helps and fosters this organization in every respect. It occupies one of the largest and finest buildings in the central part of Moscow, which is guarded by a detachment of the Soviet army. No one is permitted to enter the premises without a special pass.

"When I was working as a tax expert in Moscow [1921-1928] and was summoned to attend some of the conferences of the Soviet government, I noticed that the office of the chief executive of the Third International [Zinoviev at that time] was located not only in the same building but in the same corridor and next to the office of the prime minister, the chairman of the People's Commissars, A. I. Rykov. Very few Russians and almost no foreigners are admitted to this part of the seat of government in the heavily guarded Kremlin of Moscow.

Permeates All Nations.

"The Third International has a large organization with branches in all countries. It unites all the communist parties of the world into one united communist organization. Regularly a congress of communist delegates from the various countries is held for the purpose of devising measures of united action and of fostering the communist movement all over the world. The last congress of 1935 adopted a program of affiliation with other socialist parties and trade unions in order to promote most effectively the socialist revolution and communist cause.

"As usual, a group of American delegates attended the congress and presented for guidance their plans of Communist tactics in the United States. Most of the members of the soviet government are delegates to the Third Internationale. The meetings are held in secret.

"The Communist activities in foreign countries are carried on not only through the Communist international but through many other international organizations affiliated with the Third International or more or less independent with their headquarters in Moscow.

"The most important of these are the so-called MOPR [the first letters in Russian denote the International Organization for Helping Revolutionaries Abroad] and the MEZHRABPOM [International Help to Workers].

Propaganda Films in U. S.

"Americans have seen many Russian films with the stamp 'Mezhrabpom.' They should know that by this means they are subsidizing the international organization fomenting strikes, etc., in their own country and abroad.

"The MOPR is extending help to those foreign Communists and their families who have suffered in their struggle against the bourgeois authorities of the capitalist countries. No great secret is made of these activities and from time to time official information is given in the soviet press.

"Of course, many Americans and American firms help and encourage Communist propaganda, sometimes in a very subtle form. For example, the English translation of the famous Russian primer on the 'Great Plan' by Ilin. As a matter of fact, it was never used as a primer in soviet Russia. In the soviet union only standardized and 'stabilized' textbooks may be used in primary and secondary schools. According to a decree of the soviet government on Aug. 7, 1935, any replacement of stabilized textbooks needs special authorization of the government and the Communist party.

Names Lecturer in U. S.

"Much more important agitation work is carried on by American Communists affiliated with the soviets. For instance, there is Anna Louise Strong, now in soviet service, who regularly is holding lecture tours all over the United States extolling the Communist ideas and régime.

"For the purpose of fostering the Communist cause and uprising among Asiatic nations, special universities are functioning in soviet Russia and hundreds of Chinese, Koreans, Hindus, and other Orientals receive their propaganda education there. Special summer courses for English speaking students had been planned for the summer of 1935, obviously for giving them the necessary instruction in Communist rule and ideas, but suddenly they were canceled.

Cites Flaws in Treaty.

"Unfortunately the recognition agreement between President Roosevelt and Litvinov did not contain any specific reference to the Third International, the MOPR, Mezhrabpom and similar organizations. It should have stipulated that the soviet government would not permit any American citizen to join these organizations in Moscow, or on Russian soil, on the threat of deportation. In its turn, the American government might have promised that it would not allow any soviet citizen to join any organization in the United States aiming at overthrowing the soviet form of government in Russia and would deport without delay."

PURGE YOUR RANKS OF REDS, DEMAND OF GREEN TO TEACHERS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 28.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor telegraphed a demand to the American Federation of Teachers meeting here today that they purge their ranks of communists and communism.

In his telegram, Green urged the revocation of the charter of the New York local of the teachers' federation "in order that it might be reorganized on an A. F. of L. basis."

The executive council of the teachers, which had only a short time before recommended that the charter of the New York local be not revoked, met immediately after receiving Green's telegram and voted to reverse itself.

OPEN DRIVE TO CHANGE DEBATE RULE IN SENATE

Long's Filibuster Brings Renewed Campaign.

cloture prevails, bad legislation prevails.

"Senator Tydings' filibuster Friday night defeated a bill carrying some 500 million dollars which could not have been defeated in any other way. The bill was sheer pork.

"No preliminary method of procedure can be perfect. But it is better to have the light eternally shining upon public transactions than to have it shut off. There are enough places in the government where it is shut off. I want one where it is not."

Senators traditionally have jealously defended the unlimited freedom of debate in the senate, the only absolutely free forum in the world. The practice of blocking the consideration of legislation by moving to table motions to bring it up, employed frequently by the New Dealers during the last session, has brought many protests.

Senators point out that the house of representatives is dominated by the party machine, with no opportunity for free discussion—frequently no opportunity for discussion at all—and that any attempt to put a gag rule on the senate would tend to undermine the system of checks and balances, if not destroy the American form of government.

Vice President Dawes, before an outraged senate, denounced the rule which permits a filibuster as "hoary old custom," but nothing ever came of his boast that he would change the rule. So zealously do senators guard their ancient prerogative to talk at will that a comparatively modest amendment introduced by Senator Carter Glass during the last session died in the rules committee. It provided merely that no senator could talk on an irrelevant subject during the consideration of an appropriation measure.

AL SMITH BACKED BY HEARST FOR RACE NEXT YEAR

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—William Randolph Hearst, in a statement on the political situation, tonight said: "I think Alfred E. Smith would make a powerful candidate as presidential nominee on the genuine Jeffersonian Democratic ticket."

Disclaiming knowledge of the proposed formation of a "Constitutional Democratic" party, with which his name had been linked, he assailed the "imported, autocratic, Asiatic Socialist party of Karl Marx and Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Smith, former governor of New York, he said, "is the accredited leader of the genuine Democratic party. He was their latest presidential candidate. His principles are the historic principles of the party.

"Associated with him should be some notable southern Democrat like Gov. Ritchie or Gov. Byrd, or Gov. Talmadge."

Discussing the Republican situation, he said: "Of course it is not for me to decide who should be nominated on the Republican ticket. Certainly it will not be Mr. Hoover, unless the Republicans want to present the election to their opponents on a silver platter.

"Mr. Hoover is a good man—as a private citizen. As a candidate he would be a calamity equaled only by the depression with which he is so closely identified."

HUEY RENDS CLOAK OF SILENCE TO TAKE RAP AT ROBINSON'S PLAN

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The silence which Huey Long wore to New York today, wrapped around him like a cloak and fitting somewhat oddly, was rent a few moments after he had heard of a plan announced by Senator Robinson, majority leader, to seek a cloture amendment to the senate rules. This would prevent another filibuster such as he indulged in during the last night of the session.

Long's outburst, on hearing this news was directed against Senator Robinson.

"He's on his way out—out, do you understand?" Huey asserted and questioned. "Joe won't be around to amend the rules. If the President has any pork to pass around he'd better give some to Joe now."

Huey also referred to "low down skunks" without naming any, but indicating that he meant those who take from "representatives of the people the right to vote on the amendments. He said he would offer another amendment to the rules—"it will be an amendment permitting the house to vote on bills."

Huey was at the Hotel New Yorker today, with bodyguards and, beyond his blast at Robinson, with nothing to add to what he said last night.

The gist of what the senator said last night was that he wasn't afraid of a new congressional investigation of him and his in Louisiana, and that his filibuster which prevented pasasge of the deficiency bill, since referred to as killed by the jawbone of a kingfish, was the work of a great feller.

Marriage License Issued to John D. Warfield Jr.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to John D. Warfield Jr., 108 Gage road, Riverside, and Miss Lucille E. Barbar, 1121 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park. Mr. Warfield, who is president of the Warfield Chocolate company and vice president of the Thomson & Taylor Co., was divorced a month ago by Mrs. Helen Totten Warfield, to whom he was married in 1921.

NAMES GROUP TO PUSH LOUISIANA QUIZ THIS FALL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—A move to persuade a special house committee to begin an investigation of the Louisiana political situation this fall was started tonight as opponents of Senator Huey Long expressed gratification over the committee's personnel.

Speaker Byrns late today named Representative Granfield [Dem., Mass.] as chairman of the investigating committee. Granfield introduced a resolution just before adjournment which gave the committee sweeping powers.

Other appointees were Wilcox [Dem., Fla.] Thom [Dem., O.], Lewis [Dem., Colo.], Barden [Dem., N. C.], Lehlbach [Rep., N. J.] and Hancock [Rep., N. Y.].

Representative Dear [Dem., La.], one of five anti-Long house members who sat on the edges of chairs today hoping the speaker would observe their requests for an "aggressive" committee, said he would ask that the Louisiana inquiry be initiated this fall.

Mrs. Anna Kaplan Sues Garage Man for Divorce

Mrs. Anna Kaplan, 426 Belmont avenue, started suit in Circuit court yesterday for separate maintenance from Edward Kaplan, described in the bill as half owner of the Belmont garage, 3157 Broadway. The bill, filed by Attorney Hylan J. Brown, charges cruelty, desertion, nonsupport, and infidelity.

CONGRESS GROUP WARY IN TALK OF NEW DEAL LOBBY

Dodge Direct Statements on West's Activity.

Illinois congressmen back from Washington yesterday found that, while the home folks were anxious to discuss several phases of affairs at the capital, no subject was more interesting than the activities of President Roosevelt's personal lobbyist, Charles West, a former congressman from Ohio, who bears the title of undersecretary of the interior.

Never in the history of congress, the home folks had been told, has there been such a persistent invasion of the floor as West's. Never before, they recited, had a confessed lobbyist had the exclusive use of a room in the senate office building, and never before had such an outsider had the right to employ the office of the speaker of the house as a headquarters to which he summoned members when he wished to see them.

The returned congressmen admitted their amazement that West "got away with it," but when it came to their talking about his use of promises or threats in return for support of the President's "must" program of legislation they pleaded they had had no personal experience with tactics of this character.

Wary Answers on the Topic.

As a rule the position of Democrats was that arguments of a questionable sort were not necessary with them on party measures. Similarly the Republicans were quick to say that Lobbyist West certainly did not try to win their votes, by fair means or foul.

Not all of the state delegation hurried away from the capital at the earliest possible moment after the dramatic adjournment during Senator Huey Long's filibuster Monday night. Some remained there to take care of constituents' matters—such as jobs—and others felt the need of a rest before coming back to face their constituents.

Even some of those who did arrive here said they weren't willing to air all their views for publication. They asked not to be charged up with anything they said that might rebound if it reached Washington.

In general, even among the Democrats, there was a resentment against the persistent attempts of the executive department to take a direct part in the affairs of the legislative branch of the government, an interference said to have been unprecedented in its defiance of the provision of the constitution providing for the separation of the three branches.

Point to Plum for West.

It was pointed out that West was lobbying actively for such measures as the 5 billion dollar work relief bill long before he was given official standing and that it was following the success of some of these measures that a month ago he was given a $10,000 job as undersecretary of the interior and that his duties did not lessen by one hour his lobbying activities.

It was not until some of the members returned here that they classified West as a member of the Roosevelt professoriat. Until entering upon his recent activities he was professor of political science at Denison university, a work he took up in 1924. He was born in 1895, but his own sketch in Who's Who recites that he has been a "lecturer on international relations since 1921," or since he was 26 years old.

Congressman Harry B. Beam [Dem.] of the Fourth Chicago district said he had known West as a member of the last congress, but added that West hadn't approached him concerning New Deal legislation.

Only Contact Is "Visual."

"I know him," said Beam, "but I don't believe I've talked to him since his appointment. I saw him frequently around the house, but he never said anything to me about any bills.

"No, I didn't hear any reports that he was offering anything or threatening anything to influence votes."

Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin, a Republican, also said he knew West in the Seventy-third congress, but that the lobbyist did not seek to win his vote on any measure.

"For a time," he said, "he seemed to be on the floor every day. Some of us considered that an abuse of his supposed rights as a former member. We felt he had surrendered those rights with his appointment to the interior department.

"But so far as I know he did not approach any Republican. That, of course, would have been dangerous."

Congressman Leo E. Allen of Galena, another Republican, said West apparently confined his labors to the Democratic side of the house.

Cites Snell's Protest.

"About two weeks ago," he said, "the minority leader, Congressman Snell of New York, made a forceful protest against what he described as the 'outrage' of West's being on the floor, but, of course, it was useless. Still, West kept off the Republican side. Usually when I saw him in the chamber he was back of the Democratic side. I suppose the Democrats tipped him off to one of their fellows who was wavering and then he would look up that member and talk to him about the President's wishes."

Congressman James McAndrews, Democrat from the north side Ninth district, said he never met West.

"And I didn't get any patronage," he added.

Other Illinois members of the house who have returned from the capital include Edward A. Kelly [Dem., Third], Thomas J. O'Brien [Dem., Sixth], and Leo Kocialkowski [Dem., Eighth].

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 28.—(AP)—A caucus of 63 social credit candidates and members today indorsed William Aberhart, leader of the Alberta party, making it possible for him to step into the premier's office next week. The party swept the province elections last week, but Aberhart was not a candidate. Coupled with the indorsement motion was a blanket order to Aberhart giving him a free hand in the selection of his cabinet and offering him any seat he selected.

JAMES MOFFETT QUITS AS HEAD OF FEDERAL HOUSING

'Dear Jim' Letter Accepts Resignation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—James A. Moffett, whose New Dealish slant caused his retirement as an officer of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey two years ago, today resigned as federal housing administrator.

Moffett, whose father built up a large fortune in the Standard Oil company, has not been in active charge of the Federal Housing administration for the last four months. He sought to resign in March, was given a furlough by President Roosevelt instead, and left on a world cruise. Returning, he again presented his resignation to the President.

Letter Made Public.

President Roosevelt today made public a letter addressed to "Dear Jim," accepting the resignation effective Sept. 1. The President declared that "I am indeed very sorry that you cannot stay on as federal housing administrator," and added, "You have done a splendid piece of work."

Mr. Moffett presented his resignation in a long letter setting forth the history of the FHA. He reported that the FHA had insured 126 million dollars' worth of modernization construction work and had before it for approval 146 million dollars of mortgages covering new construction and repairs. FHA is doing business at the rate of 60 million dollars a month, he reported.

Blow to Left Wing.

Appointment of Moffett to head the FHA in July, 1934, was a blow to the left wing New Dealers. Although he was too New Dealish for his father's old colleagues in Standard Oil, he was too conservative for Relief Administrator Hopkins, Reserve Board Governor Eccles, and others who fashioned the housing act. They have continued to blame his appointment for the failure of FHA to make a larger dent in unemployment.

Moffett gave as his reason for resigning the fact that "my personal affairs require my undivided attention." Since his ousting from Standard Oil he has had no private business other than management of his large fortune. He recently married Mrs. A. K. Moran, widow and heiress of the former New York tugboat multimillionaire. Moffett is understood to be in poor health.

Landon Press Conference Cut Short by Circus Parade

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Through the windows of Gov. Alf M. Landon's office today came the blare of a band. "That's all for you," he said to newspaper men at a press conference. Out of the office he dashed past persons waiting to see him. "I never miss a circus parade if I can help it," he shouted back.

SPANISH VETS TO GET CHECKS FOR PENSIONS SEPT. 1

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Increased compensation checks will be sent out Sept. 1 by the veterans' administration to about 210,000 Spanish-American war veterans and their dependents as the result of congressional action in restoring these claimants to the pension rolls. Some 15,000 other beneficiaries dropped by the economy act will be restored as fast as the bureau can reëxamine their claims.

About 45 million dollars will be the annual cost of the increase approved by congress and signed by President Roosevelt on Aug. 13, administration spokesmen have estimated.

The 210,000 veterans and dependents will receive a 25 per cent increase in the next checks sent out, while the 15,000 completely severed from the beneficiary rolls by passage of the economy act will be returned to the same status they held at that time.

POLITICS PERILS SOCIAL WELFARE, SAYS SCHWEPPE

Control of Hospitals by Federal Bureaus Feared.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Disastrous results of present trends which, if continued, will put political bureaus in charge of all hospitals, education, relief, welfare work, and all social institutions were envisioned yesterday in a statement by Charles H. Schweppe, president of St. Luke's hospital and former trustee of Northwestern university.

Mr. Schweppe explained that he had withheld the statement until the adjournment of congress in order that nonpartisan thought could be given to a serious situation.

One road, he pointed out, leads finally but surely to some form of bureau ridden Fascism with resulting limitations of freedom to the great majority of citizens. The other, Mr. Schweppe said, leads toward constantly improving living standards through wealth sharing in its highest form, such as improved public health, scientific advance, and social progress. Politically designed "share the wealth" notions, which only go so far as dollars and cents, he declared, are mainly the purchase price of freedom now enjoyed by the rank and file.

Fears New Disaster.

In addition to the rise of burocracy in America, Mr. Schweppe pointed to another disaster in the present trend which he defined as "loss of social consciousness." This loss was described as the direct result of declining opportunity for citizens, as such, to follow their dollars with personal interest in the field of social progress.

Mr. Schweppe cited President Roosevelt's defeat in his plan to allow no deduction from taxable income for gifts to churches, hospitals, and other not-for-profit agencies. Fifteen per cent of total taxable income may now be deducted for charitable gifts, but Mr. Schweppe declared the present movement is in the direction of the President's suggestion. He also cited agitation for certain state and inheritance taxes adverse to private agencies of helpfulness.

This agitation, the statement declared, probably will continue. But if so, the gradual result will be that "all incentive for giving or subscribing funds to social enterprises which represent independent efforts of thoughtful persons to meet social problems" will decline and finally disappear.

Mr. Schweppe admitted that a certain amount of governmental work is needed in the field of social institutions, but he charged that funds above a reasonable minimum which are taken, through wrong kinds of taxes, from independent agencies are almost directly given over to similar agencies run by politics.

This goes on, Mr. Schweppe stated, despite the fact that "independent institutions generally can render a higher quality of service more economically and efficiently than those run by political agencies," and that current trends are toward "transfer of all social activity . . . to political agencies."

Challenges Policy as Unfair.

The statement then challenged this policy as unfair to private hospitals and other institutions through wrong kinds of taxation and which, it is charged, sets up competing government services.

"No one vitally interested in social enterprise can view this situation with equanimity," Mr. Schweppe declared. Reasons elaborated in the statement for this stand, with the hospital as the example, are:

1—Independent hospitals have consistently led the way in hospital service. Their administration has nearly always been superior.

2—Contributions to medical science of independent hospitals have been greater. Great scientists and professional men do not go into government service as readily as into private institutions, wishing neither that their work be interrupted by political whim nor their rigorous discipline modified by political expediency.

Records of Discoveries Cited.

3—Greater scientific discoveries which create new wealth and improve living standards almost invariably come out of privately endowed research. Mr. Schweppe pointed to great philanthropic foundations which "employ men and methods which do as much or more than any other agency to raise living standards of society."

"One must never lose sight of the fact that Louis Pasteur, pioneer in the study of germs, probably did more to sell electric ice boxes than all advertising and sales agencies combined," Mr. Schweppe declared. "It is the independent institution which, in the American scheme, backs such men today."

"A deeper and more important issue in this situation" concerning general criticism of leaders for their lack of social consciousness was submitted by Mr. Schweppe. He admitted the existence of this, but asserted that its cause lies in the governmental movement toward stifling independent social enterprise.

"Wealth sharing," said Mr. Schweppe, "is not a new idea coming out of minds of politicians. On the contrary, American philanthropists in many instances have actually achieved the best form of wealth sharing—a voluntary repayment.

ACTION SPEEDED ON WPA PLAN TO HIRE 90,000 HERE

Mayor Urges Cleanup and Safety Projects.

Mayor Kelly held a series of conferences yesterday for the purpose of whipping into shape all plans for employing 90,000 men and women on Federal Works Progress administration projects in Chicago before or soon after the first fall of snow. Federal funds of more than 119 million dollars will be asked by the city, park district, and schools.

This amount is in addition to an allotment of $32,544,000, approved by President Roosevelt and made public Tuesday, for repairing and resurfacing nearly 1,000 miles of streets in Chicago. The mayor said the city was ready to start when money allocations cleared through governmental agencies in Washington. The street program will furnish employment for 38,000 men.

Sept. 12 Set as Deadline.

Ralph H. Burke, deputy administrator of WPA for Illinois, who participated in the mayor's conferences, said he had been notified that all WPA projects must be in the hands of national officials by Sept. 12. The order coincides with the deadline laid down Monday by President Roosevelt for all projects under the public works administration, or PWA. Of the four billion dollar works fund appropriated by congress to shift people from relief to made work, millions were earmarked for PWA.

The city, parks, and schools are seeking money from both the WPA, headed by Harry Hopkins, and the PWA, of which Secretary of the Interior Ickes is administrator.

The projects for which the city hopes to obtain WPA money, and their status, is as follows: Street improvements, approved; sewer rehabilitation, in negotiation and proposed request for federal funds may be cut from $40,000,000 to $20,000,000; island airport, $8,600,000, Chicago Plan commission preparing figures; permanent lake front fair, plans being drafted by fair commission for groundwork costing $6,000,000.

Proposes $15,000,000 Cleanup.

Two new projects were proposed yesterday by the mayor. One was a "city beautiful" plan, to cost $15,000,000, including demolition of buildings, the planting of trees on parkways, new street signs, landscaping, and a general "city-wide cleanup."

"All unsightly spots would be removed where the city has the power to do it," explained the mayor.

A second plan suggested by Mayor Kelly was the employment of relief clients in safety lanes set up in parkways and boulevards. The men would test brakes, wheel alignments and lights for the motoring public. The mayor declared such a plan would aid the campaign for greater trafic safety. No estimate was made of the cost.

Projects Asked of PWA.

From the PWA the city will ask a total of $32,817,061. Projects, upon which applications will be submitted within a few days, include:

Police and fire stations, $1,054,545; new street lights, $1,263,636; new bridges, $7,604,545; 103d street viaduct, $932,165; south side filtration plant, $21,159,570; navy pier improvements, $311,420; Calumet harbor improvements, $250,000; and city playgrounds, $250,000. Other projects that may raise the proposal for PWA funds to $60,000,000, including a municipal maternity hospital, tuberculosis sanitarium improvements, and another filtration plant, are in a nebulous state.

The Chicago park district is preparing projects calling for federal funds of $20,000,000 and the school board, proposals for $18,000,000.

WPA officials for Illinois approved 21 projects, asking for $1,054,800 in federal funds, and sent them to Washington for approval yesterday. The largest was for $657,696 to put 1,034 men to work improving grounds around 376 public schools in Chicago.

STREET PROGRAM SHAPED

Details of carrying out the task of putting 38,000 men to work on the street program began to take form yesterday at a conference between Mayor Kelly, Mr. Burke and City Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt. The city's contribution toward the program is estimated at $5,090,000, which represents the services of 1,2000 men from the department of streets in supervisory capacities and the use of city trucks and equipment.

Asked directly how graft and corruption would be kept out of the elaborate program, Burke replied that it would be a miracle if isolated cases of "cheating" did not crop up, but he pointed out that a force of 1,600 men, drawn from the relief rolls and placed on the federal WPA pay rolls would be a safeguard. The 1,600, he said, would inspect materials, superintend weighing and certify all pay rolls.

City's Part in Project.

The federal government through Burke and his organization will be in complete charge of the program while the city will be called on from time to time for men and materials.

The street repair and improvement work has been divided into 130 projects, 70 of which will be for repairs to asphalt pavement, 30 for repairs to brick pavement and 30 for grading and surfacing of unimproved streets. The projects all provide treatment of short stretches and will extend throughout the city to places where repairs and improvements are needed most.

Unimproved streets, Hewitt explained, will be graded and prepared for drainage. In the center will be laid a 16 foot strip of crushed stone, six inches deep, which will be covered with a tar preparation.

ANOTHER PWA STRIKE STAGED IN NEW YORK BY 'WHITE COLLARS'

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—While the placement bureau of the WPA labored to catch up with the task of assigning to jobs the hordes of home relief recipients who applied for work under the new "work or get off relief" policy, white collar workers on Works Progress administration projects staged another "protest strike" today.

This walkout, similar to one a week ago and called by white collar organization leaders, lasted from 2 to 5 p. m., the usual quitting hour on the projects. A massmeeting of the strikers was held.

Meanwhile Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, director of the Works Progress administration, and officials of the Home Relief bureau engaged in a controversy as to responsibility for the confusion which resulted when the HRB began sending thousands of relief recipients to the placement bureau, completely swamping the clerks engaged there in assigning the men to WPA jobs.

Gen. Johnson asserted that the HRB violated an agreement to send no more than 5,000 men a day to the placement bureau.

This was denied by Miss Charlotte Carr, head of the HRB, and her assistant, who contended that the general had told her to notify all employable persons on the relief rolls to report for assignment to WPA jobs.

Gen. Johnson announced tonight that 13,000 men had been put to work on WPA projects.

INVOKE OLD LAW TO SELL REALTY HELD BY ALIENS

Gen. Clinnin Will Lay Plan Before State's Attorney.

A movement was begun yesterday to put into effect an almost forgotten state law limiting the right of aliens to own real estate in Illinois. Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Americanization section of the Illinois Bar association, announced that he would write a letter to State's Attorney Courtney asking how the statute, which was adopted in its present form in 1897, is being enforced.

The law forbids an alien over 21 years of age to hold title to real estate for more than six years. If an alien exceeds the six year period the law requires that his holding be sold and the proceeds turned over to the state.

The law imposes the duty on the state's attorney to proceed by information in such cases in the Circuit court, which is required in proper cases to order the judicial sale of such alien owned realty. If the state's attorney should neglect or refuse to do his duty, the law provides, any citizen may bring the proper proceeding, for which the court would reimburse him.

War Vet Digs Up the Law.

The law was brought to Gen. Clinnin's attention by Joseph W. Nosek, assistant city attorney and junior vice commander of Dorman-Dunn post of the American Legion. Nosek was born in Czechoslovakia. He was captain of the 124th field artillery, headquarters company, 33d division, during the world war.

Nosek declared statistics reveal that thousands of aliens are the owners of real estate in Illinois and that they are more interested in the accumulation of wealth than in the acquisition of United States citizenship which would legally entitle them to hold realty.

By conducting a survey among building and loan associations Nosek said he found, for example, that 35 per cent of the Czechoslovakians who have their mortgages financed are aliens.

Assails "Mollycoddling."

"You will find aliens in any national group agitating communism," asserted Nosek. "Yet we mollycoddle them by putting them on the relief rolls."

Clinnin declared there are 5 million aliens in the United States who entered the country illegally and thus are prevented from becoming American citizens. If these persons could be sent out of the country, unemployment could be reduced by one-half, he said.

Aside from enforcing existing statutes, such as the Illinois alien property law, Clinnin advocated congressional legislation terminating all passports in this country at the end of two years if the aliens fail to take out naturalization papers.

RELIEF WILL END AS WPA JOBS INCREASE, IERC OFFICIAL WARNS

A warning that as the federal Works Progress administration gains momentum in furnishing employment on projects the work relief program under the Illinois Emergency Relief commission will be terminated was issued yesterday to relief officials here by Leo M. Lyons, Cook county administrator of the IERC.

Lyons pointed out that work relief projects in all but the six largest counties of the state have been ordered closed by Sept. 1. He thanked local governmental units for their cooperation in providing projects that made possible the employment of approximately 55,000 heads of families during the last eighteen months.

ELECT LEGION HEAD.

Beatrice, Neb., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Edgar J. Boschult of Lincoln today was elected unanimously as commander of the Nebraska American Legion.

C. A. MOORE III. CHARGES WIFE IS CRUEL; SUES

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Charles Arthur Moore III. of Greenwich and New York, filed suit for divorce here today against Rhea Logan Munroe Moore of Bedford Village, N. Y. He charges cruelty. The petition asks the court to decide custody of their 3 year old daughter.

Mr. Moore is the son of Charles Arthur Moore of Greenwich and Mrs. Spencer T. W. Stewart; a grandson of Charles Arthur Moore, close friend of President McKinley, and a nephew of the former Duchess Torlonia, whose son recently married the daughter of former King Alfonso.

Mrs. Moore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews Munroe of New York and Chicago. They were married in Greenwich June 13, 1931.

Ex-Prosecutor Swanson's Home Looted by Burglars

Former State's Attorney John A. Swanson, 7217 Crandon avenue, reported to the Grand Crossing police last night that a burglar had broken into his home and stolen a wrist watch and other articles valued altogether at $85. The thief smashed the lock on the front door of the house while the family was away on a vacation.

This is the Least You can do

Business training can do just so much. Some succeed with it, others without it.
But it is only logical to agree that if you want some one to hire you, you must offer him something more than ambition. Even to be considered, you must offer some ability, some service for which the employer has use.
We submit that acquiring Gregg training is one of the best ways to sell your ability and worthiness to be hired.
If you will call, write or telephone State 1881, you may have our very interesting catalog.

IT'S NOT A WAR.

News from Paris is that the stultified and stupefied council of the league of nations may find its way out of darkest Africa. Premier Laval has been giving the question his best thought. It has required a concentration of brain power, but Laval had every reason to push the old cells to the limit. He doesn't want to offend Italy and he doesn't want to offend Great Britain. He doesn't want to start anything, and he's afraid that if anything is stopped something will be started. For the last fortnight his prayer has been for good headwork. The mental struggle may have been crowned with success.

When statesmanship has been chased up a tree the thing needed is a formula. A formula is something which operates by not operating. It does nothing while seeming to satisfy all the requirements for action.

Laval's formula is simple. It isn't new, and that may be one of its merits. It has been tried before and it works. It is this: The Italian invasion of Ethiopia is not to be a war. It is to be understood by the civilized world that Ethiopia is not being attacked. One member of the league, Italy, is to make a call on another member, Ethiopia. The Italians are all dressed up and must have a place to go. Two or three hundred thousand of them, with an interesting mechanical display, will visit Haile Selassie, the king of kings, the lion of Judah. Their trunks will follow them. They are going in for a prolonged visit. If they like the country they may adopt it.

This was the Japanese formula in Manchuria, and the league has only to recall its experience in that connection to be guided in the present embarrassment. It is true that the league lost Japan, which took its hat and went home. Apparently there is to be no display of hurt feelings in the impending event. Italy no doubt will remain a member of the league, as will Ethiopia, the latter being under the protection of all guaranties making membership in the international peace foundation so desirable and beneficial to the smaller countries which otherwise might tempt the rapacity of their bigger brothers.

In Addis Ababa the townspeople are being trained to rush and hide in the brush when they hear three cannon shots. That will be the signal that the Italian visitors are arriving by air and will be dropping their calling cards of high explosives. With three good jumps after the three cannon shots the most nimble of the Ethiopian townspeople may be able to hide out. They are not a timid people, but they show no signs of desiring this visitation. They have been doing their best to avoid it by appealing to the better sentiments of the civilized world. There's nothing in the portents to give them much hope. They are going to get a war and they are going to like it.

The Laval formula will recognize Italy's visit as a colonizing enterprise and all will be well. The statesmen of Europe will go to lunch and over their wine reflect that it continues to be the best of worlds. After all, the bombs are dropping on a dark continent and not a white one. Charity begins at home.

VIOLENCE BRED BY VIOLENCE.

A young farm hand was killed near Kankakee a few days ago, presumably by chicken thieves. Cattle rustlers and chicken thieves have been unusually active in recent months. The losses suffered by farmers have run into many thousands of dollars.

Stockyards men say the high price of live stock has encouraged thievery. That may be part of the explanation, but it is not all of it. Another factor has been the general breakdown in the respect paid to property rights, a breakdown in which the spokesmen of farmers in congress have played a conspicuous part. Those who shout, day after day, that the have-nots are entitled to the property of the haves must expect to win some converts.

Farmers find that their property is at the mercy of men who do not hesitate to use violence to gain their ends. Here, too, the farmers are not blameless. In some parts of the country they have not hesitated to spill the milk and wreck the trucks of other farmers. Beatings have been frequent. Sheriffs and judges have been mobbed while attempting to carry out their sworn duties. Violence breeds violence. If the farmers are now the victims they must blame themselves in some part. They planted an idea which is now bearing bitter fruit.

SAYS MOSCOW TO WASHINGTON.

Moscow tells Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull that the soviet republics have done no wrong and therefore there is nothing to discuss. The communist internationale, which holds its congresses in Russia, is not even an in-law of the workers' government. When Stalin takes part in its deliberations he is merely a citizen of the world. If the affairs of the United States are discussed it is only because the United States is a part of the world. If American citizens, who are also citizens of the world, choose to enter Russia and attend meetings of the congress they are free to do so. If they discuss the prospects of the proletarian revolution back home free speech would protect them in their right.

These are the intimations in the reply handed Mr. Bullitt for the satisfaction of his superiors in Washington. If the pledges in Max Litvinoff's letter seem to say that the communist government promised to suppress such agitation on its own soil against the government of a friendly country, the impression probably grows out of the inaccuracies of the English text. In the Russian it may be clear that exception was made in favor of such inciting of revolution as might at any time actually take place. What the jolly Max promised was that whatever the Russians did prevent they would prevent, and whatever they didn't they were not obliged to.

Mr. Hull might ease the diplomatic tension by inviting the next congress of the third internationale to meet in Washington. Then Russia would not be permitting conspiracy against the American government to keep open house on its territory, and the New Deal might pick up many interesting ideas which it could use in its own progress. The New Dealers and the comrades might soon discover that they had much in common and few points of disagreement. The comrades might conclude that there was nothing urgent for them to do at present here, and they might be well content to let nature take its course. Up to a certain point the New Dealers would be useful in clearing the ground and preparing the way. At the proper time the comrades could take over. We see no particular cause for a quarrel at this time between Washington and Moscow.

THE HIGH SCHOOL R. O. T. C.

Reserve Officers Training Corps units in Chicago high schools are to be extended this fall to eleven more schools, making a total of twenty-eight in which this fine training is offered. This will increase enrollment in the corps to 11,000 boys.

The extension of the training is made at the solicitation of President McCahey and the other members of the school board. They have found that the R. O. T. C. units improve school spirit and morale and that the schools in which they are established are little troubled by communist or other subversive activities.

The school authorities are naturally most concerned with this direct effect of military training on the Chicago schools. The junior R. O. T. C. has a still more important function, however, in our preparations for national defense. Those high school cadets who go on to college may enter the senior R. O. T. C. there and after four years' further training are eligible to commissions as reserve officers of the army. This is the objective of the whole R. O. T. C. project from the standpoint of the army.

Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of schools, has found that it is the graduate of high school R. O. T. C. who is most likely to continue his college military training and get a reserve commission rather than the student who gets his first training in college. Under our American plan of national defense these reserves would furnish most of the officers of a citizen army called into being in any major war. By their sponsorship of the R. O. T. C. extension President McCahey and the school trustees are thus making an important contribution to national defense as well as improving the school system.

Editorial of the Day

WORTH COMMEMORATING.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Arrangements for the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the Ordinance of 1787 were placed in the hands of a Northwest Territory celebration commission by an act of congress, which Mr. Roosevelt signed a few days ago.

The people of Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin will look forward to this coming event in 1937 with particular interest, for theirs are the five states that were carved out of the territory for the government of which the Ordinance of 1787 was enacted by the continental congress.

After the revolution the United States found itself in possession of the vast back country north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi through the surrender by the several states of their claims to it based on their early charters. What to do with this territory was for some years an issue before the people.

An ordinance for its government, drafted by Jefferson, was passed in 1784, but no action was taken under it. This ordinance contained two essential ideas of the American territorial system: Temporary or territorial government and ultimate admission to the Union on terms of equality with the other states.

The Ordinance of 1787 appropriated these ideas and added to them this provision: "There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory, otherwise than in punishment of crimes whereof the party shall have been duly convicted."

Seventy-eight years later the thirteenth amendment applied that identical language to the entire United States and all territory under its jurisdiction, a tribute to the advanced ideas of the framers of the organic law for the Northwest Territory.

Written in the same year as the constitution of the United States, the Ordinance of 1787 deserves to rank among American state papers second only to the constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

The tribute that will be paid to its authors two years hence will do honor to the politically most enlightened era in the history of this country.

A BIT FOGGY.

At one time during a season of heavy fog a London daily paper offered a prize for the best fog story. The story given here won the prize:

A merchant received a telephone message one morning from one of his clerks. "Hello, Mr. Smith," said the clerk over the wire, "I cannot come down to the shop this morning on account of the fog. I have not yet arrived home yesterday."—Toronto Globe.

WAKE-LINE LETTER BOX.

DEAR WAKE-LINE: While you were sojourning in these parts several years ago you sounded the tocsin for a national lottery and promised the government a huge profit if allowed to run it yourself. Your suggestion, I suspect, was in a spirit of bravado, because at that time prohibition still was in effect, and our so-called morals in other respects were being rather closely guarded.

Times have changed since then, so I revive your suggestion and nominate you for administrator of the HLSSL [Home Lovers Social Security Lottery]. There may be some debate about the initials, but all of us are home lovers, are we not? Social security is a magic word just now. And there would be no question about the lottery if you were administrator.

Previous objections have been on the ground of public gambling. Within five years more than twelve states have legalized gambling on horse races. The present administration is spending money it hasn't got and it's a gamble whether it ever will be able to pay back this public debt without repudiation or partial repudiation. So that objection is answered.

Others may argue that only those with money would be able to buy tickets and thus stand a chance of winning the huge capital prizes you would provide. Adopting current policy, give a free ticket to every person on relief, to the unemployed, and to all federal, state, and municipal taxeaters. Sell tickets only to those gainfully employed. Thus share the wealth.

Now there's another thing about this lottery plan not apparent at first thought. Besides the "take" of, say, 50 per cent which the government could grab off, think of the income tax percentage on the capital prizes. Or, if the selfish winners hoarded their wealth, the estate taxes ultimately would get them. Thus eventually the government would get back nearly all the money. Meantime we'd all get a thrill at the drawings, monthly or quarterly. Come on, let's get this lottery thing, this HLSSL, started.

Perhaps one shouldn't gloat, but I gloated when I saw the traffic officer at Foster and Sheridan, something of a bottle neck at the evening rush hour, give just deserts to one of those pests who take the wrong lane, if less crowded, then veer over in front of the fellow who has kept in line during delay. When this particular pest cut across and attempted to go north the traffic officer stopped him and forced him to continue west on Foster. The fellow knew better; one could tell that by his sheepish expression on being thwarted.

This Wake-Line Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

PUGILISTIC CHAMPION JIM BRADDOCK, who rode to public sympathy because he rose from relief rolls to the title, picks Maxie Baer to defeat Joe Louis in their impending engagement. That's natural enough. Jim has a decision over Maxie. He never has met Joe. Perhaps that's just his good luck.

COLLEGIANS OR BEARS.

All-American collegians and Chicago Bears, respectively highest grade amateur and professional football players in the country, meet at Soldiers' field tonight.

Not being in our accustomed haunts, it does not devolve on us to pick the winner. To those interested in that sort of thing we may say that majority opinion of those not influenced by sentiment favors the Bears. So it did last year with an even larger majority predicting dire disaster for the soft collegians. The score, as you remember, was 0 to 0.

There is no basis on which to make comparisons. Not all the same Bears and none of the collegians who met a year ago take the field tonight. Advance indications are for two strong offenses. College defense is the question mark. In addition "breaks," just as important in football as "racing luck" in a big stake engagement, are in the list of perplexing factors.

The result might be three touchdowns to nothing either way. It probably won't. What the Wake-Line would like to see would be a score of 21 to 14. So far as we're concerned the better team will be welcomed as winner, just so 80,000 spectators see a thrilling contest played with true sportsmanship.

AUGUST VERSION.

Deannette M. Small.

WE WONDER WHY BOATS "LIMP BACK" to port after mishap or accident. Which reminds that the late B. L. T., one time beloved conductor of this column, once asked why race horses after a serious accident were "destroyed" and not killed, referring the question to our sports department. And all we were able to tell him was that it was customary phraseology.

CARPING.

Sir: Why all this fuss over carp? Out west where I came from the natives refuse to eat it. They call it "scavenger fish." To illustrate: One night I heard an elderly lady say to her husband as they passed a bungalow, "That's where that gentleman who eats carp lives." To which her husband replied, "My dear, he's no gentleman if he eats carp." Different places, different tastes.

CARBON DIOXIDE AND CORONARY DISEASE.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS or occlusion has been referred to many times. Nevertheless, this accident—it may be termed such bcause it usually comes on suddenly—requires such careful management that all the information that can be offered is certain to be welcomed.

To insure a clear understanding of the condition we may repeat that the heart muscle is supplied with blood through the coronary arteries. These vessels branch into smaller twigs so that blood may reach all the working cells of this powerful pumping organ. Whenever, by reason of disease, one of these branches becomes blocked that portion of the heart muscle supplied by the branch is deprived of nourishment. Symptoms of pain and restlessness usually follow.

The objective, then, is to give the heart all the rest possible—to relieve it of work so that healing of the anemic muscle may occur or, better still, so that other vessels in the vicinity of the blocked artery may enlarge and supply blood to the area.

Once coronary disease has been recognized, the patient will ask: "What is my fate? What program must I follow? What work can I do?"

During the past few years numerous plans involving rest and appropriate treatment have been successfully adopted. A veritable army of patients, each with a block of a fairly large vessel, is functioning at anywhere from 60 to 90 per cent of normal efficiency. In order to accomplish this favorable result, rather prolonged rest is necessary, with a reduction in the amount of physical and mental load. After a period of rest, work is gradually resumed on a moderate basis.

Treatment has also been tried in another direction, namely, through the use of carbon dioxide baths. Along with this procedure, diet, rest, and exercise are regulated. The baths are outlined on a 21 day basis, and during the period any and all heart stimulants, such as digitalis, are discontinued unless there appears to be danger of heart failure. Special attention is given to reducing the weight of those who are obese and in some instances the total daily calories [although balanced and containing adequate vitamins] are dropped as low as 500. In order to secure bulk in the intestines, pulpy vegetables or agar are used. Fluids which, we must again emphasize, require restriction in heart disease are reduced to a total of two quarts in 24 hours.

The carbon dioxide baths are given every day or every other day at a temperature between 91 and 95 degrees F., 5 to 10 minutes in length. The concentration of carbon dioxide gas in the water is not lower than half saturation or higher than complete saturation. A rest hour follows the bath.

A significant report has just been issued by C. R. Comstock and his colleagues on the results of this treatment in 107 cases of coronary disease. At the outset each patient was told as much as he could understand about the nature of the disease, how it came about, and just why there had to be a change in his mode of life. It was explained that many who had suffered from coronary accidents had returned to a useful life, although on a more restricted work plan. The patients were also told that pain that might be felt beneath the breast bone should be viewed as a friendly pain, a signal advising the patient that there is danger ahead and that prompt rest is indicated. As Comstock's report puts it, "The endeavor was to slow the patient's tempo of life, to teach him to live with his disease, and help him to retain his optimism without neglecting the lessons of caution."

The 107 patients averaged 61 years of age, and all but 11 showed material improvement. There was an increase in the amount of exercise that could be taken, and the degree and severity of the pain were markedly reduced.

The value of the treatment is not ascribed wholly to the "fizz water" bath, although it is claimed that this gas acts somewhat like digitalis. While the carbon dioxide treatment is given at many of our hot springs, it can be adapted to hospitals or even the home.

CHILDBIRTH.

G. R. S. writes: I am 33 years of age and had one ovary and one Fallopian tube removed five years ago.

1. What is the possibility of becoming pregnant with but one ovary?
2. Would there be any effect on the child?
3. Would childbirth be safe?

REPLY.

1. If the remaining ovary is intact and is functioning normally, ova are being produced regularly. These will find their way into the Fallopian tube which, if patent [open] will permit passage into the uterus. Pregnancy occurs in the tube itself. If the remaining tube is closed, even with a normally functioning ovary, pregnancy cannot take place.
2. No.
3. Yes, in the hands of an expert obstetrician. A Cesarean section could be performed if circumstances warrant.

RED PEPPER.

Southerner writes: 1. Do you consider food highly seasoned with red pepper healthful?

2. Does it not tend to destroy the microbes and parasites in the inner lining of the stomach?

REPLY.

1. On the contrary, it is most unhealthful. Pepper contains a volatile oil that is extremely irritating to the mucous membrane of the digestive tract. Kidney cells are also likely to be damaged.
2. No.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HAROLD TATAM.

BUENOS AIRES.—Has the Fascist bug bitten the Argentine republic sufficiently hard to bring a semi-Fascist dictatorship within the range of possibility in the near future? Until recently such a theory would have been laughed to scorn as sheer lunacy, but it has lately become a subject for animated debate amongst political observers in the privacy of their clubs or their homes.

The newspapers, in criticizing governmental decrees and sundry "planks" which have been inserted into the unofficial programs of certain legislators, have denounced their semi Fascist nature, but until the leading Buenos Aires newspaper, La Prensa, editorially sounded a note of alarm it cannot be said that the average citizen had any qualms on the point.

The citizen imagined that the national constitution assured him a thoroughly democratic form of government, absolute and irrevocable, and he dismissed the growing tendency to institute minor reforms by decree instead of the orthodox legislative route as an amiable weakness of his rulers. He voiced mild disapproval of congressional supineness in the face of such encroachments and let it go at that.

But the action of a large section of the conservative bloc in the legislature of the province in Buenos Aires in urging a reform of the franchise laws has awakened John Citizen to a realization of the fact that one of his "inalienable rights" is in peril of forfeiture.

The law of the land declares that the "secret and compulsory vote is the inherent right of the Argentine citizen," but it has occurred to the conservatives of the Queen province that this clause would read very much better if the words "secret and compulsory" were eliminated, and they are agitating for such deletion.

Again, although the federal government's ill-omened press gag decree has gone into the limbo of forgotten things once the attorney general had expressed his opinion thereon, the fact that the government by means of this overnight decree proposed to institute a fundamental reform which congress itself would not be empowered to enact without first changing the constitution itself has aroused a strong feeling that "Fascist-mindedness" is afflicting some of the occupants of government house.

While there is a big gap between legislative proposals and governmental decrees smacking of Fascist inspiration and the actual rise of a Fascist dictatorship La Prensa's note of warning has caused the public at large to do a lot of hard thinking in their spare time of late.

SIDEWALK DISPLAYS.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there a law compelling merchants to refrain from displaying their goods on the sidewalk? On Lincoln avenue the merchants have the sidewalk almost completely obstructed. It is impossible to walk through there with a baby buggy. Several days ago while passing my wife caught her dress on a nail sticking out of an orange crate. Other people have complained, especially on Saturdays when the condition is impossible. 2. Could anything be done about this? G. G.

1. In our opinion, such displays are illegal, but obviously the law is not enforced in all cases.
2. The first step would be to complain to the police.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

The popular idea of most movie goers is that Mae West is both large and heavy. A letter from her manager says that her actual measurements are as follows: "Height, 5 feet 2 inches; weight, 116 pounds; dress size, 18; shoes, 4½C; gloves, 6¼; hats, 21½-22." It is said that Miss West is heavily padded in many of her pictures to produce the impression that she is heavy. This notion is furthered also by the angles at which the pictures of her are taken by the cameramen.

BRITAIN'S MOTIVES.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The published explanations of England's interest in the Italian-Ethiopian controversy seem very unreal to me, for one. The usual explanations are three: [1] That England does not want Lake Tsana under Italian control since this might hurt her activities on the Nile; [2] that if Italy gobbles up Ethiopia the league of nations will go by the boards; [3] that England wants Italy to keep her troops at home in case Germany should attempt to seize Austria.

As to the first point, it is hard to believe that Italy would not be willing to guarantee British rights in the Lake Tsana district in return for a free hand elsewhere in Ethiopia. British friendship is valuable to Italy, and it is simply incredible that Mussolini would not be eager to keep England's support at so small a price.

The second is more understandable as a reason, but even here there are difficulties. Surely England could have put pressure on Italy a little sooner in the game. Mussolini cannot retreat now without loss of prestige, but he could have been prevented from starting this row by a firm stand by Britain earlier—say at the time of the Stresa conference. Furthermore, England's regard for the rights of weak nations has been variable, to say the least.

On the third explanation, if England wants Italy as an ally to keep Hitler in check this does not seem the best way to attain that end. If you want a friend to do you a favor you do not wisely begin by thwarting his plans in other respects.

My sympathy is frankly with Ethiopia in this matter, and I think England is doubtless trying to curb Italian plans of conquest; but the question is why? Especially why do it this way? J. L. S.

FLOODED BASEMENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—John A. Brown's letter and another one which appeared in the Voice of the People recently regarding flooded basements in the south shore district would indicate that people are beginning to become agitated about this condition.

Foundations of homes, most of which cost between $8,000 and $20,000, are gradually being undermined by this continual flooding after heavy rains. To overcome flooded basements and the consequent cleaning up of the filth which results some owners have installed traps. These very often have caused such pressure that the basement floors are ripped up by the force of the water accumulated in the sewer pipes. Other owners have installed standing pipes, over which the water gushes if the rain is exceptionally heavy.

Is the pumping station caring for this district being operated at its full capacity? Rumor has it that it is not, and it is said that is why the Seventh ward has so many flooded basements.

THE GUFFEY BILL.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Replying to your editorial, "Last Words on the Guffey Coal Bill":

You state prices will be higher. Yes, that is true. Prices will be higher to the large consumers who have been and are making contracts to purchase coal below the cost of production, causing the operators to pass the loss on to the small consumer, who has to pay higher prices to make up this loss.

The increase to the small consumer is insignificant when compared to the increase which the large consumer must pay. JOHN WILSON.

FOR ROOSEVELT.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—The Republican party can't hoodwink the people any more. They think they can stage a comeback by using the constitution as a hideout, but any man or woman who possesses an ounce of mature judgment can easily perceive that it is only camouflage. It is the elephant's dying squeak. Although public opinion is fickle and easily swayed, it will long remember how for three straight Republican administrations this nation of ours was steered directly onto chaotic rocks. And how deplorably true it is that little, if anything, was done to get us off of said rocks until Capt. Roosevelt took over the wheel. And the very idea of depriving American citizens of work, and putting them on relief instead! Why, this is tantamount to taking their independence away from them! If Roosevelt has spent quite an amount of money since he's been in command at least it was spent in this country and for the purpose of helping the people of this country, not sent to foreign nations to help foreigners, like his three immediate predecessors did. MRS. N. DEAN.

TENNIS CLUBS IN THE PARKS.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—It is high time that attention be called to the abuse of public privilege by tennis clubs at Chicago parks, aided and abetted by the park director in charge.

At Blackhawk park, Belden and Lavergne avenues, we find three such so-called tennis clubs which are nothing more than "special privilege clubs." The Blackhawk Park Tennis club, the Polish National Alliance Tennis club, and a girls' tennis club rule the roost there.

There are six courts in this park, and three-quarters of the playing time is usurped by these three groups. The Blackhawk club has the use of two courts at all times, plus another court three evenings a week. The Polish National alliance is permitted the use of two courts on three evenings of the week. The women's tennis club has another court reserved three evenings per week. Now where do the common people come in? TAXPAYER.

AND BUSES.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—In THE TRIBUNE'S "Platform for Chicago" why should the installation of modern street cars be of more importance than the placing of modern buses on the streets? Some of the antiquated motor vehicles which perambulate up and down Chicago streets under the guise of buses would make fit mates for the noisiest, screechiest, rattlingest, roughest riding street cars on our rails. Comfort was certainly not any concern of the designers of these lumbering double-deckers, which have the guards over the rear wheels just in front of a seat in such a manner that even a rubber man or a tailor would be uncomfortable while sitting in that seat. Our street cars may be noisy, but at least they do not give off the gas fumes which arise in clouds to choke and blind the riders of Chicago buses.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 25.—Practically every radio program has a theme song. Turning on my radio last night I ran across one which failed to carry out this idea. After listening to the glib tongue of the nation's slickest politician may I suggest that a certain tobacco company relinquish its theme song to him, to whom it would be more appropriate? I refer to the song "You're an Old Smoothie." M. B.

PUBLIC SUFFERS IN QUARREL OVER PAVING METHODS

Work Left Half Finished as 'Exhibit' in War.

BY HAL FOUST.

Taxicab drivers, truck chauffeurs, and private car operators bounce and bump over the unfinished pavement in two blocks of Ashland avenue north of Devon avenue, ignorant that their uncomfortable experience is being cited to prove something or other in the never ending war between two rival material interests, the concrete and the asphalt producers.

The motoring public has undergone this punishment for almost a year. Merchants of the community have complained. The Broadway-Clark-Devon-Loyola Business association has reported to Springfield that pedestrians are being hit by automobiles due to the condition of the street. Street car patrons have been splashed by rainwater standing in pools due to improper drainage on the unfinished street.

Everybody in the Dark.

But neither the contractor nor the district office of the Illinois highway department had any word yesterday as to when work on the street will be resumed.

As a demonstration of the value of an asphalt top for paving, the experiment is an inadvertence on the part of the highway department. The Horner administration, which is paying for the job with gasoline tax revenue, has looked kindly upon the asphalt industry, although this paving material, according to former administrations that favored concrete, adds fifty per cent to the cost of a slab.

Labor Trouble Blamed.

Last fall the contractor, G. L. Tarlton of East St. Louis, finished the concrete base for this Ashland avenue project. Before the three inch asphalt topping was started, labor trouble developed. The delay became prolonged and the concrete base was opened to trafic notwithstanding the bumps due to manhole covers and the Devon avenue car tracks being three inches higher than the foundation.

So the taxicab drivers, truck chauffeurs, and private car operators have bounced and bumped for almost a year, not knowing what it is all about, unaware that their discomfort is proving that the concrete slab without the $5,000 asphalt topping for the two short blocks can withstand the punishment of trafic.

MRS. PRESCOTT HOLDS HER LEAD IN PLANE DERBY

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Prescott of San Diego, Cal., held her lead in the Ruth Chatterton transcontinental air derby as contestants landed their planes here late today.

Relative positions of the other flyers who have covered 2,1000 miles since the start from Los Angeles remained unchanged on the 229 mile hop from St. Louis here, although Mrs. Ethel Sheehy of Contana, Cal., made the fastest time.

Miss Chatterton, acting as pathfinder, landed at Municipal airport at 5:15 p. m. and the other ships flew in a short time later.

WHISKY AS BAIT LANDS MONKEYS BUT ONE EXPIRES

Massapequa, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—One of the three runaway monkeys, captured when they became drunk on whisky set out in saucers, died of acute alcoholism today. The other two were reported suffering from a bad hangover, but otherwise apparently out of danger.

The monkeys were among the few still at liberty of the band of more than 150 who followed a scar faced rheusus named Al Capone in escaping from the pen at the Frank [Bring 'em Back Alive] Buck animal farm.

The monkeys still at large this morning had resisted the temptation of food, the wiles of females and the counsel of a tame monkey sent out to them, but three fell for half a case of whisky poured out in saucers at the edge of the woods.

The attendants planned to set out the whisky saucers again tonight in an attempt to entice "Capone" and his dwindling band, but this plan was abandoned when the veterinarian, Dr. Philip S. McIntyre, said "acute alcoholism" killed the monkey who died today.

That decision leaves the officials of the camp with half of the case of whisky they bought as monkey bait. And, it is said, they haven't the faintest idea what to do with it.

Wife Divorces Dentist by Toothache Testimony

Mrs. Minnie G. Krinley, 25 years old, 3955 Jackson boulevard, a dramatic teacher, was granted a divorce yesterday by Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton from her husband, Dr. Max E. Krinley, 4300 West 16th street, a dentist, after she told the judge that it was necessary to call him four or five times at a ball game to get him to come home on July 12, 1932. When he got home and asked what the trouble was she told him she had a toothache. He said, "Is that all?" and then struck her, the wife claimed.

IOWA DEMOCRATS ASK ACCOUNTING FROM EX-LEADER

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The Democratic party in Iowa today demanded an accounting from C. J. Feuling of New Hampton, who resigned last June as chairman of the state central committee.

The committee, meeting here today for the first time under leadership of its new chairman, E. J. Birmingham, unanimously adopted a resolution asserting that Feuling "has failed properly to account and report" for finances of the party during his administration.

Feuling, who last May pleaded guilty and paid a $500 fine on charges of failing to file a complete report of Democratic campaign receipts, was silent on the party's action today when approached at Newhampton.

"I've tried to give the party all it wants," he said.

Jacob Feldman Appointed Acting Batavia Postmaster

Word was received yesterday from Washington of the appointment of Jacob Feldman, 52 years old, as acting postmaster at Batavia, effective Aug. 31. He succeeds John Ekman, a Republican appointee who has held the office of postmaster for eight years. Feldman, a bachelor, has been active for years in Kane county Democratic politics. He is in the real estate business.

ROUND TRIP PACIFIC FLIGHT COMPLETED BY CLIPPER PLANE

Alameda, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The Pan-American Airways' huge sky boat, the Flying Clipper, swept down out of the clouds and landed here at 1:55 p. m. [Chicago time] today, completing its first round trip exploratory commercial flight of about 10,000 miles to Wake Island in the Pacific ocean.

The big ship made the final leg of 2,400 miles in better time than even its commander, Capt. R. O. D. Sullivan, had predicted. He estimated it would be a 19 hour trip and his predictions of previous flights have been correct almost to the minute. But the craft made the flight from Honolulu to the mainland in 17 hours and 26 minutes.

The plane rose from the waters of Pearl harbor at Honolulu at 8:29 p. m. [Chicago time] last night. It ascended to an elevation of about 10,000 feet where it found good weather throughout the journey home.

With almost monotonous regularity, hourly radio reports from the four motored flying boat kept headquarters here informed of its steady progress across the 2,400 miles of open water.

The ship averaged 127 miles an hour during most of the flight over the last leg of the proposed trans-Pacific commercial air route. Wake Island will be an overnight stop for regular planes when the transoceanic air line is established.

FOOTBALL HISTORY WILL BE MADE TONIGHT!

THIS IS THE CROWD OF 79,432 WHICH ATTENDED THE FIRST COLLEGE ALL STARS-CHICAGO BEARS FOOTBALL GAME, conceived and sponsored by the Chicago Tribune in 1934. In conducting the polls for players and coaches for this year's College All-Star team, the Tribune had the co-operation of 105 newspapers throughout the country.

MORE THAN 80,000 persons will witness tonight's game between the College All-Stars and the Chicago Bears professional eleven at Soldiers' Field, Chicago.

The same dynamic ability to sell an idea and to get spectacular response from more than 800,000 Chicago Tribune families;

—the power that packs more than 80,000 persons annually into Soldiers' Field to see and hear a music festival;

—that attracts over 100,000 annually to preliminary and final Golden Gloves bouts;

—and draws tens of thousands to skating derbies, swim meets and other Tribune events . . . . is on the job every day selling ideas and merchandise for manufacturers and retailers.

COACHES SPEARS, THOMAS, AND MADIGAN OF THE COLLEGE ALL-STARS—7,317,821 votes were cast in the nation-wide poll to determine the coaching staf of the College All-Stars. To Frank Thomas, coach of the University of Alabama's Rose Bowl champions, fell the responsibility of whipping into fighting trim the 1934 college stars. Able assistants are Coaches Charles Bachman, Michigan State; Dr. C. W. Spears, Wisconsin, and Edward Madigan, St. Mary's, California.

FRED BORRIES, STAR OF 1934 U. S. NAVAL ACADEMY ELEVEN — On special leave from the Pacific fleet in order to play tonight, Borries is but one of the team of 44 stars selected from 29 colleges in the east, south, Pacific coast and middle west.

BRONKO NAGURSKI, CHICAGO BEARS FULL BACK — Tonight's game will be the second in the series conceived and sponsored by the Chicago Tribune. Two years ago just an idea, the All Stars-Bears football game has become as much of a national sports institution as the annual All Stars baseball game which the Tribune initiated and sponsored three years ago, matching for the first time the stars of the National and American baseball leagues in a game which has been picked up and made a fixture by the major leagues.

GEORGE HALAS, CHICAGO BEARS COACH, CONFERS WITH HAROLD (RED) GRANGE, HIS ASSISTANT—Opponents of the College All-Stars tonight will be one of the most powerful teams ever assembled. Coached by George Halas, the Chicago Bears, likewise composed of former college stars, are determined to wipe out the scoreless tie to which they were held by last year's first College All-Stars team.

Patricia Calkins Is Bride

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Schoellkopf IV.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Only Relatives, Close Friends See Ceremony

Miss Patricia Calkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Burnham Calkins of Hubbard Woods, became the bride of J. Fred Schoellkopf IV. of Buffalo yesterday afternoon in a quiet home ceremony witnessed only by relatives and intimate friends. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard of Christ church, Winnetka, read the service before a background of ferns, bowls of lilies on low tables completing the simple decorative scheme.

The bride, tall and blonde, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a severely plain gown of lustrous white satin, made with long sleeves, a long train and a high, rounded neckline. A halo of tulle fastened her billowing tulle veil to her head, and she carried Madonna lilies. She was unattended and the bridegroom had his brother-in-law, Patrick Harold Hodgson of Buffalo, as best man.

Following the ceremony there was a small reception to which some of the bride's young friends had been invited. Mrs. Calkins, who headed the receiving line, wore a smart gown of green printed in brown and a brown coolie hat. Brown orchids were pinned to one shoulder.

Mr. Schoellkopf and his bride left last night by air line for New York to sail for a European wedding trip. Upon their return they will be at home in Buffalo. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Schoellkopf Jr., and Mrs. Hodgson were among his relatives who came from Buffalo for the wedding and attendant festivities.

Miss Fazenda Makes Profit with Orchard

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Hollywood's champion farmerette is Louise Fazenda. She has joined the back-to-the-earth movement with a vengeance. She and her husband purchased a 25 acre apricot grove in the San Fernando valley and cleared away some of the trees to build.

Miss Fazenda didn't want the fruit to go to waste, so she attended lectures on agriculture. Then she visited neighboring ranchers and contracted with them to purchase their fruit. Miss Fazenda dried the apricots and realized a profit of $1,100. As a result of her farming course she cleared away another two acres, one of which she planted to a variety of fruit trees so the family table will have an assortment of fruits in season.

Walter C. Kelly, internationally known stage star, has completed a 23,000 word autobiography which will be published in New York next spring. He has written his experiences behind the footlights. Kelly became famous for his skits dealing with small town folklore in the tidewater country of Virginia. Currently he is working in Paramount's "The Virginia Judge."

Disappearance of Johnny Weismuller's hair almost proved a serious problem to makeup artists at M. G. M. He let it grow long for his new Tarzan rôle. Suddenly it was noticed the hair on the back of his head commenced to get shorter and shorter. Today members of the company were sitting in a projection room watching the daily rushes. It was noticed on the screen that a small monkey Weismuller carried on his back kept nibbling at his hair.

Mugging, in the Hollywood idiom, refers to making faces. A "mugger" is one who contorts his features in various ways largely for getting laughs. Jack Oakie is a "mugger." So are Joe Penner, Lynne Overman, and Ned Sparks, although the latter confines his to one expression. All four happen to be working in Paramount's "Collegiate," which makes the picture a world's champion in a mugging way. Oakie is a 2 to 1 favorite to cop the mugging championship.

Dudley Digges finished his rôle in "Mutiny On The Bounty" and then left for a hospital for a major operation.

Season's Buds Asked to Tea of Service Club

Mrs. Osborne to Entertain on September 17.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. FRANK G. OSBORNE, on whose slim young shoulders rests much of the responsibility for the success of this year's Service club revue, for she is president of the club, will give a tea on Tuesday, Sept. 17, for the board of directors of the club and the debutantes who will take part in the revue.

Mrs. Osborne's own home in Evanston is not large enough for such a party, so she is giving it at the home of her mother, Mrs. Harry I. Robinson, on the Glen View Golf club grounds in Golf.

Performing behind the footlights in the Service club's benefit each season is one of the things to which every debutante looks forward, for, although it is hard work and means hours of rehersing, it is good fun, too, and the raison d'être of many impromptu parties. The buds who combine their debutante activities with going to college have to miss the revue, of course, for it is not given early enough for them to take part in it. This year it is to be even later than usual, for Nov. 2 is the date chosen last spring by the directors.

The theater in which it will be produced has not been decided upon nor has a name for the revue been chosen, but before long these important details will be settled and by early October rehersals will start in the Polo room of the Ambassador East hotel. Men as well as girls will be in the cast and it is anticipated by the optimistic directors that the 1935 revue will be the best the club ever has given.

Miss Pauline Palmer to Bow in East Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer are giving a tea this afternoon in their Bar Harbor home to introduce their daughter Pauline to their eastern friends. The party will be the first one of three which the Palmers are giving to present their daughter to society. The second one will be a small dance on Labor day night in the Maine resort, and the third a dance in Chicago on Dec. 29 at their Astor street apartment.

Arden Shore Dance Set for Oct. 18.

Oct. 18 is a date to be marked in the engagement books of pleasure loving folk with large red letters, "Arden Shore benefit," for the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association announces a dinner-dance for that date. And as every one who attended the committee's last two benefit dinner-dances knows, the young women who comprise the personnel of the committee know well how to give a party that is successful from the standpoint of those who attend it as well as those who reap the proceeds.

It was the Arden Shore Chicago committee that sponsored the opening of the Folies Bergere at the French Casino a year ago last June and the opening of the Parisian-Viennese revue there last December, both among the gayest and best parties of 1934. So this year's benefit undoubtedly will be one of the highlights of the early social season. Where the dinner-dance will be given will be announced later. Mrs. Ewing Webb of Lake Forest is chairman of the Chicago committee.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

ACHENSEE, Austria.—The drive through the Austrian Tyrol is an endless vista of magnificent mountain scenery. There are wooded slopes, snow covered summits, valleys spangled with pink Alpine roses, and the bluebells of the enzian; there are tumbling waterfalls, and, intermittently, picturesque villages with eighteenth century frescoes and flowers tumbling out of window boxes.

Innumerable signs of "gast haus" indicate that within these flower adorned façades is hospitality for travelers. We pass the Gast Haus zum Wilden Man [Guest House of the Wild Man], the Guest House of the Three Moors, the Guest House of the Green Tree, and the Guest House of the Little Chamois. Parking the car at the Gast Haus zum Post, in the vicinity of Krimml falls, we climb to get a vantage point from which to view this most magnificent waterfall in Austria. Signs at this first viewpoint indicate that a second and third view of falls higher up may be obtained. The path ascends through a deep woods, the ground green with ferns and moss, bordered with mountain flowers. At the second vantage point the falls are even more magnificent than at the first, thundering and foaming and filling the air with spray. We climb higher, toiling up the mountain path. We have learned to climb as do the mountain folk, shifting the weight from one leg to the other.

Up about a thousand feet we stop at a mountainside hut for rest and refreshment and to admire the begonias in the window boxes, which are as big as magnolias. There are other viewpoints higher up, at one of which the upper fall thunders over a drop of 465 feet. We drink our beer, and I reflect that still farther up there are chamois and edelweiss, and what fun it would be to see one and pluck the other.

THAT night we dine early at the Guest House of the Bear. The bear is painted, larger than life, on the façade of the gast haus and is flanked by enormous purple bunches of grapes. Across the street is the Guest House of the Telegraph and Post, and boldly painted across the front is a picture of St. Korbinius on the way to Rome. Angels carry his miter and staf and a great bear precedes him, led by a gentleman in a scarlet cloak.

"GOD'S greeting!" said the landlord of the Guest House of the Bear as we passed under the vines of his doorway. The bauernstube [or peasants' room], with its bare, napkinless tables, was the first to the right, and on farther, past the kitchen with its wide open door, giving a full view of its scrubbed tables and floor and tiled wainscoting, was the jagd [or hunters' room]. The chandeliers were pine boughs, deer antlers surmounted the door frame, and the horns of fifty-eight unfortunate chamois decorated the walls. We dined on bauernschmaus [dumplings with sauerkraut and sausages] and topfenstrudel [delicious hot dessert], washed down with Austrian wine. Then, bidding our landlord farewell, we motored on to this nearby beautiful lake of Achensee, a blue gem in a mountain setting.

The New Hats Offer Style at Budget Prices

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Headgear that will catch your fancy. Some inviting new arrivals that will not leave a gaping hole in your clothes allowance but that will make you and the spectators sit up and take notice. Nothing freaky, but all of them plenty exciting and just what you need to pull you through these last sad days of summer clothes.

One big success is the black and brown mixture, an obliging lid to wear with black or brown clothes, and it is just as smart as it is unusual in color contrast. It has a wide Breton sailor effect—simple and smart. You can wear it now and later with a black coat trimmed with brown fur.

A cunningly draped turban number mixes red and emerald green and, though it looks like a mixup of the trafic lights, it's darn good looking. Another honey is of silk and felt with a big bunch of bows slapped right down in front, the hat itself is snug and flat and small, the bows of crackling stiff silk.

If you yearn to look ethereal you'll like the extreme cockeyed halo hat, all of net and with the round net halo, slanting rakishly from northwest to southeast. A floating black veil makes it look like a Spanish Madonna number. Not a hat for every one, but the right head will carry it around the town with lots of admiring comments.

If you like your eyes shaded mysteriously you'll buy the small, cleverly draped velvets with a ruffled flange jutting down over the eyeline. They come in black and all kinds of flattering bright colors.

Hats with veils are the outstanding excitement in the collections and the most seductive looking hats you ever will wear. The best of them are small, frightfully smart tricornes, with a big swish of veiling hung most distractingly right in front and down over the face. These veils are huge circles with large black chenille dots, and instead of the circle being carefully used to cover the entire hat and head just a section of the circle is tacked to the front brim and the result . . . all the veil swirls alluringly over the face and reaches the waistline. With the moderate price tags and all the newest ideas included these hats are "BUYS."

Miss McCormic to Head Own Opera Troupe

Plans Chicago Season and Tour of 5 Months.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mary McCormic was an important figure from two points of view last night.

First, she was the climactic soloist with Cavallo's Symphonic band at Grant park in a program that contained many soloists.

Second, she announced that the Mary McCormic Opera company will begin operations shortly after the Christmas holidays, starting in Chicago at the Auditorium, with subsequent bookings that will add up to five months for the organization.

Those of us who have been going to opera at the Auditorium and the Civic Opera house for the last several years will know that Miss McCormic is a personage of the lyric stage. Of late she has been appearing in vaudeville and on the radio.

However, opera has been close to her heart, and she tells that her own personal company will be prepared to sing "Martha" in English, "Thais," "Mme. Butterfly," and "Aïda," in the first two of which she will take the principal rôles. It is an ambitious program for which one is inclined to give encouraging cheers, particularly because she showed her own ability for the job last night.

Micaela's aria from the third act of "Carmen" was her special number with Mr. Cavallo. It was delightfully sung, both in tone and mood, and the audience asked for something more. Miss McCormic replied to the demand with "The Last Rose of Summer," with harp accompaniment. In both the French and English numbers she was an artist to applaud, with all the lore of the studio and the personal approach of the sincere artist.

Elsewhere Peter A. Cavallo demonstrated that he has instrumental artists of high degree. Oboist Napolilli, Clarinetist Sinischalchi, and Bassoonist Turso did a comic trio relating to the country barnyard. Cornetist Manna and Trombonist Russo played the Miserere from "Il Trovatore" with fine effect.

Bohumir Kryl and his band will play tonight. The program:

1. Overture, "The Merry Wives of Windsor" ..... Nicolai
2. [a] Slavonic Dance No. 8 ..... Dvorak
   [b] Hungarian Dance No. 2 ..... Brahms
3. Symphony, "Country Wedding" ..... Goldmark
4. Capriccio Espagnol ..... Rimsky-Korsakow
5. Overture, "Egmont" ..... Beethoven
6. "Scenes Pittoresque" ..... Masscnet
7. Valse, "Wiener Mad'l'n" ..... Ziehrer
8. Suite, "The Dwellers of the Western World" ..... Sousa
9. "Pomp and Circumstance," military march ..... Elgar

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER.

N. U. MUSIC SERIES

Musical appreciation on an unusually large scale will be fostered by Northwestern university this fall through the medium of a series of concerts by famous artists and performances by the San Carlo Opera company and Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, ten in all, at the Auditorium theater.

The course contemplates the following attractions: Lucrezia Bori, song recital, Oct. 12; "Tannhaeuser" and "Samson and Delilah," by the San Carlo Opera, Oct. 22 and 29, with Goeta Ljungberg as the star of the first and Cyrena Van Gordon of the second; the Moscow Cathedral choir, Nov. 4; Mary Garden, assisted by Rudolph Ganz at the piano, Nov. 12; Chicago Symphony orchestra, Nov. 19; Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, Nov. 24; John Charles Thomas, song recital, Dec. 7; Albert Spalding, violin recital, Dec. 19; Marian Anderson, contralto, song recital, Jan. 26.

These are to be both educational matters of the college and open to the public at the same time, though all tickets are to be purchased at the office of the University college, 311 East Chicago avenue. Those who desire the educational feature as well may register for a course of lectures, one to be given before each program. There will be additional commentary during intermissions.

Felix Borowski will be the speaker for all but one of the programs. For that one, the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, the commentator will be Olin Downes, music critic of the New York Times.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A pine needle toilet water is the latest contribution to the happiness of pine fanciers. While a true pine, it has a lightness and lilt that makes it a charming scent for the most feminine of women.

It does seem as though what is one woman's pine meat is another woman's pine poison. Lovers of that scent are vehement in their opinions about the various versions of it that pop up from time to time. We always approach the subject with misgivings; after committing ourselves on any one pine fragrance we head for the storm cellar and wait for the experts to bombard us with brickbats and bouquets.

Today we feel brave enough to recommend a pine needle toilet water to all comers who are smitten with the woodsy fragrance. This, the product of a Russian perfume house is really lovely. It's a beautiful, true pine, all right, made further attractive by a feminine, airy note we too often find lacking.

We are no admirer of pine as it is so often dished up in bath oils, hair tonics, dandruff cures, or what have you. Nine times out of ten it suggests plain, ordinary tar and fails completely to transport us in spirit to the great outdoors of stately pines and cathedral quiet. It just gives us the jimjams and makes us wonder how come there are so many pine fanciers in the world.

This pine needle toilet water, now, is different. It may not be the pungent, faintly heavy pine that strong men favor, but it's cool, sweet, and tremendously alluring, with a delicate, truly feminine charm that sets it apart. It's pine minus all of pine's drawbacks, and every single woman we asked to try it out was enchanted with it, even those who are usually of the anti-pine school. It's lovely for the hair, the flesh, or for the bath water, and the bottle, praise be, has a narrow necked metal stopper that practically insures your using it with a properly restrained and economical hand.

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

After two years of marriage, Nancy and Dick Heritage are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by her mother-in-law, Edith Heritage, she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. Nancy learns that her sole remaining relative, an aunt, has been killed in China. Dick and his mother are displeased when they learn that Nancy is expecting a baby. Edith Heritage invites a friend, Mrs. Lane, and her daughter, Sylvia, for tea. Nancy pleads a dentist's appointment. The Lanes arrive just as Dick comes home. They are startled when they see Nancy's photograph, but Sylvia, who is interested in Dick, explains that Nancy had lived with them and they'd had a misunderstanding, but bygones were bygones. Next day Sylvia calls on Dick at the architect's office where he is employed, asks him to plan a house for her, and boldly invites herself to his home for dinner. Sylvia assures Nancy that her secret of the reformatory is safe. She asks Nancy for the written confession, but Nancy tells her she had torn it up. Sylvia's new home is started and Dick spends most of his time with her. Nancy returns home unobserved and overhears Sylvia begging Dick to get a divorce. Mrs. Heritage has gone away for a week-end with Mrs. Lane. Nancy and Dick dine out. Nancy suspects that Dick has an engagement with Sylvia. To forestall him she decides to pay Sylvia a visit. Sylvia tells Nancy that her mother is going to tell Mrs. Heritage the secret of her past.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

THE SECRET OF HER PAST.

"Perhaps, Sylvia, you don't believe in your guilt yourself," said Nancy. "It just seems like a bad dream to you, I expect."

"What do you mean, exactly?"

"I mean if I should try to clear myself at your expense you would deny the charge. Wouldn't you?"

"I'm afraid I don't understand you at all. I only wanted to help you and you're behaving like an ungrateful little swine."

"Am I? Have I anything to be grateful to you for?"

A blandness crept over Sylvia's features.

"And if Dick's mother brings back this tale of me to him?"

Sylvia shrugged her shoulders.

"I told you I had nothing more to say. But if you attempt to accuse me I may tell you frankly I'll bring a libel suit against you. You may plead justification, but the fact remains you have no proofs to back up such a ghastly accusation. You told me yourself you had destroyed the only proof there was."

"Yes, that is true. I destroyed it," Nancy said quietly. "Good-night. Don't trouble to show me out—I can find my way."

With Dick infatuated with the girl, what chance had his wife to clear herself? There was no proof, as Sylvia had reminded her. Any accusation she made at this late date would merely pass for a low piece of spite work.

"You married Dick under false pretenses," said her mother-in-law.

The door of Sylvia's flat closed behind her with a gentle click.

How long had she been there? It seemed more than an hour.

When the porter had taken her down he asked if he could get a taxi for her and she thanked him. There was no sign of Dick. In his own way he must be a bit of a coward, too. When the taxi came Nancy kept it waiting for five minutes in case he appeared and when at the end of that time he still hadn't come she gave orders to have herself driven home.

After all, it did not so much matter if he found Sylvia alone. If he wanted to see her he would contrive it somehow, for when a man has fallen under an unlawful spell of love his ingenuity always rises to the occasion.

But when she finally got home she was surprised to find the house lit up and Dick rushing out to meet her.

"I telephoned," he said, "and Sylvia said you had left some time before. For the last five minutes I've been on pins and needles wondering what had become of you. Here, give me your purse; I'll pay off the taxi."

"Thanks." Nancy handed over the purse in which she had been fumbling as though her fingers were all thumbs.

"Why did you telephone?" she asked as they turned back toward the house.

Dick gave a vexed laugh. "O, I didn't feel up to another dose of Sylvia Lane. Had enough of her for one day, thank you, and I intended to ask you to call back for me at the club. By the way, mother's home."

"O!" Nancy exclaimed.

Dick laughed again in that same annoyed way. "I expect you're surprised. I was when I got back and found her here. Can't make it out unless she and Mrs. Lane started off by having a row. She couldn't have been in Bournemouth more than four hours at the most."

"Did she say anything—give any reason?" Nancy asked.

"No, and to me that's the strangest part of the whole thing. She treated me as if I was about six years old—told me to run away and not bother her with silly questions. She's gone to bed, I think, or at least she's gone to her room. Perhaps you'd better run up and say good-night to her."

"Yes, I suppose I should," said Nancy.

Edith was still unpacking, for it seemed she had only got back a little ahead of Dick, putting away her things with meticulous care.

The face she turned to Nancy was grave, but softer in expression than usual.

"Well, you see I've come home," she said. "Do you want to know why, too? Or can you guess?"

"Yes, I think I can guess," Nancy replied. "I saw Sylvia tonight and she told me what to expect. Mrs. Lane wanted to tell you what she knows about me. That was it, wasn't it?"

"You seem to be taking it calmly, Nancy."

"I could take an earthquake calmly," Nancy replied.

"Dick doesn't know?"

"Not yet."

"But you're going to tell him, aren't you? I think it would come better from you than from me, Nancy."

Nancy was very pale, but that curious serenity of hers remained undisturbed. She smiled faintly.

"If I didn't tell him you would, mother."

Mrs. Heritage arranged a row of gold stoppered bottles on her dressing table before replying. Then she turned and faced Nancy.

"I can only repeat what I said before that it would come better from you. I feel sorry for you, Nancy, but Dick tells me you have come into a little money from those unfortunate relatives of yours, so there is one worry the less. You can keep yourself if you manage properly. The fact that you are independent of him will make it easier for Dick, too."

"You mean . . . easier for him to let me go?" Nancy asked. "The money would make it easier?"

"I don't think you quite realize what I am trying to get you to understand," Edith said in a tone of great gentleness. "What has happened to you is not unusual——"

"It hasn't happened yet," said Nancy. "Dick can't throw me out of the house because I was once committed to a reformatory."

"You married him under false pretenses, Nancy."

"He may not want to let me go." Nancy, for all her pale serenity, was still conscious of a desperate hope, the hope that lay so close beneath her heart, the life was a part of her own life; and a part of Dick's life.

"In the kindness of his heart he may pretend he doesn't want to let you go, Nancy. It would be better in the long run if you looked this situation straight in the face now. I came home as soon as Mrs. Lane told me because I felt I would be needed here. She told me something else which I already had good reason to suspect, but which apparetly has completely escaped your notice."

"I wish it had," said Nancy. "You mean that Sylvia Lane is in love with Dick and has no scruples about it."

Mrs. Heritage winced at such plain speaking.

"Has he told you so?"

"Of course he hasn't—not in so many words. I haven't discussed it with him."

"Do you think he will tell me?"

"Really, Nancy, I am getting a little impatient with you. Surely you don't want to force my son to appear cruel. You ought to make it as easy for him as you can. If you have any nobility in your character—and I am positive you have a great deal—you will do so. You can make your long deception an excuse to leave him."

Racketeering Wife Object of British Wrath

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The racketeering wife has little chance of flourishing in England as long as there are magistrates like Mr. Claude Mullins of London. A penny a week was the negligible sum he awarded a woman who came to him complaining that her husband was failing to maintain her. At that, we gather, the magistrate felt he was overawarding the lady.

With a few trenchant questions one reads in the report of the penny a week award, Magistrate Mullins elicited the truth—namely, that the woman before him wanted all the rights of a wife but none of the responsibilities. He said:

"She never seems to attempt to work, and she has no children to be supported. I hope one day the laws in these matters will be altered. Meanwhile, I shall make an order for the payment of one penny a week, which will show any court that I am doing it simply as a legal obligation."

Calling attention to the grave defect in matrimonial laws, it was observed that a woman who condescends to sleep under the same roof with her husband may neglect every item of her wifely duties, yet still have legal claim to maintenance at his expense, as long as she is not unfaithful. She may be a lazy, good for nothing slattern, never doing a stroke of work, allowing the home to become filthy and, sometimes, uninhabitable, failing to provide her husband with decent meals, or, indeed, any at all; just a useless lodger in the house for which he pays the rent.

It appears that there is a protest movement afoot among English husband victims of the maintenance order. About 10,000 maintenance orders are granted every year, and nearly 3,000 men in England and Wales go to prison rather than pay money upon these orders.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Baby Needs Ice Box.

From D. P., a case worker for the social service department of a charity hospital: "Can you help us get an ice box for a young couple. The wife is a 16 year old girl; her husband is 22. He is working and earns from $8 to $10 a week. They are trying to live in their own home, but have very little furniture. Their baby was a premature, born in our hospital. It had pneumonia at 2 weeks and, after being sent home, was recently readmitted because of a generally poor condition. The need for fresh milk in such a case is vital. Unless the parents have ice very soon the baby will probably be ill again."

Sally Will Entertain Hundred Children at Final Party Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

All ready for our party today, boys and girls?

This is to be our final celebration of the year, and if you're one of the 100 lucky girls and boys who have been selected to be my guests you may be sure you're going to have one of the grandest times of your life.

Please read carefully the directions inclosed in your invitations—so that you won't be around the block some place when I come to meet you. The Stevens hotel is an awfully big place, and you can easily get lost—so be at our meeting place as described in your instructions.

Whatever else you may do, please don't forget your invitations, because only youngsters with invitations will be admitted to our party. Of course, I'm sure you'll be on time, because we have a full afternoon ahead of us and we don't want to waste one single minute getting started at our fun.

See you all this afternoon, kids!

BY MARY MEADE.

With more than one hot day left before fall is actually upon us, the question of ice cream sauces is far from ready to be shelved. Or perhaps it never is ready to be shelved, in an age when ice cream is a favorite dessert, both summer and winter.

At any rate, we'll wager that most of you are interested in ways, both new and old, of dressing up frozen desserts, both for the enjoyment of your families and for the delight of your bridge guests.

So with an effort toward space economy we're merely reprinting today the recipes for some of the finest ice cream sauces over which we've sighed during the last few months. Some of them have been volunteered by readers, others served at "doin's" we've been honored to attend, and still others are the products of professional skill.

San Monica Sauce.

1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1-3 cup sugar
½ cup milk
1 egg yolk
1 ripe banana
Few grains salt
½ cup heavy cream

Cream the butter, add the flour, and stir until well blended. Add the sugar gradually and combine the mixture with the scalded milk. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until thickened, and then add the slightly beaten egg yolk for two minutes' longer cooking. Add the sieved banana and salt, chill, and combine with the stiffly beaten cream. Serve cold on black walnut ice cream.

Maraschino Sauce.

1-3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2-3 cup boiling water
¼ cup halved maraschino cherries
½ cup maraschino sirup
1 tablespoon butter

Blend the sugar and cornstarch, add gradually the boiling water, stirring constantly. Boil for five minutes, then add the cherries, sirup, and butter. Serve hot or cold.

Fresh Peach Sauce.

½ cup sugar
¼ cup water
2 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Almond extract

Combine the sugar and water and bring to a boil. Add the peaches, simmer for three minutes, and add the lemon juice and a few drops of almond extract. This sauce will not discolor on standing and yet it boasts the flavor of fresh peaches.

[For Fruit Ices.]
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 cup sugar
¾ cup water
Green coloring
6 drops oil of peppermint

Simmer the pineapple, sugar, and water for ten minutes. Cool, tint a delicate green, and flavor with peppermint. Serve cold.

Butterscotch Almond Sauce.

½ cup butter
1 pound brown sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup heavy cream
½ cup slivered toasted almonds

Combine all ingredients except toasted almonds in the top of a double boiler. Cook for one hour, stirring occasionally. Serve either hot or cold, sprinkling the top of each serving with the almonds.

Creamy Maple Sauce.

2 cups maple sirup
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup chopped nut meats

Cook the sirup until a small amount forms a soft ball in cold water. Remove from heat, add cream gradually, stirring, and cool. Combine with nuts and serve on vanilla ice cream.

Dress and Jacket Practical

GIRL'S DRESS AND JACKET.

Young girls usually are enthusiastic about wanting their clothes to be smart, and it is right that they should be interested. This darling little dress of a woolly cotton weave just "pretends" a blouse and skirt. The dress has a little "boy" collar, and the tiny jacket doesn't hide it, either, for it is made collarless on purpose. The woolly novelty crepes in plaids or checks are decidedly smart, and one of these also will be lovely for it.

The pattern, No. 2973, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 12 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 1⅛ yards of 35 inch contrasting, and ⅜ yard of 1 inch wide ribbon for the neck bow.

Sinclair Lewis Finishes Novel; Out in October

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Sinclair Lewis is unexpectedly offering a new novel. Lewis' book is titled "It Can't Happen Here," and is, according to the publishers, as ironic as "Main Street," "Babbitt," and "Elmer Gantry." Writing was finished Aug. 15 and publication is set for mid-October.

Housewife Has Opportunities to Aid Figure

May Utilize Chores for Her Exercising.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a conversational wrangle over which woman had the easier time of it keeping her looks, the housekeeper or business woman, the home maker came off a little the worse in the argument. Figures, especially, were under consideration. It was claimed that the business woman had to sit so much, and for such long hours at a stretch, that she eventually must become a "middle-age spread" fighter. Too, because she has so little hand in preparing her meals, she can't regulate her diet as may the woman presiding over a home.

The crowning argument in the housewife's opportunities for keeping herself and her figure fit, was that in everything the woman at home does during her working day there is an exercise movement, even to the way she handles her broom. If she has stairs in her household, she can make running up and down them an exercise for hips and legs and ankles.

But she must walk upright as she mounts those stairs. Keep the whole body erect, which isn't the common way of climbing stairs you may have noticed. Women usually take the stairs with a bent-over body. There isn't any better exercise for leg and ankle than stair climbing, done properly. The knee and ankle work involved in the process is great for keeping the flesh down. Incidentally, the way a woman mounts a stairs or comes down them tells all about her age. Also, it is the superlative test of grace. That's why show girls and a stair-filled stage are presented in revues.

A thing many housewives or home women overlook is the need of good shoes while working around home. The half worn or outworn old shoe is bad. You want shoes under you with toe room and a broad based heel to permit good body balance. Then you can bend, lift, pull, and push things with greater muscular ease. That tired out look and feeling so often expressed by the homemaker is due, nine times out of ten, to the kind of shoe worn.

Folding up the thigh and knee joints is the great trick of picking up threads off the floor, brushing up the floor dust, or taking something from the lower shelves of the refrigerator or pots-and-pans drawers. Then rising up by simply straightening up the knee and thigh joints. Sweep with back straight, letting the swing come from the thigh joints. In running a vacuum cleaner, head and shoulders should be held upright, while legs do the walking.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

MISFITS.

In a letter liberally besprinkled with gall and wormwood, a correspondent writes in to demand that I forward him a silver cup at once. It seems that he was playing in an important local tournament, and doing very nicely, thank you; but not, he hastens to add, because of my system. It was due, rather, to his own native horse sense. To make a long story more pathetic, he eventually lost the tournament by two match points, and he blames it all on the following hand:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ A-K-6-5-2
♦ Q-7-3

WEST	EAST
♠ K-J-4	♠ 10-9-6-3
♥ J-10-9-7-4	♥ Q
♦ J-10-9-7-4	♦ A-J-6

SOUTH
♠ A-Q-8-7-5-2
♥ 8-3
♣ J-7

In accordance with my tenets, he ignored his vulnerability and opened the North hand, in third hand position with one club. South bid a spade and West doubled. He took out with two hearts. This was passed around to West, who doubled even more loudly. His partner bid two spade. Double! He bid three clubs. Double! His partner, who by this time had the bit firmly between his teeth, bid three spades! The upshot of the whole matter was a five trick set for one of the coldest bottoms he had seen in many a year.

I, too, would open the North hand, but I would not bid over one spade doubled. It is not a business double; but if East chooses to make it business we will not be any worse off than if I tried to grope my way out of the misfit. East and West will probably reach three no trumps and wrap it up; or, for that matter, they may get four hearts. There is a remote possibility that four hearts can be set. West has his troubles handling the hand. But I should like to state in refutation that even though I may open a trifle lighter in third hand position, I fade quietly out of the bidding if the opponents show any signs of virile life.

Suppose South had held the West hand? North then makes at least four heart and perhaps five.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

My correspondence seems to indicate that struggling players all over the country are interested primarily in slam bidding and secondarily in misfits. Tomorrow we shall touch lightly on the former.

Children Often React Badly if Mother Works

Several Matters May Be Responsible.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

It seems as if we are having an increasing number of letters from mothers who work away from home, and who are having trouble with their children.

"When I get home at night I am greeted with a 'long face' and treated to recitals of how terrible the children are, and of how the neighbors complain about them," is one situation that is described. Another is: "My evenings and week-ends are nightmares. I love my children, but cannot find any pleasure in them, because of the way they act when I am home."

Between these two extremes come varying kinds and degrees of chaos and disorder in the family life of working mothers.

It would take too long to go into all of these in detail. Some of the troubled writers of the letters I have in mind are young women whose husbands are out of the picture for one reason or another. Often the women's mothers, who already have raised one family, are forced by the situation to raise this other. Frequently the children are cared for during the day by a housekeeper or maid. Still other correspondents are women whose husbands also work, but do not earn enough to support the family.

But from all comes the question: "Why do you suppose the children act so? And what can I do about it?"

Every letter doesn't tell a complete story, but there are a number of reasons that are almost sure to be behind the trouble. If you are in this sort of predicament, tomorrow's article may be helpful to you.

We have made a list of those of our booklets that are especially helpful in the management of young children. A stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring this to you.

De Paul Day Nursery.

The De Paul Day Nursery and Settlement club will hold a bridge and tea party at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, Sept. 9, at 4836 Broadway.

Season's Buds Asked to Tea of Service Club

Mrs. Osborne to Entertain on September 17.

Others are Mr. and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr., Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, Britton I. Budd, Col. Isaac S. Martin, Col. Morris Keck, Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commanding officer of the 6th corps area; Gen. Dana T. Merrill, Admiral John Downs, commandant at the Great Lakes Naval Training station; Col. Harry D. Chamberlin, and Gen. Charles B. Herron, who has just come to Fort Sheridan to take command of the 6th field artillery brigade.

The entire Edward J. Bermingham family will spend the coming winter in the east, for Mr. Bermingham's business will necessitate his being in New York all winter and Mrs. Bermingham, the former Katherine Carpenter, has decided to go with him instead of staying at home in Lake Forest.

The two older boys, Edward and George, go to St. Paul's, and the youngest boy, Johnny, will attend another eastern preparatory school, for St. Paul's cannot take him until the year for which he was entered long ago. He will go to the school in Concord, N. H., in which his two older brothers are students, a year from this fall. Harriet, the Berminghams' attractive daughter, will enter the Spence school in New York this year.

Doerings to Return from Europe Today.

Mrs. Edmund J. Doering and her daughters, Mrs. George Peck Earling and Miss Nancy Doering, are landing in New York today on the Rex on their way home from a whirlwind five weeks abroad. Miss Frances Whedon and her niece, Miss Frances Jeffery, who have been in Europe since last spring, are landing on the Rex also, and the quintet is expected in Lake Forest tomorrow.

Mr. Doering went out to the Diamond G. ranch the middle of the month to get away from Chicago during the hay fever season, and he will return Sept. 15. The Doerings' eldest daughter and her husband, the R. Martin Stevensons, have been staying in the Lake Forest house, which the Doerings rented for the summer, during their absence, and Edmund Doering III., has been with them between flying visits to friends in Desbarats and in Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, who have kept their Lake Shore drive apartment open during the summer, will move in town next week; and a couple of weeks later Edmund will leave for his final year at Choate.

Mr. Earling and his wife, the former Edna Doering, probably will spend the Labor day week-end in Oconomowoc. Mrs. Doering and her daughters spent most of their time in Europe in Italy.

Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, who arrived in New York Tuesday after a summer in England, is expected at home today.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey returned recently from Santa Fe and is leaving this afternoon for ten days in the Adirondacks.

James Ward Thornes Home from Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne have returned from Europe after a trip to England, France, Austria, and Germany. The journey was of particular interest to Mrs. Thorne, as she went through many of the old homes and ancient castles along the way, making notes for the new set of miniature historical rooms she is working on now.

During her travels she also assembled quite a collection of miniature furniture which will be housed in the new rooms.

Mrs. Thorne is going to Des Moines Ia., over Labor day to be with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thorne, and their two year old daughter Ann.

Another European traveler who has returned is Mrs. George William Dulany Jr., who spent several weeks motoring through middle Europe. Her itinerary included London, Paris, Vienna, Prague, Budapest, and Salzburg.

The James Waller Marshalls of Winnetka left last Saturday to spend a week with their sons, Tom and James Jr., who are in a boys' camp in Canada. The foursome will take a three weeks' camping trip before returning to the north shore.

John B. Drake Jr. will be a temporary bachelor for the next eight weeks. His wife has gone to Honolulu to visit the John Coonleys.

WEDDING

The Rev. Perry Stackhouse of the First Baptist church will read the ceremony this evening which will unite in marriage Miss Lorraine Adele Donkle and George W. Weatherby III. The service will take place in the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Lucius B. Donkle, at 6939 Crandon avenue, at 8 o'clock, and a reception will follow at the South Shore Country club. Mr. Weatherby, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Weatherby, and his bride will go to New Orleans and New York on their wedding trip.

Clover Quilt Is Union of Pieced, Applique Work

Four Leaf Clover

BY NANCY CABOT.

A combination pieced and applique block is this new "Four Leaf Clover" pattern, which is easy to make and lovely to behold. The block is small when finished, measuring 9 inches square, but the rapidity with which the whole block is assembled makes up for the seemingly inadequate size. Only 28 pieced patterns and 44 plain blocks are required for one coverlet. The 5 inch border around the quilt may match any of the three colors one may use.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

ANY WOMAN CAN LOOK LOVELIER

HOW IS YOUR COMPLEXION GOING TO LOOK IN FALL COLORS NEXT MONTH?

Dry, rough complexions that recall Summer suns can be prevented by using three simple Barbara Gould preparations. Use them over the Labor Day week-end and enjoy the sun, free from all worry of a dried out complexion for the Fall. They soften, smooth, and clear your complexion—soon make it look guiltless of undue acquaintance with sun, wind or sea. Here they are:

Barbara Gould Cleansing Cream
Immediately liquefies into penetrating, lubricating oils that soften as they cleanse. Melts away dryness and sun-scaled skin.

Barbara Gould Circulation Cream

Barbara Gould Tissue Cream
Apply heavily around eyes and mouth, and wherever sun has done most damage. It smooths fine lines before they get a chance to become lasting wrinkles.

COLORADO FLOOD DRIVES 1,000 TO HILLS FOR SAFETY

Mud Fills Cellars When Residents Return.

Holly, Colo., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Cloudbursts and floods early today forced the 1,000 residents of this town to flee for their lives and drove a dozen families from their homes at Kit Carson.

A torrent of water, which swept four or five farm homes from thier foundations, swirled into this sugar factory town and covered it to a depth of four feet. The flood followed a cloudburst which crumbled Horse Creek dam, Federal Emergency Relief project nine miles north of Holly.

People Flee to Hills.

The townspeople, awakened by sirens and telephone calls, fled in their night clothes to nearby hills. About 200 of them were marooned on top of a hill for eight hours. They were warned in time to leave before the water struck and it was believed there was no less of life, though considerable property damage was done.

The quick work of Night Marshal Al Hoyt probably prevented many deaths. Learning that the Horse Creek dam, about three-quarters of a mile wide and 25 feet high, was going out, he called the town telephone operator, William Baldwin. He notified residents of Holly and most of the farmers in the path of the flood. In the meantime Hoyt sounded the city siren. That had been agreed upon as a signal in case of flood.

Cellars Filled with Mud.

The flood subsided around noon and many residents returned to find their basements filled with mud, the residence section under five feet of water in some places and the business district flooded a foot deep.

The same cloudburst hit Kit Carson, whose residents returned to their homes after a nearby creek went back into its banks.

One of the series of cloudbursts in eastern Colorado and Kansas last night broke a levee at Syracuse, Kas., flooding that town. Highways around Syracuse were covered, a bus was marooned, and the Santa Fé railroad track near Mayline was washed out.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Feeder Pens Full.

August 28, 1935.

FOUR carloads of Hereford steers just have been moved from the Plano yards to their new home on the Yorkville farm to bring the cattle total to 426. This new shipment of feeders closes the book, as Clarence Thurow remarked yesterday when the last Hereford had been put into a feed lot. The farm now has all the feeders it can take care of this season.

This final shipment of the year was set off on a siding late in the afternoon. The boys were on hand to move the cattle to the farm immediately. All of the 160 in the lot were purchased at the Kansas City yards, direct from the seller. They weighed about 586 pounds each, being between 12 and 14 months old. With this shipment of "white faces" added to the Herefords already moving down the grass in the various pastures of the farm, you can look across a pasture these days and see enough Herefords to make you believe you are 'way out west where these steers "roam the range."

Dick and Roney, two faithful old horses here on the farm, must have sighed with relief the other day when finis was written on the job of harvesting the oats. All during the harvest these two horses were important, moving cogs of a barnyard merry-go-round that was bound to have been tiresome. They walked round and round in a circle to produce the power that ran the elevator. It was this elevator that added the finishing touches to the harvest—lifting the grain from the ground to the storage bins. I started to figure how many miles Dick and Roney traveled around that circle to make the machinery go, but it became too complicated, so I gave it up. But irrespective of the mileage I am sure Dick and Roney are glad to be transferred to some other work.

When the boys were putting up hay some weeks ago during the very hot midsummer weather it was not unusual to see them wearing a minimum amount of clothing, but Roy, one of the boys here on the Yorkville farm, seems to have won high honors for peculiar dress during the oat harvest. He drove the truck that transported the oats to the elevator. While on this job he found that his shoes and socks kept filling up with the grain, so that after every trip he had to take off both and get rid of the "load" that he accidentally picked up. To avoid all this trouble Roy blossomed out as the barefoot boy and he continued right through the job that way in spite of all the chaffing that he received from the rest of the crew.

These are beautiful days on the farm. Wild sunflower stands high along the fence rows. Blackbirds wing their way against the setting sun to their favorite roost. Tall corn stands in the fields, and everywhere there is that certain fragrance which comes only with this season when fruits are ripening and nature moves toward first signs of autumn. The landscape gradually is changing from a predominance of greens to yellows and golden tints which means that summer is passing.

MORRO CASTLE TRIALS DUE SOON, SAYS CUMMINGS

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Criminal prosecutions in the case of the Ward liner Morro Castle, which burned off the Jersey coast last September with a heavy loss of life, will begin early in autumn, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings announced today. The announcement was made just before Mr. Cummings sailed for Europe, where he will study European criminology.

"We will be ready to prosecute when we can get a judge," said Joseph Keenan, head of the criminal division of the department of justice, who saw Mr. Cummings off. "The district is very short of judges, but the Morro Castle will be one of the first cases to be tried in the fall."

The government's plan with regard to "Dutch" Schultz, bigtime racketeer recently acquitted on income tax charges, will be studied in Washington the latter part of this week, Keenan said. Neither he nor the attorney general would comment on reports Schultz had attempted to settle his case.

DROP SHOWBOAT'S INJUNCTION SUIT AGAINST RAIDING

Attorneys for Charlies Zito, owner of "Sam's Showboat," anchored in the lake off Navy pier, obtained dismissal of their suit yesterday for an injunction to restrain the police from conducting gambling raids aboard the craft. The attorneys said that since the bill was filed the police had visited the boat, but had not disturbed patrons. Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton dismissed the bill after William Daly, assistant corporation counsel, said: "They have been playing horse with us for a couple of weeks, but I suppose there is no way we can object to dismissal."

MAYOR WARNS OF FAKE BENEFIT SOLICITATIONS

Mayor Kelly yesterday warned business men not to heed telephone calls purporting to come from city employes asking them to contribute to various benefit projects or to install punchboards or other gambling devices. Complaints have been received that a number of business concerns have been thus solicited, the mayor said.

"Business men should ignore such calls and should have the caller arrested if they can trace the call," he declared. "The telephone solicitation is merely a racket."

RESCUE 2 MEN FROM WATER IN STORM SEWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Victor Miska, 721 West Mineral street, city sewer inspector, trapped for three hours in one of city's great storm sewers, was rescued alive late this afternoon after his solitary battle with the swift flowing current.

Fighting his way against the flow of water in order to keep his foothold, he was swept nearly half a mile toward the sewer's mouth before he was rescued by the combined efforts of men of the sewer department, the police, and firemen.

Adam Kintop, 35, 3135 South 42d street, a fellow worker whose misstep dragged Miska down to his perilous adventure, was rescued shortly after falling and was taken to the County Emergency hospital suffering with brain concussion and from exposure to gas and water.

Edward Clark, 4412 North 36th street, sewer inspector, whose knowledge of the underground passages beneath the city streets enabled him to lead the way to where Miska was clinging to the slight ledge of an intercepting sewer, was roped with four other sewer department workmen and finally dragged Miska, apparently unhurt, out of the rushing water and to the surface.

The Rev. Joseph Ormsby, S. J., twice entered the sewer in a vain attempt to reach and administer the last rites of the Catholic church to Miska.

Miska and Kintop entered a manhole at North 42d and West State streets for a routine inspection. They were standing safely in a small intercepting sewer when Kintop slipped and, with an automatic reach of his arms for safety, seized Miska and pulled him into the deep sewer.

MERCURY DIVES IN MIDDLE WEST; FEAR FOR CORN

It was topcoat weather over part of the nation yesterday as tumbling temperatures, all out of season for August, brought frost in some sections and caused concern for the corn crop in the midwest. New low temperatures were set for the summer, and in Chicago the mercury dropped to a minimum of 50, the second lowest mark on record for the day. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said warmer weather was in prospect today, with showers by afternoon or night.

Wishek, N. D., experienced a 38 degree drop in temperature overnight when the reading slipped down to a minimum of 27 degrees above zero. In Minnesota frost damaged flowers and gardens and corn. Readings of 33 degrees were recorded at Bemidji, Minn.; 34 at Carroll, Ia.; 32 at Bismarck, N. D., and 35 at Minot, N. D. Observers in the corn belt said they feared that a continuation of the cold might result in serious curtailment of the crop, already late in many areas because of the cool, wet spring. A mass of cold air coming down from Alaska was blamed for the sudden drop in temperatures.

TAX INQUIRIES SWELL LEVIES BY 276 MILLION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Approximately 276 million dollars in additional income taxes were levied by the treasury department during the 1934-'35 fiscal year as the result of investigations by agents of the income tax unit, Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, reported today.

The additional tax assessments, based on disclosures by investigators, showed an increase of about $72.500,000 over those for the previous fiscal year, he announced. Assessments recommended by agents during 1934-1935 aggregated $276,002,250.07, compared with $203,510,465.96 during the previous fiscal year.

Questionable stock transactions, hoarding of income in personal holding companies, bonuses to corporation officers which the government considers excessive, charging off of bad debts, losses, contributions which the government does not recognize, and computation of depreciations by corporations are some of the points usually investigated by the bureau.

Girl Lands Safely After 3d Floor Leap; Man Sought

Miss Marie Aranson, 24 years old, 931 Dakin street, an entertainer, jumped from a third floor window at 3883 Southport avenue yesterday without incurring serious injury. Miss Aranson told police that she had jumped to escape the attentions of George Stricker, 30 years old, to whose apartment she had gone after a casual meeting and a round of drinks. The girl suffered only bruises and will recover, physicians at the county hospital said. Stricker is being sought by police.

One of Rarest Plants in World Is Found in Joliet

Several of the rarest plants in the world grow in the Chicago region, Paul C. Standley, associate curator of the herbarium at Field Museum of Natural History, said yesterday. One noted recently in Joliet is the actinea herbacea, a member of the sunflower family. It is a low tufted perennial with a dense cluster of silky, silvery leaves from which rise short stems each with a single golden yellow flower head. It has been found in only one other locality, near Sandusky, O., said Mr. Standley.

Sanitary District Employe Killed on HighTensionWire

Robert Skyles, 40 years old, 3512 Fulton street, a maintenance man for the sanitary district, was killed yesterday when he lost his footing on an electric high tension structure at 39th street and 52d avenue, Stickney, and fell on a wire carrying 33,000 volts.

ALL-AMERICANS BATTLE BEARS BEFORE 85,000

BRUINS LOSE ON BERGER'S HOME RUN, 2-1; WIN, 5-2

Warneke Has Easy Time in 2d Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—Wally Berger, who specializes in homers, put on a one-man act today, but there was nothing funny about it from the Cubs' standpoint. The act was his 28th homer of the year, and it dropped the third place Chicagoans to defeat, 2 to 1, in the first half of a double-header with the Boston Braves. The Cubs, having in mind the possible winning of a pennant, shook off that jolt and then bounced back for an even break, winning the second game, 5 to 2. It made fourteen victories over the local tail-enders in seventeen games.

So far as pennant chances are concerned the fifty-fifty break with the league's door mats wasn't conducive to comforting thoughts among the Chicago athletes. They went into their day's work two games behind the leading Cardinals, but because of the depredations of the latter at Philadelphia, the interval now is three games. In between are the Giants, only one-half game above the Cubs and 2½ games behind the first placers. But the discouraging item is that the Chicagoans are again six games worse off than the leaders in the loss column.

Cantwell Puzzles Cubs.

Berger wasn't alone in heaping grief on the ambitious, but frequently jittery, Chicagoans. Another fellow by the name of Ben Cantwell had a hand in it. He reduced the Cubs to such a low state of feebleness that they could reach him for only four hits and one pass. Of the five men who reached base against him, only three traveled to second, two of them making this long tour in the third inning, when they scored their lone run. Cantwell now has won four games for the season, but has assimilated nineteen beatings, so the Cubs weren't very proud of their hitting skill when they contemplated these figures.

Unfortunately for the veteran Charley Root, he happened to be among the workers who found Cantwell a puzzling foe. Root's pitching was good enough for ordinary purposes, but it went for naught because of the inability of his pals to produce runs. Root was around for seven innings before a pinch hitter supplanted him, and during that time yielded only five hits. Three of them were enough to beat him. Two appeared in the third inning to erase a one run lead taken off Cantwell and the other showed up in the fourth when Berger did his stuff. Root's record now is 11 victories and 8 defeats.

Long Hits Off Smith.

The second game was easy for the Cubs because their old teammate, Bob Smith, insisted on throwing the extra base hit ball. They scored one run at a time in five of the first six innings and with one exception the production was on either doubles or triples.

Meanwhile Lon Warneke was turning out such a swell job that it looked as if his 15th victory of the campaign would be a shutout. For seven innings the Braves came through with only three hits and didn't get a man to second base. But in the two concluding sessions the Arkansas slat was in difficulties and only his big lead saved him from being yanked in favor of one of a corps of rescuers who had been prepared for a possible emergency.

FIRST GAME

After two futile innings of swinging against Cantwell in the first game the Cubs ripped off two hits in the third and took possession of a temporary one run lead. Jurges led off with a single to center and Root fanned after

Ruffing, Allen Puzzles to Chicago Hitters.

BY STEWART OWEN.

The New York Yankees, after getting nowhere in the first six games of their double-header series with the White Sox, settled down to business yesterday and took the last two games with comparative ease. The scores were 9 to 1 and 5 to 2. The double victory gave the Yankees the series, five games to three, and put them ahead in their season's endeavor against the Chicagoans, ten games to eight.

Despite the tragic conclusion of the turbulent eight game series, the Sox retained fourth place in their game of leap frog with the Indians and the Red Sox, because Boston lost two games at Cleveland.

Allen, Ruffing Breeze In.

Unlike the first six games of the set with the Yankees, yesterday's games were lacking in the elements of excitement. The visitors got away to an early lead in both contests and coasted to victory behind excellent pitching by Johnny Allen and Charley Ruffing, who gained his second triumph of the series in the final game. While Allen and Ruffing were holding the Sox batters to a handful of widely separated hits, their teammates were thumping Ted Lyons and Johnny Whitehead with considerable vigor.

Allen allowed only five hits in the opener, the one Sox run coming on Vernon Washington's home run in the fourth. The Yankees got to Lyons for 15 hits, one of them a homer by Johnny Saltzgaver, his first of the season. It was Allen's 13th victory against four defeats and Lyons' seventh defeat against 13 victories.

Gehrig Knocks No. 27.

Ruffing was never in danger after the third inning when Lou Gehrig hit his 27th home run of the year on to the roof in right field to give the Yankees a 3 to 1 lead. They continued their peppering at Whitehead later, however, and added a couple of unnecessary runs in the seventh and ninth. It was Whitehead's twelfth beating of the season, and ran his season's record to 12 won and 12 lost.

FIRST GAME

Hill opened the first game with a single through Dykes and moved up on Rolfe's hit on which Appling made a nice stop behind second. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Dykes threw out Chapman, the runners holding their bases. Gehrig was passed purposely, filling the bases. It was his sixth consecutive base on balls. Selkirk popped to Sewell in front of the plate. Dickey doubled to right center, clearing the bases and putting the Yankees ahead, 3 to 0. Saltzgaver grounded to Appling.

Ryan nicked Lyons for a single to right in the second inning and went to second on Allen's sacrifice. He was trapped between second and third on Hill's bounder to Appling. Hill then stole second, whence he scored on Rolfe's double to left. Chapman grounded to Bonura.

Yanks Get Another.

The Yankees ran the score to 5 to 0 in the fourth. Ryan beat out a hit to Appling and went to second when Luke's low throw got away from Bonura. He scored on Allen's single to center.

Washington, who fouled out with the bases full and nobody out in the second, came up in the fourth with nobody on and two out and drove his sixth home run of the season into the right field stands.

The Yankees cooked up another run after both Gehrig and Selkirk had been called out on strikes in the fifth. Piet made a nice run for Dickey's grounder, but the ball bounced off

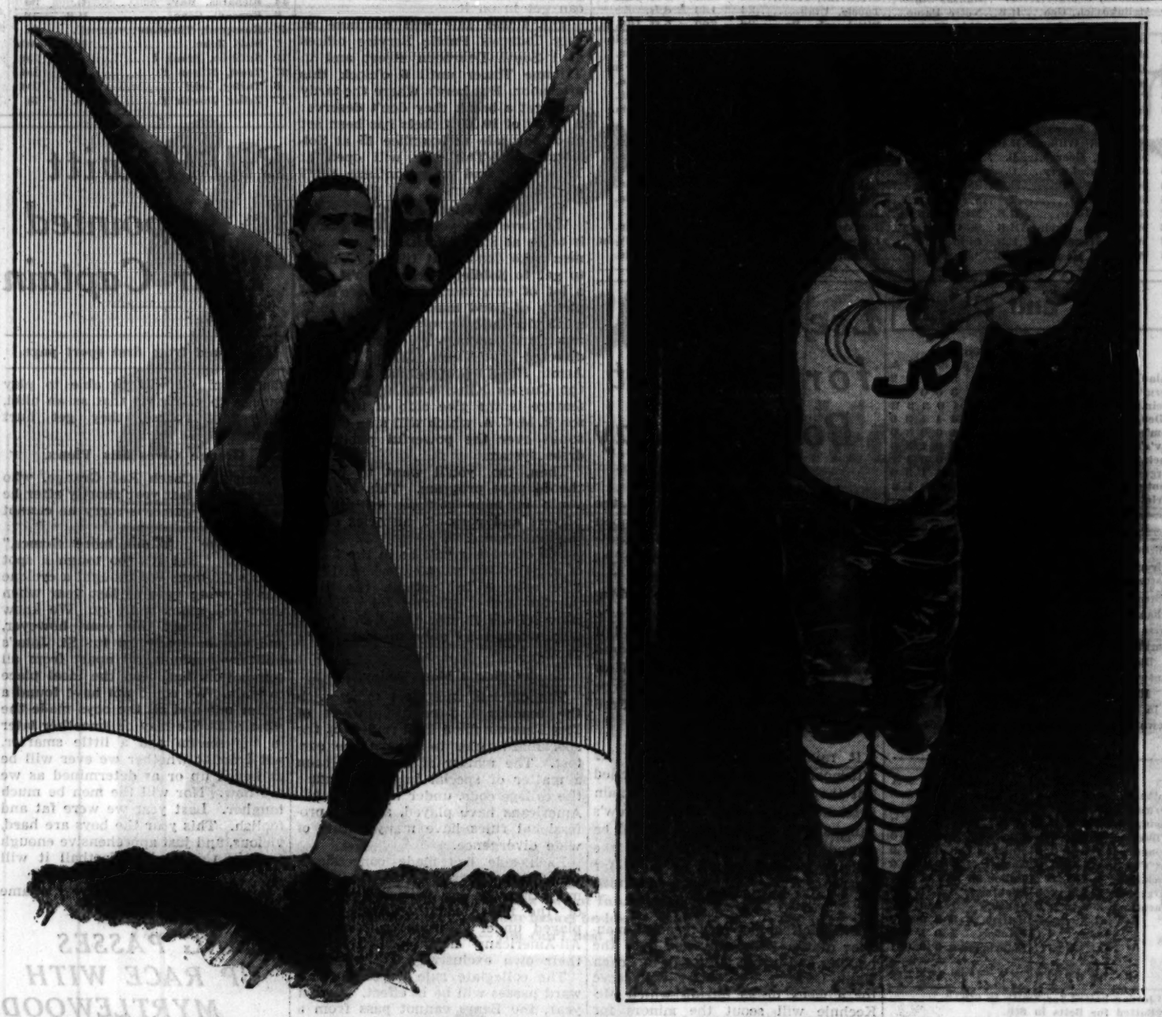
READY, CAPT. MUNJAS? READY, CAPT. HEWITT? LET'S GO!



These outstanding stars of the gridiron will lead the rival forces tonight at Soldiers' field when the college All-Americans meet the Chicago Bears, strongest team in the National Professional Football league. Miller Munjas (left), long distance punter from the University of Pittsburgh, will be at quarter back for the All-Americans. Bill Hewitt (right), called the greatest end in football, last night was chosen captain of the Bears for tonight's battle. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

FOR the second time in the sixty-six years football has been played in the United States an All-American team of college stars will actually step onto the gridiron at Soldiers' field tonight. . . . Its opposition will be the Chicago Bears, strongest team in the National Professional league. . . . Designation of the college stars as All-American is not a fantastic creation of high-powered press agentship. . . . They are the men whom 737,918 fans, balloting from coast to coast, have chosen as the outstanding players graduated from last season's college teams. . . . All-American selections were started by Caspar Whitney in 1889. . . . The idea was popularized by the late Walter Camp, and now hundreds of All-American elevens are named every fall. . . . Seldom do any two jibe. . . . The futility of any one man or small group of men naming the eleven greatest players in the country precludes All-American selections from gaining more import than mediums of argument and honor. . . .

Last year THE TRIBUNE offered the fans of the nation an opportunity to pick THEIR All-American team. . . . Unlike all other All-American teams, THE TRIBUNE'S was to become a reality and actually play a game. . . . The scoreless tie which last year's All-Stars played with the Bears was so encouraging and the effect on football so far reaching it was decided to make the contest an annual event. . . . This year more than 105 newspapers coöperated with THE TRIBUNE in soliciting expressions from the fans. . . . The poll was climaxed with the voting for coaches to lead the All-Stars. . . . The amazing number of 7,317,812 ballots were received. . . . Last year only 615,264 voted for coaches. . . . The natural reply to all this is the query: "Why so many more votes, so much greater interest this year than last?" . . .

Any pioneer effort is shrouded in skepticism. . . . Only a small percentage of college football authorities were sold on the enterprise last summer. . . . Like many fans, they doubted whether the men selected really could be gotten together. . . . If they did report, would they be able to play good football, all having been taught by different coaches, schooled in various types of offense and defense, and, most important, would they have the spirit necessary to bring out superlative performances? . . . The uncertainty spread from coaches to fans. . . . In less than two hours on a warm August night at Soldiers' field in 1934 all these questions were convincingly answered in the affirmative. . . . The result converted the scoffers. . . . Picking an All-American team, assembling it, and developing it into an unbeatable combination had been accomplished. . . . The efforts of these players and their coaches—Noble Kizer, Dick Hanley, and Jimmy Crowley—explain the greater interest this year and the subsequent increase in votes. . . .

More than 80,000 will pack Soldiers' field tonight to see if another group

Motorists: Leave Early for Big Game

BY HAL FOUST.

Here's one sentence of pertinent advice from transportation and safety experts that might be heeded by at least a few of the 85,000 who will attend the All-Star-Bear football game in Soldiers' field tonight:

Allow plenty of time to reach the stadium before the kickoff and don't try to beat the crowd in leaving after the final gun.

Ceremonies start at 8:20; the game at 8:30.

Of course, there'll be delays in assembling and in dispersing a crowd bigger than the adult population of any city in Illinois outside of Chicago. That's part of the spectacle, if you'll have the patience to enjoy it.

A transportation system—developed originally for A Century of Progress—will be clicking full capacity, but this capacity won't carry 85,000 persons simultaneously. The bus company will have more than a hundred big coaches stored in the Court of Honor for the breakup. The street car company will operate its two terminals, at 18th and at 14th streets, capable of loading or unloading 40,000 an hour. More than half the city's taxicabs will be on hand.

Free parking space has been reduced to an 800 car area south of the Stadium because to the north there will be parkers for the nightly band or orchestra concert and for the Buckingham fountain display. Inside the old Fair grounds, with entrances at 14th, 16th, and 23d street, automobiles will park for 50 cents each in an area accommodating 4,000.

Fifteen minutes before the game ends, Grant park will be closed to incoming trafic at Michigan avenue. At the same time, the outer drive will be closed to southbound trafic at 31st street. This will turn over all pavements to outbound trafic only after the breakup.

But there will be delays. It won't be anything new to those who have attended big games in small college towns and it won't be as bad as the congestion in the college towns. Don't be in a hurry and you'll get where you want to go without fretting.

THE TRIBUNE roadster turned into the worst of the Chicagoland Music Festival congestion a few weeks ago. Some folks later told of cars being held by the jam for at least an hour. A stop watch clocked the dispersal at 16 minutes.

There's no use getting hot under the collar about sixteen minutes. Or even half an hour, if you'll anticipate delays that are normal for such a large gathering.

BILL HEWITT TO LEAD BEARS IN BATTLE TONIGHT

Famous End Appointed Captain by Halas.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Bill Hewitt, generally considered the greatest end in professional football, last night was chosen captain of the Chicago Bears for their game with the college All-Stars tonight at Soldiers' field. The appointment was made by Coach George Halas after a final practice session under the lights at the huge lake front arena.

The squad motored in from Delafield, Wis., where at noon yesterday a blackboard lecture ended seventeen days of preparation to wipe out the stigma of last year's humiliating scoreless tie. The squad arrived confident it is in readiness to reëstablish the superiority of professional football. Last night's drill was just a routine session to try on and loosen up new uniforms and become accustomed to the powerful lights which will bedeck the stadium with mid day brilliance.

Earning Power Involved.

Why are the Bears so intent on this game? They are not without vanity. There was satisfaction in being known as a team that was unstoppable. The rude awakening in last years all-star game and the tennis shoe incident at New York, where they dropped their championship to a club they think they can beat every day and twice on Sunday, stung their sensibilities. These shocks left welts on their pride. It is risky business, this slapping the Bears in the face.

Then there is the monetary side. Defeat at New York cost the Bears almost $1,000 a man. Failure to win tonight's game will make further inroads into their earning power. Victory will result in enough exhibition games to bring the Bears an average of $1,000 per man during the season. The greatest team in professional football earned its reputation because of a spirit that is characteristic only of amateurs, but no member of the squad is sufficiently affluent not to be in need of all he can get. A thousand dollars is a lot of money to the Bears. They have something to fight for and cannot afford to lose.

A Few Puzzles.

"If I knew what defense the All-Stars are going to use against our man in motion plays and whether our line will outcharge the college boys," Halas said last night, "I could give you the result of the game. We can win if our line charges them off their feet, preventing such speedy ball carriers as Nichelini Shepherd, and Warburton from breaking loose and giving our backs an opportunity to get away. We've got to get our running game going. A pass attack alone will not beat a good high school team. Our cripples are rounding into

GRIDIRON STARS PLAY GREATEST GAME TONIGHT

Soldiers' Field Is All Fans' Goal.

Complete rosters of all the All-Stars and Bears, including the numbers of the players, will be found on the following page.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The kick-off will be at 8:30 o'clock. At that tense moment tonight the college All-Americans, the nation's pick, and the Chicago Bears will come together at Soldiers' field. A crowd of 85,000 will be there to whoop things up when those 22 starters, 22 of the world's finest athletes, gallop into action in what is certain to be a stirring, memorable football conflict.

The coaches have predicted it will be a "wide open game." Study of crowd psychology in American sports, especially football, has proved conclusively that the fans like plenty of action out in the open. Experts who thrive on the obscure, fine points of offense and defense will not be disappointed in tonight's great event. But after all experts aren't in the majority in a crowd of 85,000. The football is to be tossed and kicked hither and thither this night, and the fans are going to love it. At least we give you that as the promise of Head Coach Frank Thomas of the All-Americans and George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears.

Inspired Play Certain.

There is no need of selling you further on the "grudge fight" phase of tonight's battle. We could write six columns simply setting down reasons why the All-Americans are determined to beat the Bears and 10 columns why the Bears are determined to lick the All-Americans.

But you who will be at Soldiers' field tonight know about the incentives that guarantee a terrific battle. Everybody who has any imagination and any sense of the dramatic knows that no stellar athlete could fail to give all he has and a little bit more under the circumstances which put the All-Americans and the Bears on the gridiron.

Take the All-Stars, for instance. Even if they failed to get the full jolt of enthusiasm from a great turnout of 85,000 persons, their thoughts surely would turn to the fact they were chosen as America's best in a poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE and 105 associated newspapers in all sections of the country. Indeed, there would be something unbelievably deficient about a young man who wouldn't bear down as he never bore down before. It might not be for dear old alma mater [though that element is a factor, too], but there never was a greater place for personal pride than in tonight's arena.

Stars' Attitude Just Right.

Head Coach Thomas has remarked on the intense seriousness of his squad, and on this seriousness, as reflected in the days of preparation, he places much of his hope for an All-American triumph.

Said Mr. Thomas: "The way the young men have been bearing down has been one of my most gratifying experiences in football. I anticipate no slipshod or careless play in the big game."

The Bears' enthusiasm has been stirred by all the spectacular aspects of the game tonight, with the addition of certain prestige elements and the desire of the players to remain on Mr. Halas' pay roll. You've been reading reports from their training camp and know how they've worked long and hard to be in shape for the encounter.

Bears in Black and White.

The professional stars came to Chicago yesterday and were billeted in a south side hotel. Last night they held a rehersal under the lights at Soldiers' field. Like the All-Americans on Tuesday night, the Bears dressed up in full regalia—black silk pants, black helmets, white jerseys, black and white zebra striped socks—modernis-

Where to Buy Tickets

There are 16,000 tickets still available for football's dream game, the second annual contest between the Chicago Bears and the College All-Americans, at Soldiers' field tonight.

They will be on sale all day at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower. The prices are only $1.65 and $1.10. All are reserved. Tickets may be purchased also at Gate 15, Soldiers' field, after 10 a. m.

Ten thousand tickets will be held back for those who are unable to reach Soldiers' field until 7 p. m. This arrangement was made particularly for the accommodation of out-of-town fans.

his glove to the stands for a double. Saltzgaver looped a single to left and Dickey scored. Ryan also singled and Allen walked, filling the bases, but Hill flied to Radcliff to end the inning.

Washington Escapes with Life.

Some inept fielding by Washington helped the Yankees to their seventh run in the seventh inning. Selkirk banged a hit off the right field wall and when Washington ducked the rebound just in time to avoid being brained by the ball, it rolled almost to the infield, Selkirk reaching third. Piet threw out Dickey and then Saltzgaver dropped a fly in front of Washington for a single, scoring Selkirk. Saltzgaver dashed to second while Vernon was playing bounce with the ball, but Ryan grounded to Dykes and Allen struck out.

Hill led off the eighth with a single to center and Rolfe sent him to third with a hit to right. Rolfe stole second as Chapman fanned. Gehrig was passed, filling the bases. Dykes made a great diving stop of Selkirk's smash past third and while lying on the ground threw Selkirk out at first, Hill scoring. Dickey flied to Radcliff.

Sox Threats Are Mild.

During all this Yankee activity, the Sox were doing very little about getting a run around to the plate. After Washington's fourth inning homer they waited until two were out in the sixth to get Bonura on base on an error and Dykes on a pass, but Washington grounded out. Radcliff reached third with two out in the seventh on Conlan's single after he had been hit by a pitched ball, but Piet fouled out. Bonura singled with one out in the eighth and Dykes walked, but Washington grounded out again and Sewell fanned.

Saltzgaver added the Yanks' ninth run when he opened the ninth with a homer into the right field stands.

SECOND GAME

Both sides did their hitting too late to produce any runs in the first inning of the second game. Chapman and Gehrig singled for the Yankees after two were out, but Selkirk grounded out to Appling. Two were gone when Piet singled in the Sox half and then Appling flied to Selkirk.

Dickey singled to start the second, stole second base, went to third when Saltzgaver made his fourth straight hit to left, and scored while Ryan was grounding to Piet for a double play. Ruffing fanned.

Bonura walked in the Sox second and Dykes doubled to right to score him, but Washington, Shea, and Whitehead were easy outs.

No. 27 for Lou.

With two out in the third Chapman walked and then Gehrig drove his twenty-seventh home run of the year onto the roof of the right field stand to put the Yankees ahead, 3 to 1. Selkirk walked, but Piet threw out Dickey.

Hill singled with two gone in the seventh and Rolfe beat Whitehead in the race to first on his grounder to Bonura, Appling let Chapman's easy roller go through his legs, Hill scoring and Rolfe going to third. Gehrig walked, filling the bases. Selkirk forced Gehrig.

Ruffing, after fanning on his first three times up, doubled down the right field line to get the ninth inning under way, and went to third on Hill's sacrifice. He scored when Rolfe's bounder hopped over Piet's head for a single. Chapman bounced into a double play.

The Sox scored a run without a hit in the ninth. Appling and Bonura walked and Appling got to third when Dykes forced Bonura and scored when Ryan threw Washington's double play ball into the visitors' dugout after getting Dykes at second base. Shea flied to Chapman to end the game.

MOON MULLINS—DOG GONE!

Cubs Lose, 2-1; Then Win Over Braves, 5-2

missing a couple of attempts at bunting. Galan was thrown out by Whitney. Then Herman dropped a double in right center and Jurges dashed home with what proved the Cubs' only run of the battle. The third out was hung up on Klein's easy fly to Thompson.

The Braves didn't wait long before tying it up. They stole this bit of successful labor in their half of the same inning. Spohrer thumped a long fly into an open spot in right center and Klein was so leisurely about picking up the ball that Spohrer was able to stretch the hit into a triple. Cantwell fanned, but Urbanski pushed a single past Cavarretta and Spohrer scored. Fletcher then hit into a force play and Whitney flied to Klein.

What a Wallop!

The smash that put the Cubs down for the balance of the game came with none out in the fourth. Root threw two consecutive strikes to Berger and then must have figured he could fool the big fellow with another. Wally wasn't fooled. He put so much power behind homer No. 28 that it went to the back of the left field bleacher and would have gone right on through if a souvenir hunter hadn't made the catch.

The only two hits produced by the Cubs after the third were singles. Demaree punched one into center with one out in the fourth. Cavarretta grounded to Fletcher and Hack flied to Berger. In the sixth Klein, who in the first inning drew the only pass issued by Cantwell, singled to center with one out. The next two gentlemen rolled into force plays.

Galan Pulls Circus Catch.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs picked up one run at bargain rates in the opening inning of the second game. After two were out Klein's roller bounced out of Fletcher's glove and it was recorded as a hit. Chuck stole second and scored on O'Dea's double to right. In the next inning Cavarretta led off with a triple to right and scored on Hack's fly to make it 2 to 0. In the third the margin was stretched to 3 and 0. Herman tripled to right and scored on Klein's double, which was a fly ball nobody could reach behind third.

The Cubs struck another bargain in the fifth, one run scoring. Warneke opened properly by singling to center on one of Smith's slow balls. Galan sacrificed, Herman struck out, and Klein walked. O'Dea bounced to short and the inning should have ended but Urbanski let the ball slip through his hands and Warneke registered. The sixth produced another run. Hack tripled off the distant right field wall and went home on Jurges' double off the left field barrier.

Three Hits, Two Runs.

The pair of runs off Warneke in the eighth grew from three healthy smashes which appeared in succession. Mallon singled to left after one was out. Spohrer cracked a two bagger to the left field wall, Mallon halting at third. Mowry batted for Betts, who had held the Cubs hitless for two innings, and doubled to right on the first pitch, Mallon and Spohrer counting. Warneke revived in time to set down the next two hitters.

Warneke staggered a bit more in the ninth, but escaped after a single and pass had been picked up by the enemy.

White Sox Take Day Off Before Facing Brewers

The White Sox will take a much needed rest from their recent activity against the Yankees with an off day today, but will play an exhibition game against the Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association at Milwaukee tomorrow. They will return to Comiskey park for single games against Cleveland Saturday and Sunday before departing for the east.

The 17,000 who saw the concluding double-header of the Yankee series yesterday ran the total attendance for the four days to 92,000.

The series concluded was a rare treat for those who like to see free hitting and plentiful scoring. The two clubs crowded 76 innings of baseball, which required 18 hours 39 minutes of playing time, into four afternoons. The Yankees scored a total of 54 runs on 98 hits, while the Sox crossed the plate 38 times and hit safely 74. The Yankees made 11 errors and the Sox 10. The combined efforts of the two clubs produced 92 runs, 172 hits and 21 errors. The visitors had 75 men left on bases and the Sox 76, a total of 151.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—After the first game had started this afternoon Manager Grimm of the Cubs made another switch in his pitching plans for the final of the series with the Boston Braves tomorrow. He had intended to use Tex Carleton, who specializes in beating the Braves, but Tex had to go to the bull pen and eventually finished for Root. Now it will be Bill Lee tomorrow and he probably will be opposed by Fred Frankhouse.

It rained up to game time this afternoon and the Cubs were worried lest they should be forced to remain here an extra day. If tomorrow's game should be postponed it will be played there Friday. Otherwise the Cubs will leave tomorrow night for Pittsburgh where they are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday.

Bill McKechnie, now general manager of the Braves, turned over the playing end of his job today to Coach Hank Gowdy. The latter will serve for a week or so during which McKechnie will scout the minors for possible phenoms.

The presentation of Charley Grimm's birthday present, a desk clock, was made as scheduled before the game. The manager said he was deeply touched by the expression of sentiment and sorry that he could not give his boys the correct dope on his age. Charley doesn't know whether he's 37 or 36.

Gabby Hartnett was back in uniform today but there has been only a slight improvement in his ailing left ankle. He'll consider himself lucky if able to catch this week-end at Pittsburgh.

JOY BREAKS 98 TO WIN TITLE IN SKEET TOURNEY

Solon, O., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The 20 gauge national skeet title was won by H. B. Joy Jr., Detroit, tonight, after he defeated a field of 75 of America's outstanding marksmen with a score of 98 of 100.

Joy broke 24 of each of the first 25 target events and then cracked the last 50 in a row. His run was not the best of the day, however, for Bob Stack, 18 year old Los Angeles youth, broke his last 79 in a row after dropping three of his first 21. The 97 gave the youngster second place.

Sponsors of the spectacle, kindly and softhearted fellows, have taken good care of those tardy folks who have put off buying tickets. They figure that there are some fans who thought they couldn't attend and then found they could. To take care of these customers who might otherwise be locked out, careful provisions have been made, and while they are being accommodated, the plain tardy can get in on it.

The ticket sale will continue at THE TRIBUNE Public Service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower until 6 o'clock this afternoon. But here's where the tardy ones get a break they don't deserve: A block of 10,000 tickets has been set aside for sale at boxoffice 15 at Soldiers' field. This sale will open at 10 o'clock and will continue till 7 o'clock this evening.

Get There Early!

We have told you that the kickoff is to be at 8:30 o'clock, but for goodness sake don't wait till 8:30 o'clock to get to Soldiers' field. You'll miss a lot of entertainment. There'll be plenty of band music by two bands, a 175 piece one recruited from college musicians summering in Chicago and directed by Glenn Cliffe Bainum, Armin Hand's professional band, and the Curtiss Kiltie band. An added feature is the glee club of the Lawson Y. M. C. A. which will sing college songs over the powerful public address system.

Then, too, you'll want to peruse the 64 page program. This big souvenir contains pictures of all the players and personal histories of all the performers.

The officiating will be in the hands of some of the most experienced and able officials in football, the same quartet—James Masker, John Schommer, Wilfrid Smith, and J. J. Lipp—who worked so ably in last year's game.

Officials Meet Today.

The officials will meet today with the coaches and representatives of THE TRIBUNE for a final review of the specialized rules to govern the contest. The matter of rules has been a matter of special interest because the college code, under which the All-Americans have played, and the professional rules have many points of wide divergence.

Each side has made concessions, with the Bears probably yielding more than the All-Americans, in view, of the fact that the Bears have played under both codes while the All-Americans have played under their own exclusively.

The collegiate rule governing forward passes will be in effect. As last year, the Bears cannot pass from a point less than five yards behind the line of scrimmage.

3 VETERINARIANS FAIL TO AGREE ON AGE OF MY BANE

The failure of three veterinarians to agree on the age of a horse marked the hearing conducted by the Illinois racing commission yesterday into the ruling off the turf of J. D. Mikel, Illinois horse breeder, by the board of stewards of Lincoln Field Jocky club. Mikel was banned two weeks ago for running his horse My Bane in a 2 year old race. The stewards charge the horse is a 3 year old.

Veterinarians G. B. McKillip and N. Southard, representing the stewards, testified it was their belief My Bane was 3 years old. They based their testimony on an examination of the animal's teeth and mouth. Dr. J. E. Dunlap, Danvers, Ill., said he performed an operation on My Bane in June of last year and that the colt was a yearling then. W. A. Mikel, father of the turfman, testified My Bane was foaled March 5, 1933.

Peter B. Carey, chairman of the racing commission, aided by Walter C. Peacock, a member, conducted the hearing, which will be resumed this morning at the commission offices, 1 North La Salle street.

shape and all will be able to play enough to eliminate that as an alibi, unless, of course, they get hurt again."

Grange Gives His Views.

Assistant Coach Red Grange, who was injured last year shortly after he entered the game, is sorry he cannot play.

"I'd like just one more chance," he said. "But it's too tough a spot for an old man. We thought a cyclone was blowing past us last year when those collegians went by. We know what to expect this year, however, and will be ready for it. St. John's Military academy set apart from all commotion, has been the ideal place to train. We could not have found a better one and all the boys made the most of it. We may be smoother later in the season and a little smarter, but I doubt whether we ever will be as keyed up or as determined as we are now. Nor will the men be much tougher. Last year we were fat and foolish. This year the boys are hard, vicious, and just apprehensive enough to play the kind of football it will take to beat the All-Stars."

CLANG PASSES UP RACE WITH MYRTLEWOOD

Myrtlewood and Clang, the two world's record holders now racing at Lincoln Fields, will not meet for a purse of $2,500 in a match race on Labor day.

W. R. Sallee, trainer of Clang, reported his charge had not taken kindly to his training this week and he believes the 3 year old would not be at his best for an engagement on Monday, which is the final day of the Lincoln Fields' season.

"We will welcome a match with Myrtlewood any time Clang is in top condition," Sallee said.

TIGERS POUND ATHLETICS FOR 11 TO 0 VICTORY

Lawson, Recruit Pitcher, Scores 2d Shutout.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The league leading Detroit Tigers wound up their longest home stand of the season this afternoon by shutting out the Athletics, 11 to 0, behind the four hit pitching of Roxie Lawson, rookie right hander obtained from Toledo a week ago. It was his second shutout in two starts for Detroit.

GIANTS LOSE TWO.

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates handed the fading Giants a terrific blow today when they won a double-header, 6 to 1 and 9 to 5, to sweep the three game series. The defeats, coupled with the Cardinals' two victories over the Phillies, left the Giants 2½ games behind the league leaders.

Cy Blanton held the Giants to five hits in the first game, as a homer by Pep Young helped the Pirates along. A homer by Earl Grace with the bases full in the sixth put the Pirates ahead after the Giants had scored three runs in the fifth of the second game.

CHRISTY WINS 10 ROUND FIGHT WITH FELDMAN

Williams Whips Massey in Semi-Windup.

Jimmy Christy, Chicago Catholic Youth organization boxer, defeated Lew Feldman of New York in a ten round bout at Mills stadium last night. Christy, 133 pounds, outfought and outboxed his more experienced foe, who weighed 132½, in a majority of the rounds. However, the decision was not unanimous. Judges Ed Klein and Ed Hintz scored for Christy and Referee Tommy Thomas called it a draw.

Feldman partisans in the crowd of 1,626 who paid $2,646 gross booed mildly at the decision.

Williams Gets Decision.

Holman Williams, Detroit, 136½, handed a lacing to Lew Massey, Philadelphia, 136, in ten rounds in the secondary attraction. Referee Frank Sykora and both judges scored in Williams' favor.

Massey entered the ring with patches over both eyes and they seemed to bother him. He pulled off the patch over his left eye in the fourth and in the sixth the one over the other eye fell off. Then Lew displayed his real ability, but, even so, Williams was the stronger in the final rounds.

Al Nettlow Wins.

JOHN J. MURPHY LEAVES FORTUNE MADE ON HORSES

John J. Murphy of St. Louis, who was found dead in his bed at the Stevens hotel yesterday morning, was one horse player who did not die broke. He played them at the tracks for more than 40 years while serving as telegraph operator, bookmaker, pricemaker, and handicapper, and wound up with a fortune, his friends related yesterday.

During one short fall season in Kentucky a half dozen years ago he won more than $100,000. Frequently he won double that amount at longer meetings, so the reports go. He was a plunger in those days and frequently wagered thousands in one afternoon. In later years he made only small wagers.

Murphy, who was 63 years old, began his career on St. Louis and Chicago race tracks over 40 years ago as a telegraph operator. He had been a pricemaker on Chicago tracks this year.

PRINCE PEST IS FIRST AGAIN; SWIFTSPORT 2D

Lincoln Fields Fans See Rousing Finish.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Pesky Prince Pest, the horse that has kept on winning since the start of the Chicago racing season and in which the betting public seldom has any confidence, bobbed up again as the winner of the best race on the program at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

He won the Illinois Central purse by a margin that was just the size of his head. He conquered his rivals after the gamest kind of a dash down the home stretch. With his feet flying and his ears wiggling he got the verdict in the very last stride.

Swiftsport, the eastern campaigner from the stable of Max Hirsch, was passed in the shadow of the finish line. Jocky D. Brammer was riding Prince Pest and he made the son of Prince of Umbria get up off the ground and fly during those final desperate strides.

Haas Gets a Surprise.

Jocky Haas, too, was riding Swiftsport with all the strength he possessed and he was surprised when the fast charging Prince Pest moved with such suddenness. The finish was so close that Jocky Haas didn't know whether he had won or lost on Swiftsport until he came back to weigh out and took a glance at the big green board on which was displayed Prince Pest's winning number.

The favorite was Jim Norris' Reservist, but he never was up near the leaders. After Reservist had mustered the bulk of the support, Prince Pest was neglected. He paid off at $10.60 to win, $5.80 to place, and $4.00 to show. Swiftsport was at $6.80 to place and $5.40 to show. My Dandy, the one-eyed 10 year old, which finished third, paid $6.60 to show.

Winner Last at Start.

Prince Pest had been ninth in the nine horse field during the early stages while Swiftsport and My Dandy were reeling off the first quarter in 23 seconds and the half in :46 2-5. He didn't make up much ground until the field started to wheel into the stretch. He made up plenty then, and wound up by running the mile in 1:37 1-5.

It was the banner day of the Lincoln Fields season for Jocky Brammer. He booted the stoutly backed Stealthy Step to victory in the second race and came back in the sixth at a mile and a sixteenth to have Pulis, the favorite, in front from start to finish. He was second with Mary Carmen in the third race, and was out of the money in his two other engagements.

Ha! Bill Has a Winner.

You may not believe it, but William Schmidt, Chicago's undertaker turfman, had his Blue and White silks carried to victory during the afternoon by one of the 2 year olds he expected so much of this year but which have failed him on many occasions.

A youngster called Jocks Image delivered the goods for Owner Schmidt and he did it in right handy fashion after making the pace all the way.

Owner Schmidt didn't even call around at the track to see the son of Jock-Peggy Weaver run. He evidently didn't wager on him either, for the final payoff in the mutuels was $40.20 to win, $14.60 to place and $9 to show.

Jocks Image was ridden by Charley Landolt and he won this race in a way to indicate that he may be better than any body suspects. The favorite, Blue Bud, after getting away slowly, finished second and Binocular was third. Jocks Image was too much for them when they challenged near the finish.

WHO'S WHO in Women's Tennis

CAROLYN BABCOCK.

Carolyn Babcock is not the only member of the Babcock family to gain national prominence in the field of sports. Her brother was captain of the 1934 Stanford track team and ran the 440 in the Boston I. C. 4 A. meet.

Miss Babcock started to play tennis at the age of 15 under the coaching of her father. It was not long, however, before she was beating her dad at his own game. When her family moved from Montana to California she got her start in tournament tennis. Mrs. Doeg, the mother of John Hope Doeg, one time national men's champion, taught her the fundamentals of championship tennis.

While at the University of California at Los Angeles she was initiated into the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, of which Mrs. Helen Wills Moody also is a member.

Miss Babcock made her debut in the national tournament in 1932 and to the surprise of both fans and officials fought her way to the final. In losing to Miss Jacobs in the final of that famous tournament, she provided Miss Jacobs with what the latter claims to have been the greatest thrill she has yet experienced. That year Miss Babcock was ranked No. 3 in America. She won the same rating again last year. Sir F. Gordon Lowe of Great Britain, editor of "Lowe's Lawn Tennis Annual," rates Miss Babcock as the eighth greatest woman player in the world.

This year Carolyn has confined her conquests almost entirely to the west coast. She has won in either the singles or doubles of almost every tournament.

Miss Babcock is a very small girl, resembling a gypsy in appearance. She wears her jet black hair combed straight back and always wears shorts when on the courts.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—WOW! ACTION!

U.S. Tennis Tourneys to Start Today

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The United States Lawn Tennis association will present for the first time its national men's and women's championship tournaments combined as one show at Forest Hills tomorrow.

At Wimbledon and Auteuil it has been the practice to conduct the men's and women's tournaments in a combined carnival of tennis lasting nearly two weeks. Now, after fifty-three years of competition for the men and forty-seven for the women, America has fallen into line and for ten days, through Sept. 7, the public will have the opportunity of seeing many of the stars in both groups.

Famous Players Assemble.

England, France, Spain, Czechoslovakia, Canada, and New Zealand have sent their best to America for the occasion, while the United States will be represented by every amateur in the men's first ten and eight of the top ranking women players. In addition to Fred Perry of England, the defending champion, the array of foreign talent in the men's singles includes Roderick Menzel of Prague, Enrique Maier of Barcelona, Christian Boussus, Jacques Brugnon, and Martin Legeay of France, Robert Murray and Laird Watt of Canada, and Eskell D. Andrews of New Zealand.

In the women's list, Miss Katherine Stammers, who defeated Mrs. Helen Moody in England and Helen Jacobs in the Wightman cup matches, is regarded as the most formidable rival for Miss Jacobs' title. Others include Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King, Freda James, Nancy Lyle, and Evelyin Burritt, Diana Pope, and Effie Billing of Canada.

Seeks Third Title.

Both Perry and Miss Jacobs have the opportunity to set new marks as they start out in defense of their crowns. Should Perry carry off the championship he will be the first player in history from overseas to win our title three times and the first one from anywhere to turn the trick three times in a row since Tilden scored his sixth successive victory in 1925.

If Miss Jacobs is successful in her defense, she will be the second player in history to triumph four years running since Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory prevailed in 1918.

CONTINUITY, under strong pressure in opening quarter, raced around SPICKEEN on stretch turn, saved ground last three-sixteenths and outstayed MARY CARMEN in a long drive. Latter, forced to race a trifle wide throughout and displaying speed from the start, stood a drive courageously and was slowly wearing down the winner. HIGHLAND LANE, raced wide throughout and under severe pressure the final quarter outgamed HOSE in closing strides. Latter, in close quarters soon after the start gained ground gradually when clear after a quarter but failed to hold HIGHLAND LANE.

FOURTH RACE. Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

JOCKANA, racing improved and displaying the most speed from the start held sway easily for five-eighths then weakened but lasted. ETERNAL FLASH, well up from the start, came to outside in stretch and closed fastest. FUNDERBURG, away slowly, came through on inside when bettering his position fast entering stretch but weakened near end.

JOCKS IMAGE easily outfooted Miss Petrina from WHISKARITA and PELORIA, increased her advantage fast when nearing the final eighth but weakened and was under strong urging the last seventy yards. BLUE BUD, away fast but crowded back and forced to outside for room after three-eighths, closed with determination under strong handling.

PRINCE PEST, away sluggishly and far out of it for half a mile raced between horses when beginning to move up on stretch turn, came to outside for the drive and finishing with a rush was up in closing strides. SWIFTSPORT, never strongly perserved with but apparently relishing the lack of punishment forced the early pace under strong restraint, took command gradually and continued well under light urging to final fifty yards before weakening. MY DANDY, taken back under strong restraint on the turn fought it out gamely in the drive.

PULIS, going in his best form and forced wide on first turn, took an easy lead approaching the final half mile and going away fast through the stretch. PARTIES stumbled on first turn but recovered fast and rated under restraint for three-quarters held on fairly well when under pressure thereafter. IRISH IMAGE, taken back repeatedly for almost three-quarters secured room on inside in stretch and outgamed SULTRY in closing stride.

UNCOMMON GOLD, forced back soon after the start and steadied along on inside for five-eighths raced around the leaders fast on stretch turn and after drawing out when approaching eighth held sway under restraint. A big factor from the start and saving ground the entire trip, held on with good courage. BATTLING GIRL, under urging after five-eighths but slow to respond came to outside in stretch and finished well.

LAW ENFORCERS BACK LOCAL RUM RULE IN MICHIGAN

Brewers Want Abolition of State Control.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald's proposal that local authorities be charged with primary responsibility for enforcement of the liquor control law was supported today by representatives of police chiefs, sherifs and prosecutors' associations.

Coincident with the liquor law enforcement meeting here, petition forms were filed with Orville S. Atwood, secretary of state, by John Bodenstab, secretary of the Michigan Brewers' association. The petition calls for a referendum on a plan for abolition of the control commission and the removal of beer manufacture and sales from either state or local regulation. Signatures of 126,000 voters would be necessary to cause submission of a constitutional amendment at the 1936 general election to provide that counties could decide whether brewing beverages of more than 4.5 per cent alcoholic content would be permitted within their limits. Exemption of liquor up to that alcoholic limit, however, would exempt all Michigan-brewed beers, it was admitted.

Would Avoid Taxation.

They would also be specifically excluded from taxation under proposed amendment.

It was announced today from Owosso by the Rev. W. V. Waltman of Mason, field secretary for the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, that a new state dry campaign will start in Shiawasee county. The drys first want township, city, and village local option, stricter limitation of licenses, prohibition of liquor or beer sales in dance halls, raising of the age limit for liquor and beer buyers to 21 years, and providing that no women be employed in liquor vending establishments.

At the capital conference with the governor, it was indicated that police approval will be necessary after Oct. 1 before the state control commission will issue licenses to sell liquor.

Liquor and Dancing.

The most serious problem now confronted by enforcement agencies is the combination of liquor sales with dancing, according to expression from Chairman John S. McDonald of the control commission and Miss Eleanor Hutzel, head of the women's division of the Detroit police.

The governor has called liquor and dancing a "vicious combination."

JOHN F. BERRY, 61, IS DEAD; FUNERAL RITES TOMORROW

John F. Berry, superintendent of golf for the forest preserve district, died Tuesday night at his home, 138 South Hamlin avenue. Mr. Berry, who was 61 years old, had been in political life in Cook county for 25 years. The funeral will be held from the home to St. Mel's church, 22 North Kildare avenue, at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

As a young man Berry was a printer and from that work entered politics as secretary to Thomas Scully, former county judge. He served two terms in the Illinois general assembly and once was superintendent of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium. He had been employed by the forest preserve district for the last seven years.

Surviving Mr. Berry are his widow and two sons, John F. Jr., and Dr. Robert F. Berry, and four daughters, Mrs. Helen Hopkins of Sandusky, O., and Mrs. Arnold Pins and the Misses Lillian and Frances Berry of Chicago.

KILLS HERSELF WITH GAS; LEAVES BLAST WARNING

Despondent over a long and hopeless illness, Mrs. Mary Ellen Liston, 53 years old, 5958 South Komensky avenue, decided last night to commit suicide. But she did not fail to take precautions against her death causing harm to those she loved. Before turning on the gas in the kitchen stove she wrote a note which she pinned on the front door. "Don't come in; don't light a match; there might be an explosion," it read. Her niece, Miss Mary Daley, who lived with Mrs. Liston, found the message and summoned the police, who broke in and found the body. Beside it was another note suggesting funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Wilma Krueger Dies; 70 Descendants Survive

Mrs. Wilma Krueger, 79 years old, 1318 Ashland avenue, Evanston, died yesterday in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, as the result of injuries received in a fall last Friday. Mrs. Krueger lived at the home of a daughter, Mrs. William F. Dumyahn. Born in Mecklenberg, Germany, Mrs. Krueger came to the United States when she was 9 years old and spent most of her life in Glenview. Her husband, Fred C. Krueger, a farmer, died five years ago. Mrs. Krueger was the mother of eleven children, eight of whom survive. She also had thirty-nine grandchildren and twenty-three great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow at St. John's Lutheran church, Evanston. Mrs. Krueger's body will be buried beside that of her husband in Ridgewood cemetery, Des Plaines.

John Thorn Dies; Veteran Actor of Stage and Screen

Mercer, Pa., Aug. 28.—(AP)—John Thorn, 55, veteran actor of the silent screen and the stage, died at a sanitarium today after an illness of six weeks. He played in several New York productions, among them "Her Master's Voice," "Vagabond," and "Experience."

WILL OF RUDOLPH LEDERER LEAVES $250,000 TO KIN

Rudolph Lederer, retired brewer who died on Aug. 12, left an estate of $250,000 to his family in his will, filed yesterday in the Probate court. The widow, Ellen, 6011 Sheridan road, was bequeathed $10,000 outright, and five sisters were given $5,000 each, with smaller sums going to fourteen nieces and nephews. The rest of the estate was left in trust, the income to be shared equally by the widow and the four children.

The will of Mrs. Mary K. Barrett of Hubbard Woods, widow of the founder of the Barrett Bindery company, 1330 West Monroe street, was admitted to probate. It disposed of an estate of $140,000 to relatives. Mrs. Barrett died on July 12. One-third of the estate was left to Arthur M. Barrett, 530 Cherry street, Winnetka, son and present head of the firm, who was named executor. The remainder, after minor bequeaths to other relatives, was left in trust with the Chicago Title and Trust company, one-half of the income to go to another son, Roland, of Hubbard Woods, one-third to George A. Barrett, 1637 Farwell avenue, a grandson, and the remainder to Mrs. Mary Katherine Barrett Jaynes, 7053 North Ashland avenue, a granddaughter.

Other wills filed were:

BERTRAM PRIEGS, died June 15, 1935. Estate, $10,000, to widow and daughter, Erna Priebs, widow, executrix.

GEORGE BAHLENHOIST, died Feb. 12, 1935. Estate $4,000, to widow, Anna Bahlenhoist, widow, executrix.

MARY LYNCH, died Aug. 17, 1935. Estate, $18,000, to son, three granddaughters and two grandsons. City National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, executor.

JOSHUA CRANE JR. DIES IN CRASH AT PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., July 28.—(AP)—Joshua Crane Jr., New England aviator, was fatally injured today and Arthur E. Howe Jr. of Philadelphia was hurt. A plane, piloted by Crane, went into a spin and crashed as he was about to land at the Rhode Island state airport.

Crane had spent more than 3,000 hours in the air and had piloted more than 25,000 passengers without mishap.

Crane was 37 years old and was the son of Joshua Crane, nationally known sportsman and bridge expert, now residing in England. A wartime naval aviator in the North sea submarine patrol, he later engaged in commercial aviation, managed an airport and a flying service, and in recent years became a salesman and charter flight pilot for an airplane marketing agency.

LONG ILLNESS IS FATAL TO AUNT OF GOV. HORNER

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 o'clock for Mrs. Minnie Horner, widow of Joseph Horner, an uncle of Gov. Horner.

Mrs. Horner, who was in her seventies, died Tuesday in Philadelphia, where she had lived for several years. She had been ill for some time.

Gov. Horner expected to come to Chicago for the funeral, which will be held in a chapel at 936 East 47th street. Burial will be in Mount Mayriv cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Horner are a son, Horace K. Horner, a daughter, and Mrs. Joseph N. Snellenburg, both of Philadelphia.

Nathan G. Harvey, Former Chicagoan, Dies on Coast

Word was received here yesterday of the death earlier in the day of Nathan G. Harvey, 63 years old, one of the founders and former president of the Illinois Electric company, which was sold to another concern several years ago. Mr. Harvey died in Pasadena, Cal., where he was making his home. He lived in Chicago for several years, making his residence at the Edgewater Beach hotel. He had been ill only a short time. His widow and a daughter, Mrs. William Fielder, of Berkeley, Cal., survive.

Frederick A. Yard, 55, Dies; Member of N.Y. Bank

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Frederick A. Yard, 55, a partner in the Wall street banking firm of A. M. Kidder & Co., died in Beekman street hospital today of streptococcic infection. Yard, who was born in Philadelphia and spent his boyhood in Brooklyn, served as vice president of the Union Trust Company of Chicago from 1917 to 1920.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Will Rogers' last radio sponsor, an eastern gasoline company, has signed up Phil Baker for a series of weekly programs over the Columbia chain starting Sunday, Sept. 29. The program will run for a half hour from 6:30 to 7 o'clock. With him will be Bottle, his stooge; Beetle, his annoyer, and probably Leon Belsaco as musical chief. Baker's last sponsor was a Chicago packer. He concluded a two year NBC series in his interest last June.

Willis Cooper has turned in his resignation as continuity chief at local NBC offices to devote his time to writing "Lights Out," chill and horror show, and "Flying Time," a juvenile thriller. With other members of the "Flying Time" cast Cooper left yesterday for Cleveland, where the program will be aired from the airport during the national air races. Loretta Poynton, Willard Farnum, Ted Maxwell, and Harold Perry made the trip with him.

Speaking from the Union League club, Frank O. Lowden will be heard over an NBC network from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Monday, Sept. 16. His subject will be "Is the Constitution Outworn?"

Edgar A. Guest, poet-philosopher of NBC'S Welcome Valley program, will leave for Hollywood on Oct. 1 to make three feature pictures for Universal. His broadcasts, however, will continue. Guest's voice will be piped in from the west and the musical and dramatic portions of his serial will be aired from local studios.

Ted Husing, who once called a Harvard football play "putrid" and was tossed out of the Cambridge stadium for good, is brushing up on the sport preparatory to fall gridiron broadcasts. He accepted an invitation of the New York Herald-Tribune to register in its football school. A chap at my elbow says that Graham McNamee needs expert football instruction even more than Husing.

Al Jolson has the NBC technical experts busy figuring out how much it will cost to relay his sponsored program from England should he go to Europe this fall. Al would like to present notable British sports figures and entertainers if he goes.

Sybil Goldberg, 12 year old piano prodigy, who made a guest appearance recently with the Civic Opera orchestra at Grant park, is to have a regular radio spot of her own. She is to be heard Sunday nights at 8 o'clock over WIND. First concert next Sunday.

Maj. Bowes' amateur unit at the Chicago theater has the management as well as the customers cheering for them. It's a versatile, talented crew and their showmanship is by no means amateurish. If you want to compare notes, the State-Lake is bringing in a bunch of Fred Allen's winners for a week starting Saturday.

AMERICAN SHIP IS SEIZED AGAIN IN JAP SPY HUNT

TOKIO, Aug. 29 [Thursday].—(AP)—The American freighter Golden Mountain, out of San Francisco, is not yet free from Japan's spy hunting net, it was disclosed today by Rengo [Japanese] News agency dispatches from Moji, although charges of photographing a fortified zone have been settled.

A member of the freighter's crew paid a fine of 30 yen [about $9] and gave up his films, enabling the ship to depart Monday night from Port Tokuyama, where it had been detained.

On their arrival at Moji Tuesday night, the news agency said, the skipper and crew of the ship were given further police examinations, which were continuing today. Moji police said they were investigating the Golden Mountain's actions on Aug. 22 in the Bungo straits. The police said their information was that the ship anchored in the strategic waters for two hours and took soundings and observation of currents, possibly in the nature of espionage. The skipper's explanation was that he anchored in the straits to await a pilot coming from Shimonoseki.

HUSBAND SHOOTS WIFE IN DISPUTE OVER 'BOY FRIEND'

CRIMINAL COURT.

David Flanigan, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; George Logan, Frank Kosecl, and Carl Staples, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

John Aszklar, 23 years old, 1410 Luce street, who is on relief, yesterday shot and seriously wounded his wife, Sophie, 21 years old, in front of a tavern at 1227 North Paulina street, where she is employed. The shooting followed a dispute between the two, apparently over another man, as Aszklar told police he also had planned to shoot his wife's "boy friend."

Aszklar was seized by Racine avenue police in the receiving room of the County hospital where he had taken his wife. She was struck by four bullets and is in a serious condition.

"This is the third time she left me with the kid and that is enough," Aszklar told Sergt. Thomas Kelleher as he admitted the shooting. He said that the couple has been married two years and have a daughter, Lorraine, 19 months old.

Police said that Aszklar admitted that when he was 15 years old he served a year at the St. Charles School for Boys for killing a man, and that he had served six months in the House of Correction for the theft of an automobile. He said he had borrowed the gun only fifteen minutes before the shooting.

WHITE ASSURED VOTE VICTORY IN MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Hugh White, rich Columbia lumberman, who charged in the campaign that Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana sought to bring about his defeat in order to extend his own political influence into Mississippi, had received the Democratic nomination for governor of Mississippi tonight on the basis of unofficial returns from yesterday's runoff primary. The nomination is the equivalent of election.

White held a 12,000 vote lead over Paul B. Johnson of Hattiesburg, former congressman, whom he charged with soliciting and accepting Long's support, with only 39 of the state's 1,650 precincts unreported.

Apparently nominated as second in command as lieutenant governor was J. B. Snider, publisher of a chain of weekly newspapers, who held a 13,000 vote lead over State Senator Walter N. Taylor.

Walter H. Newberry, Kin of Late General, Dead at 75

Mount Pleasant, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Walter H. Newberry, 75 years old, former mayor, died today. Newberry came here 48 years ago from Chicago. He was born in Missouri and was a nephew of the late Gen. Walter Newberry of Chicago and a relative of former Senator Truman Newberry of Detroit. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Potter, Hollywood, Cal., and Mrs. William Thomas, Chicago, and a son, Walter H. Newberry Jr., San Francisco.

Kidnap Truck Crew of 2; Take $900 Sugar Cargo

Henry R. Bedford and Leslie Linnert of Geneva, Neb., were kidnaped late yesterday near St. Charles by three armed men, who took the truck on which they were hauling a cargo of sugar valued at $900 to Geneva. Two of the hijackers hauled the truckmen back to Chicago and released them at Bryn Mawr avenue and Pulaski road. The third man drove away with the truck and the sugar. The truck is the property of the Bedford Produce company of Geneva.

JUDGE REFUSES TO END FIXING OF BARBER PRICES

Superior Judge Peter H. Schwaba refused yesterday to dissolve the injunction obtained last April by the Master Barbers' association fixing hair cut prices at 50 cents and shaves at 25 cents, basing his decision on the ground his court was not one of review and because the injunction had been granted by another Superior court judge with concurrent jurisdiction.

Harvey Young, attorney representing the three barbers whom Judge Schwaba held in contempt for having charged only 25 cents for hair cuts and 15 cents for shaves, attacked the right of the court to fix prices. After his motion to dissolve the injunction was overruled, however, he effected an agreement with the judge for "nominal" fines for the three barbers pending appeal on the contempt citations. The judge suggested $1 as a "nominal" fine, but Attorney Bailey S. Stanton, representing the barbers' association, insisted on $25 in each case. Attorney Young then suggested $10 and Judge Schwaba suggested a fine of $5, but when these failed of mutual agreement the judge told the lawyers to "get together on the amount of the fine and form of appeal" and return today. The lawyers later agreed on $25, with the provision that the appeal bonds, normally about $2,500, should be only $200 in each case.

Mrs. O. M. Carter Dies After Prolonged Illness

Mrs. O. M. Carter, a leader in the civic and social life of Ravenswood Manor since that community was founded, died Tuesday night in her home at 2947 Wilson avenue after an illness of several months. Mrs. Carter, 67 years old, was a native of Wisconsin and an out-of-doors sports enthusiast. She was widely known at the Park Ridge Country club and was the youngest daughter of Jacques and Angeline Stumper, pioneer Wisconsin settlers from Luxembourg.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Mild strength in liens of the United States government and easiness in the corporate list dominated activity today on the listed bond market.

Just when dealers and specialists in United States bonds were beginning to feel concerned over the public's probable response to the treasury's statement that it is content to let the market establish its own level, the selling dried up today.

Recovery Averages Quarter Point.

Recoveries at one time were averaged a quarter point. As usual, trading was the most active in the 2⅞s, an issue which has given a striking illustration recently of what happens when the issuer of securities pays too little attention to proper distribution. Federal Farm Mortgage 2¾s, one of the weakest recently, made the most substantial gain.

While Italian government 7s were in demand during the greater part of the day and finished a point higher, Milan and Rome 6½s sank to new record lows, the former getting below 40 for the first time. Both these issues are selling for half their 1935 high prices. There was an unusually large volume of selling in United Kingdom 5½s. Cuba Public Works 5½s were strong.

Corporate Liens Easy.

Gilt-edged domestic corporation bonds dipped slightly but again were dull. The market is looking forward with no little interest to the reception that is given to the $50,000,000 Pennsylvania company issue, offering of which is expected tomorrow at par.

Public utility bonds of the lower grade developed weakness, but the selling was restricted to holding company obligations. If the utility act is allowed to stand these bonds, which the companies had not figured on paying off for many years to come, must be retired in three to five years.

Transfers aggregated $11,145,000, par value, compared with $16,820,000 the day before.

Swiss Oil Co.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me information on Swiss Oil company stock?—P. C. A.

Answer: Swiss Oil company is a small concern in comparison to the major petroleum companies. It produces oil, mostly in eastern Kentucky, refines it and markets it through 50 bulk and service stations in a radius of 150 miles of its plants.

The company has reported a profit in nine out of the last 10 years. The four year record of earnings follows:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per share.
1934	$4,014,000	$281,000	$0.30
1933	3,316,000	179,000	.19
1932	4,472,000	203,000	.21
1931	5,051,000	* 44,000	* .05

*Loss.

Current position on Dec. 31, 1934, was adequate. Current assets were $1,256,000 and current liabilities were $346,000. During 1934 the company retired its $430,000 of funded debt without recourse to bank loans.

Capitalization now consists of 924,165 shares of $1 par stock. Dividends are not paid at any regular rate. A 10 cent payment on July 1 brought 1935 disbursements up to 20 cents a share. Payments in 1934 totaled 30 cents a share. Nothing was paid in the three preceding years.

The stock is speculative.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate receiving your rating of the Boston and New York Air Line first 4s, due Aug. 1, 1955.—W. L.

Answer: The $3,775,000 of Boston and New York Air Line Railroad company first mortgage 4s, due Aug. 1, 1955, are secured by a first lien on secondary track. Extensive development of the shore line road made the 51.3 miles of road from New Haven to Willimantic, Conn., the security for the bonds, a less desirable route, since its curves and grades are not especially suitable for the high speed trafic of recent years.

The bonds were assumed by New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company. Earnings of this road have followed a downward trend since 1929. The company has failed to cover fixed charges in full for 3½ years. Although it has leaned rather heavily on government aid, current position is unbalanced.

In view of the unfavorable factors and the absence of any present indication of improvement, the bonds are placed in the speculative bracket.

33 BANKS QUIT FDIC IN LAST TWO MONTHS

Feud with Nichols, Lone Holdout, Over.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Thirty-three banks have withdrawn from the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation since June 30, most of them because of the permanent insurance plan for banks recently enacted by congress, it was learned today.

Whether large banks, which under the leadership of the Guaranty Trust company once threatened to withdraw from the FDIC, will carry out the threat is still uncertain. Most of the banks which have withdrawn have been small.

At the same time it was learned the FDIC is on the verge of closing its long feud with J. M. Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood.

Forget Back Payments.

After Nichols, lone holdout, had announced in Chicago that he would come in under the new permanent plan but not pay any back assessments, it was learned the FDIC will not insist on back payments.

All previous assessments paid by banks, which, unlike the First National of Englewood, agreed to come under the temporary insurance of deposits, are being rebated to these banks anyway, Leo T. Crowley, FDIC chairman, pointed out. The sums paid in previously as assessments are being credited against the amounts which the banks will have to pay under the new levy of 1-12 of 1 per cent on their deposits.

No Assessment Credit.

Since Nichols has no previous assessments to his bank's credit, he merely will not have any sum to offset against the new assessment, which he agrees to pay.

Officials of the FDIC could not explain why small banks would withdraw from the permanent insurance of deposits, which is generally regarded as bearing more heavily on large than on small banks, except on the theory that the margin of profits, out of which the new assessments of 1-12 of 1 per cent on deposits must be paid, is narrower in small banks.

The Guaranty Trust company of New York, one of the three largest banks in the country, at one time considered leaving the FDIC and the federal reserve system, and it was understood that other large banks might follow.

Cost Stumbling Block.

Guaranty's primary objection was against the first "permanent" insurance plan which was repealed by the new banking act, but the trust company also objected to the FDIC proposal that banks be assessed 1-8 of 1 per cent on deposits. Whether the reduction from 1-8 to 1-12 will mollify the bank is not known. FDIC officials would only say that Guaranty had not notified them of its intentions.

Guaranty Trust and other large banks have pointed out publicly that deposit insurance, limited to $5,000 on each account, does their depositors, most of whom are large, very little good. On the other hand a levy of 1-12 of 1 per cent means that the banks must pay out many million dollars annually, in effect building up insurance reserves for small banks and paying heavily for protection which gives them very scanty covering.

New Law Ties Banks Closely to U. S. Credit

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[This is the last of a series of three articles analyzing the new banking act of 1935.]

LEO T. CROWLEY.

One of the most significant features of the banking act of 1935 is the fact that it ties up the banks more definitely than ever before with government credit. With the provisions of title II., of the act setting the stage for still further unloading of government bonds on the twelve federal reserve banks and their thousands of member institutions, and with nearly 40 per cent of the loans and investments of commercial banks already absorbed by loans to the federal government, the solvency of the nation's banks will depend to a greater extent than ever before on the condition of government credit.

If the federal government continues to run up big deficits, with the attendant necessity of borrowing billions in additional loans each year to cover those deficits, it is a foregone conclusion that most of the money will have to be lent by the banks.

Market Support Expected.

Facing this situation, the bankers are not opposed to the provisions of title II. which force the twelve federal reserve banks to buy government bonds at the bidding of the "open market committee"—composed of the seven members of the reserve board in Washington plus the five representatives of the reserve banks. Knowing that the commercial banks will have to buy more and more government bonds, the bankers believe that the reserve banks must stand ready to support the market for such bonds in an emergency, because a severe break in government bond prices, with the commercial banks loaded up with such bonds, might quickly result in sufficient losses to impair the capital of banks all over the country.

Bankers take the view that if the federal government is going to keep on borrowing and spending money in excess of its revenues then it is futile to object to a law facilitating the handling of the deficit by the banks.

Bankers' Views on Plan.

Their philosophy toward the provisions of title II. revamping the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation is much the same. Those who run well managed sound bands deplore the deposit insurance system which drains funds from good banks to protect the depositors in weaker institutions. They agree with a statement made last week by Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the FDIC, who showed that a big danger in the deposit insurance scheme lay in the fact that it encouraged bankers to make riskier loans on the assumption that they could take longer chances because the depositors were not likely to become disturbed as long as they were insured. Crowley said that the insurance was prompting local pressure on the banks to lend money less conservatively.

Leading bankers, however, accept deposit insurance as politically unavoidable at this time, and they regard the provisions of title I of the new banking act, stipulating a $5,000 maximum of insurance on individual deposits and annual assessments on banks of 1-12 of 1 per cent of their total deposits, as much more desirable than the original plan provided for in the banking act of 1933.

Regard Title III Constructive.

Although the bankers' attitude toward titles I and II is that of resignation and thankfulness that the provisions are not worse, title III is generally regarded as a constructive piece of permanent legislation.

Title III makes no fundamental changes. It is largely a modification of unworkable or incomplete provisions contained in the banking act of 1933, which was passed by congress in the period of turmoil following the bank moratorium, and hence needed refinement and alteration in many details.

As far as the public is concerned, the most noteworthy provision is that abolishing double liability on all national bank stock on and after July 1, 1937. Earlier legislation removed the double liability on new issues of national bank stock and title III merely applies that exemption to shares already outstanding.

U.S. Ships War Supplies to Italy in July

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Italy's preparations for war against Ethiopia and the continued shrinkage of American agricultural exports while imports of farm products increase, were shown in department of commerce figures released today.

Scrap iron and steel shipments to Italy during July amounted to 62,169 tons of raw materials for war. This was more than double the 26,271 tons in June and nearly treble the 21,803 tons shipped in July, 1934. The value of the shipments was $610,161 in July, compared with $240,367 in June.

The sharp increase in Italian shipments was all the more noticeable because total shipments to all countries dropped from 215,098 tons in June to 205,779 in July. Incidentally, Ethiopia was conspicuous for its absence, not a pound having been sent to the African empire in the first seven months of this year.

Steel Purchases Soar.

Japan was the leading purchaser in the first seven months, with 806,328 tons, compared with 508,885 in the same period of 1934. Italy was next with 204,730 tons, compared with 116,111 in the 1934 period. The United Kingdom was the third largest customer with 145,349 tons, compared with 86,304 a year ago. Britain's purchases in July were only 9,279 against 22,825 tons in June.

The United States imported 9,196,332 pounds of meat products in July, 1935, against 9,108,166 in June and 1,092,853 in July, 1934. This country exported 13,083,460 pounds of meat products in July, 1935; 12,394,253 in June, and 25,780,831 in July, 1934.

Imports of meat products in the first seven months of this year were 67,202,628, against 32,066,548 in the corresponding 1934 period.

Exports were 100,352,227 pounds this year and 147,809,640 pounds in the first seven months of 1934.

Grain Imports Up Sharply.

A similar situation exists with grains. In July, 1935, grain imports were valued at $5,835,467, against $5,913,594 in June and $1,847,061 in July, 1934. Exports of grain in July, 1935, fell to $2,031,214 from the $2,529,927 reported in June and $2,553,217 in July, 1934.

Grain imports during the first seven months of this year totaled $40,984,906, against $10,148,108 during the corresponding portion of last year. Exports shrank to $15,464,623, against $24,075,481 during the first seven months of 1934.

Presented in bushels the shift is even more pointed. United States imports of corn during the first seven months of this year, measured in bushels, increased more than 1,300 per cent and wheat imports jumped 410 per cent. At the same time corn exports dropped from 1,706,026 bushels to 106,887 and wheat exports fell to 133,950 bushels from 14,842,709 bushels.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO TESTS DIESEL AGAINST STEAM LOCOMOTIVES

A giant Diesel electric locomotive, built for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to enable that road to see what a Diesel electric can do in comparison with steam, yesterday pulled the Capitol Limited out of the city on its run to Washington. Having 3,600 horse power, the engine is said to be able to pull a train of twenty standard sized passenger coaches at a speed of ninety or more miles an hour.

"I don't believe that steam power is finished yet," Daniel Willard, veteran president of the road, was quoted as saying, "but we shall carry on a study with the two forms of motive power to determine which is better for modern needs."

The new Diesel electric, it was said, will permit the use of standard weight equipment at speeds comparable to those of the new streamlined trains of the Zephyr type. This will enable the railroads to keep in operation equipment costing millions of dollars which otherwise might have to be scrapped.

The Baltimore and Ohio's latest Diesel electric is a twin locomotive, consisting of two 1,800 horse power units which are operated under a single control.

ROOSEVELT SEES STABLE MONEY AS GOLD SUIT CURB

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was reported tonight to be counting on stable prices to bulwark his monetary policies against potential damage claims of $7,000,000,000 until the law banning gold clause suits becomes effective Jan. 1. Legislation withdrawing all rights to sue the government for damages attributed to dollar devaluation was signed by the executive yesterday.

Suits may be filed in the intervening four months, but Roosevelt was reported by congressional leaders to have passed word that he believed prices would remain sufficiently stable to preclude proof of losses arising from confiscation of gold and reduction of the dollar's gold content. It was that assurance which shook off a last minute deadlock on one of the administration's vital bills and permitted the house and senate to work out a compromise.

Administration leaders sought the legislation after the Supreme court held the government was not justified in retracting promises to pay gold clause bonds in gold, but that holders of the securities under litigation could not recover because they had failed to show damage. That left the path open for holders of more than $10,000,000,000 in gold clause obligations to redeem them for around $17,000,000,000 in present currency should they be able to prove damages.

GENERAL MOTORS TO SPEND $2,000,000 ON NEW YORK UNIT

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—New construction which will make its plant here the largest single production unit of the corporation was announced today by General Motors.

The company revealed that it will construct three new buildings for the Fisher Body and Chevrolet Motor companies at Tarrytown at an approximate cost of $2,000,000. The move will make the local plant the principal producer of the company's motor products. Heretofore it has been the largest production unit of Chevrolet Motors alone.

The corporation also will build a larger freight dock and will dredge the Hudson river to provide better overseas shipping facilities. The corporation hopes to have the new construction completed within two months.

Charge 'Dawes' Loan Violated Illinois Laws

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation's loan of 80 million dollars made several years ago to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago, which is now being liquidated under a receivership, was contrary to the constitution and laws of the state of Illinois, it was charged today in federal court.

The allegation, made by Priscilla Alden Briggs and Joseph A. Bear, as trustees of the Helen Cecile Bear trust fund, was in an answer to the suit of the United States and the RFC to recover from stockholders of the bank.

Contend U. S. Can't Recover.

The defendants also contended that the government could not recover as to 50 million dollars, the amount of one of its loans to the bank, because of a provision in an amendment to the RFC act that no loans should be approved for any financial institution which included among its officers or directors any one who had been an RFC director within twelve months.

The defendants charge "on information and belief that Charles G. Dawes was a member of the board of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company on or before Oct. 5, 1932, and on or before that date was also a director of RFC." The loan was made on Dec. 24, 1932. The other loan to the bank was for 30 million dollars.

The loans were made "outside the ordinary scope and course of the banking business," the answers stated, and "none of the stockholders consented thereto. The loans and contracts are in effect a mode of liquidation not authorized by the statutes of Illinois.

Charge RFC Not Creditor.

"Loans and contracts, in effect, constituted a sale and transfer to the complainant of all assets of the said bank, and the complainant is therefore not a creditor within the meaning of the constitution and laws of the state of Illinois.

"At the time the loan and contracts were made a great national banking crisis existed throughout the nation. Banks throughout the western part of the United States were dependent upon Chicago banks. If Chicago banks failed, the entire banking structure of the western part of the United States would collapse. The loans were really made for the protection of the banking structure in the middle west, and it is unfair that the defendants be singled out to repay a loan for the benefit of the banks in the western part of the United States."

SHARE MARKET RALLIES AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Entire List Points Higher at Close.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—The share market regained its balance in the late trading today after weathering a fresh run of selling orders that bore prices down as much as 1 and 2 points in some groups. Early losses were in most important shares recovered and here and there were replaced with net gains. However, net declines exceeded advances on the day.

The closing gong found virtually the whole list pointing upward and the "bull" contingent once more radiating confident smiles.

Long Term "Bears" Scarce.

The street appeared to hold the opinion that the main trend of values would not be swerved off the upward road. Few "bears" could be found for a long term position, although there were many willing to assume a short position temporarily.

No live news of consequence was forthcoming to influence a rightabout in sentiment and the consensus seemed to be that the list had a little shaking out coming to it after its long climb and that the heavy grist of radical legislation with which congress bowed itself out of the picture was seized upon as a sufficiently good excuse for the "correction."

The midweek trade reviews were not especially helpful one way or the other.

Utility Group Stronger.

Utility shares showed more spunk than they have since the enactment of the holding company bill with its revised "death sentence" clause. Several members of the group, which had been under a drumfire of selling orders for the last week or more, heartened the trade with fractional gains on the day. Some of the preferreds of American and Foreign Power, an outstanding target of the bears, finished 1 to 2 points higher. American Waterworks rose nearly a point.

In the automobile sector Chrysler moved up nearly a point and General Motors and Auburn recovered most of their early losses. Rails were erratic with changes narrow. Farm implements moved ahead and coppers and silvers were firm.

Some of the oils did better. Phillips resumed its upward movement to around the best price of the year and Consolidated hardened on dividend resumption. Steel shares firmed up after early weakness.

CHICAGO STOCKS DULL

The Chicago Stock exchange yesterday experienced its dullest full day of trading since Aug. 6. The turnover was only 34,000 shares.

Prices continued soft, but the declines were much less sharp than in Tuesday's break. Only 81 issues were traded, 28 at unchanged prices, as some evidence of leveling off was noted. Eighteen advanced and 35 lost ground.

Continental Steel made the one sharp recovery, gaining 1⅜ point. Central Illinois Public Service regained ¾. Chicago corporation common held steady in the largest turnover of the day—5,000 shares. Other active issues to resist pressure were Bendix, Central South West Utilities, Cities Service, Cord, and National Gypsum. Fractional gains were made by Electric Household, Swift, Houdaille B, Ryerson, and Chicago Mail Order.

Steel Output Eases ½ Point to 50 Per Cent

Raw steel production declined half a point in the week ended Aug. 27, to 50 per cent of capacity, the first recession since the week of July 4, the magazine Iron Age announced yesterday. A drop in tin plate output and delays in automotive specifications were responsible for the slight dip.

The extent of improvement since last year is realized when the current operating rate is compared with the 19 per cent level of a year ago. The falling off in tin plate production from 78 to 70 per cent of capacity was in line with seasonal expectations. The American Metal Market says this year's production of tin plate will exceed the 1929 high mark.

The delay in automotive releases is confined mostly to the Chicago district. At other centers, especially Cleveland and Pittsburgh, shipping orders from the automobile industry are rising.

Auto Demand Big Factor.

Sensitiveness of steel mill operations to fluctuation in automotive steel orders draws attention to the absence of large scale demands from the building industry and the railroads which in normal times serve as balancing factors, the journal says. Miscellaneous steel business, much of it directly or indirectly growing out of improved buying power among the farmers, continues to improve. Sheet business has risen 5 points to 70 per cent of capacity in consequence.

Highway and grade separation work, which has been counted upon as a source of large orders for steel, may be soon be given a lift, if, as is now expected, Washington raises its wage limit on federal allotments for road projects. This move is in order, according to the review, because states have been unable or unwilling to supplement federal funds.

Guffey Coal Bill Problem.

While the adjournment of congress had ended many uncertainties, it has also introduced some new ones, the magazine says. Among these is the fate of the Guffey coal act. Steel companies with "captive" mines estimate that the law will raise coal and coke costs upward of 40 cents a ton, which in turn may call for a boost in pig iron prices.

The Italo-Ethiopian war scare has not yet affected foreign demand for American iron and steel other than scrap. A shipment of 7,200 tons of scrap left Boston for Italy last week. Scrap prices remain buoyant and another advance in the Philadelphia district has raised the Iron Age composite from $12.50 to $12.58 a gross ton. Composite prices for finished steel and pig iron remain at 2.214 cents a pound and $17.84 a gross ton, respectively.

ITALIAN LIRA RALLIES; FRANC AND POUND EASE

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The Italian lira rallied further today, but the existence of continued speculative pressure against it was indicated by an increase in the discount on forward contracts. The quotation for "spot" lire advanced 2 points to 8.19 cents, while the discount on 90 day futures widened to 70 points, compared with 65 points on Tuesday and 55 points on Monday.

Belgas and guilders were the only other important foreign exchanges to gain in terms of the dollar. The pound sterling dropped ⅛ cent to $4.97¾, the franc eased ⅛ point to 6.62½ cents, the Swiss franc fell 1½ points to 32.68½ cents, and Canadian dollars dipped 3⅛ points at 99.78¾ cents.

The sag in the French franc raised the value of the dollar against francs to $1.0013 from $1.0011 yesterday, and based upon the old parity the dollar was valued at 59.14 cents, against 59.13 cents yesterday.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported the arrival of $302,700 gold from India and the release from earmark of $106,200.

The London gold price was advanced two pence an ounce, to 139 shillings 11½ pence.

U.S. STEEL CORP. BEGINS SHAKEUP IN OPERATIONS

Illinois, Carnegie to Run as Unit.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Taking its first step in the expected shakeup of personnel and operating structure the United States Steel corporation announced yesterday in New York that its two most important subsidiaries, Illinois Steel and Carnegie Steel, will be operated as a single unit.

B. F. FAIRLESS.

Benjamin F. Fairless, who resigned as executive vice president of the Republic Steel corporation, effective Sept. 15, to go with United States Steel, will be in charge of operation under the new plan, which becomes effective Oct. 1.

Action of United States Steel in selecting Fairless to head the two companies is said to be a part of a far reaching change in the personnel of "Big Steel" which has suffered sharp losses in revenues at a time when smaller companies were operating on a profitable basis.

Secret Conferences Reported.

That officials of United States Steel were holding secret conferences in New York recently to act on changes in personnel and methods was reported exclusively in THE TRIBUNE on July 31.

Yesterday's announcement said that under the plan of unified operation of Illinois and Carnegie Steel companies, production and sales will be controled from a central office to be established in Pittsburgh.

"It is believed," the announcement said "this plan will simplify and improve procedure in respect to production and sales in the Pittsburgh-Chicago districts."

Officials of the Illinois Steel company, whose executive offices are at 208 South La Salle street, said they knew nothing of the New York announcement or what it would mean to the Chicago office of the subsidiary. They admitted, however, that the action is probably a part of the expected big shakeup.

May Have New Name.

Reports from New York said that it is possible a new name may be selected for the combined companies. Nothing was said regarding what changes will be made in the stafs of the two companies, although action in this respect is expected within thirty days.

Reports are current in steel circles that a number of other important changes in the steel corporation companies are impending. Last July it was said that the conferences on these changes were being kept so secret that they were held in a New York hotel instead of in the corporation's offices.

Although decentralization of the operations of United States Steel along geographic lines has been a matter of study since 1927, when Myron C. Taylor became chairman of the finance committee, it is said that consideration of a shakeup of personnel and decided changes in methods have been a recent development brought about by the failure of "Big Steel" to make as good an earnings record as some of its competitors.

The first step in the program developed from Taylor's study was the revision of the capital structure of the corporation in 1929, by the redemption of $370,000,000 of bonds of the parent company and its subsidiaries. The second called for the

JOBS AND WAGES GAIN DESPITE PASSING OF NRA

Notwithstanding elimination of the National Recovery act last May employment showed definite improvement in July, 1935, over July, 1934, according to a survey by National Industrial Conference board, released today. The number of workers employed during July this year was 2½ per cent higher than in July, 1934, on the basis of reports from representative concerns in twenty-five manufacturing industries. The average work week increased 7.1 per cent and combined work hours were up 9.7 per cent.

The average rate of pay rose also. Average weekly earnings increased 9.3 per cent, average hourly earnings 1.7 per cent, and total pay rolls increased 12 per cent.

Total man hours worked in July, 1935, gained 0.5 per cent over June, 1935, defying the usual seasonal trend. Although hourly earning dropped 0.2 per cent, an increase in the average work week from 35.9 to 36.4 hours raised average weekly earnings from $21.46 to $21.75.

In comparison with July, 1933, hourly earnings jumped 31.1 per cent. Average weekly earnings rose only 12½ per cent, however, due to a 15.2 per cent reduction in hours per work week. The cost of living, according to the survey, rose 9.8 per cent, which resulted in a gain of 2.3 per cent in real weekly earnings.

In July, 1935, the number of workers employed was 17.6 per cent higher than in July, 1933. Although total hours worked were 0.3 per cent lower, total pay rolls were 32.3 per cent higher.

COMMODITIES SLIGHTLY LOWER, INDEX INDICATES

The level of commodity prices moved slightly lower in the last week after having risen steadily since the end of June, Dun & Bradstreet reported yesterday. Cotton, silk, hogs, steers, lard, coffee, and tin were prominent in the decline. Grains, sugar, hides, rubber, wool, and lead registered net gains.

The Dun & Bradstreet food index declined 1 cent last week after rising continuously since the beginning of July. As of Aug. 27 the figure stood at $2.74 against $2.39 at the same date last year.

35 Giant Peaches Fill Bushel Basket; Set Record

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The Simpson Orchard company today established a unique record for Knox county, when a bushel basket was completely filled with 35 peaches, Hale variety. This county is noted for its large peaches but has never produced such large specimens as were packed today. The two largest were 22 ounces each. The top of the basket, when filled, showed only 14 peaches.

Cohen, SEC Division Head, Joins Private Concern

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Leon Cohen, assistant director of the trading and exchange division of the SEC, has resigned, to become treasurer and vice president of the Standard National corporation, realty company of New York. Cohen has been with the SEC since July, 1934.

Willys to Begin Building 10,000 Cars on Sept. 3

Toledo, O., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Production of 10,000 Willys automobiles will begin here Sept. 3, it was announced today by David R. Wilson, receiver, who said the death this week of John N. Willys will not affect reorganization or production. Shipment of finished cars will begin Oct. 14. Election of a successor to Willys as president of the company is expected shortly.

WORLD OUTPUT OF GOLD IN JULY SETS NEW MARK

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The American Bureau of Metal Statistics announced today that world production of gold in July totaled 2,499,000 ounces, the highest monthly figure on record. This compared with a June output of 2,389,000 ounces.

Production in the United States in July was 344,000 ounces against 280,000 in June. Canadian production was 278,000 ounces against 286,000. Africa produced 927,000 ounces, as against 889,000. Russian production was estimated at 350,000 ounces, the same as in June.

UTILITY HOLDING COMPANY VOTES USUAL DIVIDENDS

Death Sentence Act Fails to Halt Action.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Confident that the courts will protect the utility companies "against attempts to destroy them through punitive legislation," directors of the North American company, one of the largest utility holding units, today voted regular quarterly dividends of 75 cents a share on preferred and 25 cents a share on common shares. Payment will be made Oct. 1 to holders of record on Sept. 1.

James F. Fogarty, president of the company, in a statement issued to stockholders in connection with the dividend notice, declared that the "asset value of investments in subsidiaries and other companies is equal to almost $2.50 for each $1 of holding company senior securities in the hands of the public.

Claims Values Are Honest.

"These asset values," he asserted, represent honest, legitimate investments and are entitled to, and we believe will receive, the protection of the courts against attempts to destroy them through punitive legislation."

"After consideration of these facts," declared Fogarty, "directors today declared the dividends on the preferred and common stocks notwithstanding the passage of the public utility act of 1935—the Wheeler-Rayburn bill.

Fogarty referred to the record of the bill in congress as showing "the purely political character of the action."

"We had hoped for the defeat of destructive provisions of the proposed legislation," he declared, "and for the enactment of a sound and constructive regulatory measure which would have eliminated the much publicized abuses to which the industry generally is strongly opposed. Even as to the regulatory provisions of the present act, applied to operating companies, the measure is unsound and will work to the detriment of the industry and investors.

Hopes for Future Justice.

"We still feel that common sense and justice will prevail under the constitution against this law, which, as its stands, subjects investments honestly made and administered to the hazard of impairment.

"We reassert that there is nothing in the record of the North American company and of other sound holding companies to warant such punitive legislation as the 'public utility act of 1935.' We propose to continue every legitimate effort to protect the interests of our security holders.

"The time remaining before Jan. 1, 1938, the date on which the death sentence provision becomes operative, should under the force of public opinion permit its modification."

ROOSEVELT SIGNS INTERSTATE OIL CURB AGREEMENT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP) President Roosevelt gave final approval today to the interstate oil compact designed to conserve oil and gas through prevention of physical waste.

He signed a congressional resolution giving approval to the agreement, which was drawn in Dallas, Tex., Feb. 16, by petroleum states, under the direction of Govs. James V. Allred of Texas and E. W. Marland of Oklahoma.

Six states have signed the compact and others may do so at their pleasure. The constitution makes consent of congress necessary for the interstate pact to become effective.

POWER OUTPUT CREEPS NEARER ALL-TIME RECORD

Runs 11.6 Pct. Higher Than Year Ago.

The national power output last week crept nearer a new all-time record by stepping up another notch to the third highest figure for any week and the best for any summer week, the Edison Electric institute's records disclosed yesterday. In the preceding week the total was the fourth highest ever registered.

The total of 1,839,815,000 kilowatt hours increased 0.3 per cent over the preceding week, a slightly more than seasonal gain, and was 11.6 per cent higher than a year ago, when the total reached 1,648,107,000. The gain over a year ago was the largest since the 11.9 per cent increase in the week ended May 12, 1934, and compared with a rise of 9.5 per cent in the preceding week of this year.

Auto Plant Activities Aid

Trade analysts say the recent expansion in power production is largely the result of increased manufacturing activity influenced by the preparations of automobile makers for the earlier introduction of new models.

While electricity produced in the Chicago area last week fell slightly below that of the preceding week, it recorded an increase of 5.9 per cent over a year ago, the sharpest year to year gain since the first week in May. The total, reported by the Commonwealth Edison company, was 102,615,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 103,644,000 in the preceding week and 96,911,000 in the corresponding week of 1934.

Adjusted Gain 7.7 Per Cent.

If the amount of power used by industry of Progress last year were added the gain over a year ago would amount to 7.7 per cent. The drop rise was attributed to hotter weather and a steadily improved industrial load.

Following are the output and percentage gains compared with last year for the Chicago district [last three ciphers omitted]:

Wk. ended.	1935.	1934.	Actual *
Aug. 24	...102,615	96,911	5.9 7.7
Aug. 17	...103,664	100,331	3.3 5.1
Aug. 10	...103,644	101,574	2.0 3.7
Aug. 3	103,980	99,148	4.9 6.7

*Sales to A Century of Progress excluded.

The Rocky mountain region again led in the increase over a year ago with a gain of 37.7 per cent. Increases by other regions were: New England, 9.4 per cent; middle Atlantic, 9.3; central industrial, 12.7; west central, 9.5; southern states, 8.5, and Pacific coast, 8.5.

HUDSON MOTORS BALANCE SHEET POSITION BETTER

Hudson Motor Car company yesterday reported a substantial improvement in cash and working capital as of June 30. Current assets amounted to $13,630,395, against current liabilities of $3,019,978, compared with $8,276,978 and $6,138,345, respectively, on Dec. 31, 1934.

Cash totaled $9,475,890, compared with $2,575,538 at the end of last year. Accounts receivable during the six months increased from $745,275 to $1,010,966, while inventories were reduced from $4,562,045 to $3,062,152. Accounts payable dropped from $3,125,369 to $1,776,276.

It was explained that the improvement in working capital position resulted partially from $6,000,000 in new capital obtained through the private sale of first mortgage serial notes last April, but excluding this capital a gain of about $2,400,000 in working capital was obtained through operations.

Auto Registrations in U. S. Gain to 24,933,408

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—During 1934 a total of 24,933,408 passenger cars and trucks were registered in the United States according to figures issued today from tabulations by the United States bureau of public roads. This was a gain of 4.6 per cent.

BURNHAM'S

ACT NOW

It is to your particular advantage to register now even if you cannot start your course until later. Call, phone, or write at once.

The easy-to-learn Burnham System quickly enables you to become a skilled beauty operator. Plenty of living models. You learn by doing rather than by studying. Each teacher a specialist. Fewer pupils per teacher: 64 years' knowing how to teach gives you a flying start.

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY MORE GIRLS ENROLL IN BURNHAM'S THAN IN ANY OTHER BEAUTY SCHOOL.

BURNHAM'S AWARDS TRIPS TO PARIS TO STUDENT. Geneve Huffman, winner of semi-annual Burnham scholarship for efficiency while in training, sailed June 15 on S. S. Manhattan with all expenses paid. Burnham's offers opportunities not found elsewhere.
